U.S. 'FINDS' NEEDLES BUT HAYSTACK MISSING

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The air force has recorded four radar glimpses that may have come from those elusive 350 million tiny copper "needles" hurled into orbit Oct. 21. But it still doesn't know enough to be sure where they are.

The "needles," known technically as dipoles were intended to reflect high frequency radar and radio. They are only a third the thickness of a human hair each and about seven tenths of an inch long. They should be in orbit about 2,100 miles above the earth.

Full Autonomy Asked For Victoria College

Recognition of Victoria College as "an autonomous, degree-granting institution at the earliest moment they feel ready to accept such status" was recommended by Dean Geoffrey C. Andrew of UBC at a windup dinner of the Vancouver Island conference on higher education at Nanaimo Saturday.

Dean Andrew, often referred to as the "deputy president" of UBC, added that he thought the independent status could be achieved within three years, during which time "the whole subject of future relationships could be reviewed."

Dean Andrew's remarks came as something of a bombshell at the conclusion of the conference, as they do not coincide exactly with the views

previously expressed by UBC president Dr. Norman A. M. MacKenzie.

Dr. MacKenzie has urged close co-operation between the two institutions on a federated system, with the epicentre at Point Grey.

CLEARHOUSE SHAKEN

Dr. Joseph B. Clearhouse of Victoria, who was asked to thank the speaker at the Nanaimo dinner, was visibly moved by the speaker's remarks. As president of Victoria College council he has been in the forefront of the move for independence and has drafted enabling legislation for presentation to the legislature.

In an amplifying statement to the Times, Dean Andrew said today:

"I want to emphasize that I was expressing my own views and not UBC policy. 'Nevertheless, I think the pattern I suggested was in keeping with the tradition of British institutions, of autonomy within the Commonwealth, so to speak. 'I do not share the federated view. It seems to me that Ontario is a good example, and that Queens and Western have done well on their own.

CALIFORNIA EXAMPLE

"The federated system in California does not seem to me a model, since the regional universities do not enjoy local authority.

Top IRA Officers Caught in Raids

DUBLIN (UPI) — The government staged a series of lightning raids against the outlawed Irish Republican Army today in the first major police crackdown since the Second World War in an effort to end mounting violence along the border with Northern Ireland.

Special branch detectives searched houses and seized suspects throughout the country, with at least 12 men seized in Dublin alone. Police said among those arrested were "some of the IRA's most senior officers." More arrests were expected.

'Family' Ties Must Not Be Ruined

BRUSSELS (Reuters) — Britain told members of the European Common Market last month that she wants to be a full member of the European trade group but would not be able to join if the move meant grave loss or ruin for Commonwealth members, it was disclosed today.

In discussing British motives for membership in the market — formally called the European Economic Community — Heath declared:

"In saying that we wish to join the EEC we mean that we desire to become full, wholehearted and active members of the European community in its widest sense and to go forward with you in the building of a new Europe."

However, Heath said he was sure Britain could not join under conditions in which the Anglo-Commonwealth trade connection "was cut with grave loss, and even ruin, for some of the Commonwealth countries."

Heath said Britain had to think deeply about the effect on the Commonwealth of any future British membership in the Common Market. "We believe that it is in the interest of all of us around this table that nothing should be done which would be likely to damage the essential interests of

Confident Solutions Can Be Found

Heath said Britain is "confident that solutions can be found to Commonwealth problems fully compatible with the substance and the spirit of the Treaty of Rome." In 1957, the Rome treaty linked West Germany, France, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg in the Common Market.

Britain "accepts without qualifications" the treaty objectives laid down in provisions for eliminating internal tariffs between the partner nations; for the establishment of a common tariff against imports from outside the market and for common commercial and agricultural policies, Heath said.

"We think it should be possible to deal with our special problems by means of protocols" to the treaty.

He said there was a need for "some adjustments" in the market's common external tariff. If the tariff of the enlarged community was to be acceptable to the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade and to third countries, "it cannot remain at precisely the level of the existing one."

He proposed what he called a "simple solution" — to accept "the structure of the present EEC tariff as the basis of the common tariff of the enlarged community." He also suggested a 20 per cent "linear cut" in the community's present tariff.

Heath said the British "fully share the aims and objectives, political and otherwise, of those who drew up the 'Bonn' declaration" in which the six Common Market members pledged they would seek close political unity.

Heath said he believed the President of the University of British Columbia since 1944, Dr. Norman MacKenzie today announced his retirement, effective next summer. (See story page 33.)

Russ Urge Four Power A-Test Ban

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union proposed today that the United States, Britain and France agree with it now to ban all nuclear tests. First Western reaction was skeptical since the Soviet proposal seemed to call for an unlimited and uncontrolled test moratorium.

The proposal was made on the eve of the resumption of nuclear test ban talks in Geneva by the Soviet Union, Britain and the U.S.

France, the fourth nuclear power, is not a participant but a Soviet statement said the time has come to invite the French.

The Russians released a proposed four-article draft agreement and in the accompanying statement hinted they may resume tests if France does.

Under the Soviet proposal the four powers would agree to halt tests in the atmosphere, under water and in outer space. The argument was that each power now has the means of detecting such tests and cheating would be impossible.

The four powers also would undertake not to hold nuclear weapons tests underground while negotiating an agreement on a control system that could detect such blasts.

REPLY TO U.S.

Article three contained a direct reply to the American announcement that it was going to continue underground tests regardless of the reopening of talks. It said:

"The states participating in this agreement assume the commitment not to carry out any underground tests of nuclear weapons before they reach agreement among themselves on a system of control for such tests as a component part of international control for carrying out the agreement on general and complete disarmament."

May Seek Other Power Sources

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP) — Interior Secretary Stewart Udall said today he has no intention of intruding in Canada's domestic quarrels but he is "getting discouraged" with the lack of Canadian progress in ratifying the Columbia River power treaty.

If the Canadians do not ratify the treaty within "the next few months," the United States will have to consider "alternative plans" for supplying more power in the U.S. Pacific northwest, Udall added in an interview.

He indicated the future of the treaty, under which Canada and the United States would join to harness the big west coast river for power and flood control, may be discussed at another session of the Canada-U.S. ministerial committee on economic affairs expected to be held at Ottawa next January.

B.C.-OTTAWA DISAGREE

But even this discussion is unlikely to produce any firm conclusions, he added. The major roadblock was a dispute between the Canadian and British Columbia governments on the question of exporting surplus power to the U.S. and means of financing construction of three Canadian dams to feed more Columbia water into U.S. generating plants.

Canada would get half the extra power produced.

Premier Bennett of B.C. wants to sell the Canadian portion of the power back to the United States and use the proceeds to finance dam construction. Prime Minister Diefenbaker wants the power to be used in Canada to attract more industry. An argument often voiced by those opposed to power exports is that once an agreement is signed to supply a community with power it becomes almost impossible to terminate that contract without causing the consumers extreme hardship.

Udall, a former Arizona congressman, said he believes that argument is a lot of nonsense.

"That's why I spoke out rather strongly at Seattle last week," Udall said.

"What the Canadians intend to do about the Columbia River treaty is up to them. I don't expect and don't intend to intrude in their internal problems."

"But I don't think there is much force to the argument that if you contract to export power, you cannot stop the shipment once the contract is terminated."

LONG-TERM BASIS

"I'm drawing on long experience in this field. Once a contract is signed, it will be enforced, including the return of power to Canada. Naturally, a power supply contract would have to be on a fairly long-term basis."

Certain statements attributed to Udall in Seattle last week brought an official request from Justice Minister Fulton of Canada for clarification.

Fulton said press reports quoted Udall as saying he had no doubt the sale to the U.S. of Canada's portion of the Columbia River power would be approved by Ottawa and that Canadian concern over recapture of power sold to the U.S. was nonsense.

Udall issued a statement last Friday saying what he had stated in Seattle earlier in the week was that it would be "nonsense for anyone to take the position that the United States would not honor any commitment made to return the power to Canada if the Canadians so desire at the expiration of the agreed-to contract."

He said he also was looking forward to early Canadian ratification of the treaty but today he added he was "getting discouraged."

"We've done our part. We've ratified the treaty. They (the Canadians) haven't. We cannot tell them how to resolve their controversy. That would be meddling. All we can do is sit here and be wounded."

CHILDREN OF INDIA

Family Allowance Cheque 'With Love'

A family allowance cheque for $14 headed the list of weekend donations to the Times Children of India Fund as it neared $1,000.

"Please accept this cheque with love from Peter and Karen," said the note from two children who sent the cheque with their parents' approval.

Although not the largest contribution it showed that Victorians of all ages are again giving according to their means.

A donation of $5 was received from Mrs. B. Kean, 1737 Lee. "May the good Lord bless you all in helping this good work," she wrote.

The Times was also pleased today to hear from a Victoria couple who wanted to adopt a foster child through the Unitarian Service Committee which runs this service in addition to the Children of India Fund.

The current drive is devoted solely to supplying as much Canadian powdered milk as possible to starving children in India.

Other USC efforts are devoted to long range help-projects for depressed people in many lands.

"Children are fainting in schools from hunger," said USC executive director, Dr. Lotta Hirschmanova.

"The cost of a cup of coffee here can supply three ounces of powdered milk a day for an entire month in India."

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

Creating almost as much talk as the young ladies who were received for presentation by the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Peakes at the United Services Institution of Vancouver Island ball, Friday evening in the Empress Hotel, were the cowboy boots, worn with white tie and tails, by C. W. Beeler, father of one of the pretty debutantes, Mr. Beeler, a cattle and oil man from the midwest States, now lives with his family in the former Pendray home on the Esquimalt Lagoon.

A local group of foresters known as the Hoo Hoo Club held a $500 jackpot draw at its $25-a-plate dinner here last weekend.

And Hoo Hoo should the winner be? None other than B.C.'s Forests Minister Ray Williston.

Unfortunately he wasn't at the dinner, but he got the nest egg anyway because he had paid his $25.

At the UBC education conference in Nanaimo Saturday, Tony Emery told how he had dreamed of approaching that "photogenic education minister, Leslie Peterson, throwing myself at his feet, and pleading for money" for higher education.

"It didn't work," quipped Tony. "It was a case of the blond leading the blind."

Who says we in the West are becoming a bunch of mollycoddled weaklings through eating the wrong things? Guest in a local hotel the other night succeeded in swallowing part of his lower dental plate but when rushed to hospital scorned the expert attention offered and sauntered off.

Famed First World War Padre "Tubby" Clayton has a special spot in his heart for the Cockneys, 38,000 of whom were killed during the bombings of London.

Last night at dinner he told a few friends the story of the Cockney woman who was released, bloody but unbowed, from the rubble of her cellar after her house had been bombed.

An ARP worker asked as they pulled her out: "Is yer old man down below there?"

"Naw," she said, disdainfully, wiping the blood off her face. "The bloody coward's out there on a minesweeper."

With all rooms cleared of furnishings and the moving van filled, David Groos and his family thought they were well started for their new home on Newport Avenue. But they reckoned without the family cat, conspicuous at that moment by its absence.

Coaxing, cajoling, even firm words were of no help in locating the pussy and the move was held up while a thorough search ensued.

Suddenly the man of the moving van remembered a similar disappearance. "We found the cat up the chimney," he said.

"Let's look," said Mrs. Groos. Sure enough, a pair of frightened eyes stared down at her from a ledge above the fireplace.

The children coaxed. The mover gave advice. The parents spoke firmly. But the animal would not budge.

So, Phyllis Groos went into the fireplace after the cat and with a struggle, got it off the ledge and into her arms.

Both emerged covered with soot but the pilgrimage to the new house was on its way.

After years of being insulted by national and international publications who regularly refer to Vancouver as the capital of B.C., Victoria and Vancouver Island have come into their own.

A release from the Ottawa headquarters of the Unitarian Service Committee, whose Children of India Fund the Times is supporting, refers to "every province between Newfoundland and Vancouver Island."

We've heard a lot about new economies at B.C. Electric since the government took over last August.

On the basis that service is the best public relations, BCE boss Dr. Gordon Shrum tells us that the press army of 26 in the PR department has already been slashed to 14, almost half.

A Vancouver salesman is still going around in wonderment at the honesty of a Victoria citizen.

Some weeks ago he left his car in a downtown parking lot for half an hour and on leaving he handed the woman attendant a dollar bill.

Then because he was in a hurry to catch the ferry, he left without collecting any change.

Two weeks later he returned to Victoria and happened to leave his car on the same lot. But this time the attendant recognized his car and rushed over to hand him the change he hadn't had time to pick up before.

"If more people acted like that you'd get far more salesmen staying in Victoria," said the visitor.

RUSSIAN CHARGE

W. Germany Seeks 'To Rule the Waves'

LONDON (Reuters)—Russia charged today that West Germany soon "will rule the waves" of NATO "as it now rules its land forces."

The Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda, quoted by the Russian news agency Tass, made the claim in commenting on talks Friday between Finnish President Urho Kekkonen and Soviet Premier Khrushchev at Novosibirsk, Siberia.

Pravda voiced new Soviet attacks on recent Western discussions on setting up a NATO Baltic command. It declared some Scandinavian leaders "do not see or do not wish to see that a Baltic command will be nothing but a screen for the accelerated restoration of German militarism on the sea."

TENSION LOWERED

Kekkonen arrived in Helsinki from Russia Sunday and went on the air last night to urge his countrymen to tread softly for fear of shaking Soviet confidence in Finland's neutrality.

The Khrushchev-Kekkonen talks lowered tension between the two nations which developed after the Soviets sent Finland a note Oct. 30 demanding defence consultations with Finland because of an alleged war threat posed by West Germany and its NATO allies.

In the Siberian talks, Khrushchev agreed to drop the demand for the time being but made it clear he wanted Kekkonen to consult him on any "threatening" developments.

WOULD FORESTALL TALKS

Kekkonen said Sunday night that if Russian leaders could be sure of Finnish neutrality and friendship, it would not be necessary to start military consultations.

Commenting on what the Russians called the postponement of the military consultations, Pravda declared that the Soviet government went along with this but "not because it had believed the assurances of some Scandinavian statesmen who are trying to prove that the German militarist wolf had become a gentle lamb."

"No, the wolf had not ceased to be a wolf. And the recent naval manoeuvres conducted in the western part of the Baltic Sea have confirmed that. The sea power of Western Germany is rapidly increasing."

Marriage Annulled

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Superior court Judge Herman A. van der Zee Friday annulled at 37-year-old secretary's marriage to the brother of President Kennedy's press secretary, Pierre Salinger. Carmen Molina told the judge she learned two days after her Oct. 9 marriage to George Salinger, 38, that he still had a wife and four children. George is a bartender in a San Francisco tavern called the Lost Weekend.

LONG CAREER in the United States Senate ended Sunday with the death of Styles Bridges, of New Hampshire. He was the ranking Republican on the armed services committee and a member of the foreign relations committee. Entering the Senate in 1937 when Republicans controlled Congress, he rose rapidly. Ill since last August, he was 63 at the time of his death.

Addict Gives Up At Police Station

A self-admitted drug addict, who turned himself in to city police, today was sentenced to 20 days in jail by Magistrate William Ostler on a vagrancy charge.

Detective Deans Blackstock told the court Leonard Hulley, 29, no fixed address, was found near the city police station.

"He really just turned himself in," the detective said.

Hulley said he had spent five years in the penitentiary for trafficking in drugs but had been out since June.

Trading Blocs 'Alarm' Hees

GENEVA (Reuters) — Canadian Trade Minister George Hees expressed alarm here today lest massive emergent international economic blocs lead to world trade restrictions.

Hees told the opening session of a four-day conference of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade that Canada would be "seriously concerned" with such restrictions.

Hees said Canada was gratified by the "imaginative and far-reaching proposals" regarding trade under consideration by the American government.

But he said "preoccupation" with possible restrictions was being given added force by Britain's current negotiation for membership in the European Common Market.

Permanent GATT officials hoped the current 33-nation meeting would result in clear-cut directives of the many problems confronting GATT.

These included world-wide agricultural protectionism, the discrimination of industrial countries against exports of underdeveloped primary producing countries, and the scant successes in recent years in achieving tariff reductions on a product-by-product basis.

Hees said the international system of international trade co-operation must not be undermined by the new economic grouping.

"We all have a common stake in a healthy and expanding world trading system," he said. "Without this even the strongest among us cannot fully prosper."

Agricultural Exports to Suffer

Hees said many GATT rules on agriculture were being frustrated.

"Agricultural exporting countries are being denied the advantages which they could reasonably expect to obtain, and to which they are entitled."

"Serious, and perhaps irreparable damage will be done to the established multilateral trading community if a better balance is not found."

"We cannot afford further delay in seeking effective actions to ensure the restoration of reasonable trading opportunities for the many countries which depend to a large extent upon agricultural exports."

Calling for a "better deal for agricultural trade," Hees said

"we must resolve to work toward the expansion of agricultural trade through the elimination of excessive protective devices which stimulate production, inhibit consumption and distort trade patterns."

Hees noted that suggestions were being made for "across-the-board" reductions in tariffs within the various commodity sectors, rather than the product-by-product method.

He added: "Canada is prepared to examine seriously any methods which would facilitate further progress in reducing tariff barriers to trade."

"We would, of course, expect that they would take into account the special position of countries like our own which depend on a more limited number of exports than the larger industrial countries or groups."

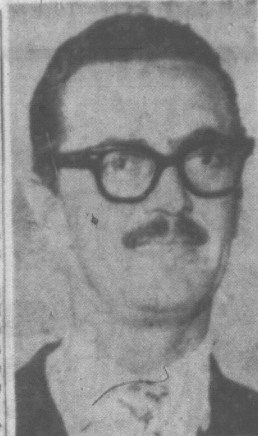

U.S. Pledges Across-Board Tariff Cuts

GENEVA (UPI) — U.S. Under-Secretary of State George W. Ball today pledged the United States to a policy of across-the-board tariff cuts rather than product-by-product negotiating.

But he warned the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) conference the United States faces difficulties in effecting a legislative changeover to implement the policy.

French Finance Minister Wilfried Baumgartner, in another address, called on the world's industrial nations to follow the lead of the European Common Market by switching their tariff policies to annual across-the-board decreases.

Baumgartner told the other 33 trade ministers or their deputies that the tariff cuts should be 20 per cent yearly. He said it was the only way to increase world commerce.

SELF-EXILED former Brazilian president Janio Quadros said Sunday in Australia he will return to his country as a private citizen in three months' time. Quadros who resigned abruptly last August saying he had been "beaten by the forces of reaction," is in Australia on the course of a world tour.

BERLIN DEMONSTRATION

Church Wreaths Start Barrage

BERLIN (Reuters) — More bullets and tear gas grenades flew across the Berlin border Sunday night as East German leader Walter Ulbricht indicated his massive wall dividing the city will remain until West Germany quits NATO.

An East German border guard fired three shots at a 27-year-old woman who scrambled unhurt through barbed wire into the American sector of Wannsee, bringing the weekend total of refugees to 21.

East Berlin police carried 15 East Berliners away in trucks after tear gas grenades failed to disperse them while they waved to relatives in the United States sector.

In another incident West Berlin police threw more than 50 tear gas bombs at East German police who bombarded West Berliners with chunks of plaster, empty bottles, bricks and concrete slabs from rooftops along the Bernauerstrasse in the French sector.

PLACE WREATHS

The Communist bombardment began when West Berliners began placing wreaths at the concrete wall in front of the Versöhnungskirche (reconciliation church), which stands in East Berlin.

There also was a brief tear gas battle between East and West Berlin police in the French sector district of Wittenau.

It began after East German police hurled paint cans at posters on the Western side showing a picture of State Security Minister Erich Mielke of East Germany and accusing him of murdering two Berlin police officials in 1931.

Meanwhile, the East German Communist newspaper Neues Deutschland carried a speech by party boss Walter Ulbricht to a four-day central committee meeting which ended Sunday.

"When West Germany leaves NATO, when the Hitler generals, militarist and revenge-seeking politicians, when the provocateurs in Schoeneberg (West Berlin city government headquarters) are out of the way, the wall will disappear of its own accord," Ulbricht said.

'PREMIER HAS A RESPONSIBILITY'

Bonner Defends Mail Campaign

Premier Bennett is perfectly entitled to mail to the public a magazine article called "Why I Took Over the B.C. Electric," Attorney-General Robert Bonner said Saturday.

Mr. Bonner was defending the action attacked by Opposition Leader Robert Strachan as using the government mailing privileges for propaganda.

"The premier has a responsibility to put out information," said Mr. Bonner, "especially when there is a great, deliberate misconstruction placed on government policy."

Mr. Bonner said this had been caused by a Toronto advertising agency which is spending $500,000 to discredit the B.C. government.

(Premier Bennett had earlier disclosed that B.C. Power Corporation, parent firm of the B.C. Electric, planned a $500,000 campaign to win public support for its bid for compensation in the takeover.)

MAKING EXCUSES

Meanwhile, B.C. Power officials said in Vancouver the premier was trying to make excuses for his takeover action.

"One can only assume that you entertain grave doubts as to the public acceptance of the justice of the method of takeover and that you feel, for the sake of your political future, you must offer some kind of excuse for your action," the officials said in an open letter to the premier.

The letter said it was "regrettable" that the premier had spent $3,000 out of his own pocket to reprint the article in an advertisement which appeared Saturday in B.C. daily newspapers.

TRIAL BY ADS

"Surely, sir, the public can make up its mind without benefit of paid advertisements?" said the letter.

"After refusing B.C. Power Corporation its petition for a judicial review, are you now proposing a trial by advertising?"

The letter said it was still not too late to redress the arbitrary B.C. Electric takeover terms.

"What we urge is that an amendment be introduced by the government at the next session of the legislature to provide for negotiation with reference to an impartial tribunal if negotiation fails."

six shared Britain's view of the Commonwealth's value to both Britain and the entire free world. "I should be misleading you if I failed to say how deeply the British feel about this association."

Trade, he continued, was one of the strongest elements in maintaining the Commonwealth association.

It would be a tragedy if British entry into the Common Market forced other Commonwealth members to change their whole pattern of trade and, perhaps as a consequence, their political orientation.

He said the economies of most Commonwealth countries had been built up on the basis of supplying the British market, which traditionally imported their goods duty-free and often on preferential terms. The British market was still highly important to the economies of most Commonwealth countries.

Mentioning agriculture, Heath said Britain trusted that when its six partners in the European Free Trade Association had explained their positions it would be possible to agree on ways to meet their legitimate interests.

"I am sure you will appreciate that, given our obligations to our EFTA partners, we should not ourselves be able to join the community until this had been done," he said.

As head of a higher education commission recently studying universities in the Antipodes, Dean Andrews recommended that Grants Commissions in New Zealand should have:

- A full-time chairman;
- Heads of University colleges and agricultural colleges;
- Laymen "in whom the public had confidence."

Dean Andrew felt that nominations might embrace about six academicians, of whom the government would select three; and eight laymen, of whom the government could choose four.

The power to make nominations, however, rested with those actually serving the universities, and not with governments.

In Victoria today, Dr. Clearhue told The Times: "I am immensely pleased with Dean Andrew's statement."

"This means that we can go ahead as a degree-granting institution. We cannot be a proper university until we have the power to grant our own degrees."

An Early Election?

MR. DIEFENBAKER'S SPEECH in Winnipeg last week indicated pretty plainly that the next general election will not be long delayed.

Of course the Prime Minister need not make up his mind now, he can order the poll when he pleases, he can postpone it to next autumn, or even to the spring of 1963.

But obviously the government's political machinery, like that of the opposition, is now operating at full speed. Both parties intend to be ready for an election in the spring or early summer of 1962.

Powerful reasons must operate in Mr. Diefenbaker's mind for and against an early appeal to the public.

On the one hand, it will be tempting to dissolve Parliament before another shocking budget of deficits is introduced, as happened in 1958, and to postpone a series of painful decisions.

On the other hand, the memory of another winter of heavy unemployment will still be fresh in the voters' minds if the election is called before midsummer. The Prime Minister, an able tactician of politics, must be weighing all these considerations with care.

He must be weighing them with anxiety also. For if the Gallup Poll is even approximately accurate, the government could not be elected today. Its defeat is assured, according to the poll, by the Liberal party's clear leadership in the two vital provinces of Quebec and Ontario. If the Conservative party no longer controls its citadel of Ontario, as the poll reports, then it is in the deepest trouble.

Assuming that the poll is reasonably accurate, as it usually has been in the past, its figures suggest that an election tomorrow would return a Parliament of stalemate, with no working majority for any party, the Liberals having the largest group of supporters.

Under these circumstances Mr. Diefenbaker could not govern with minority support since the New Democratic and Social Credit splinters—they can be no more than splinters—certainly would not vote confidence in this government.

But all these calculations must be treated with extreme reserve. Much can happen between now and polling day. If the recent trend of public opinion continued the Liberal party could easily win a substantial working majority. By reversing that trend with another brilliant campaign of oratory, Mr. Diefenbaker might yet save his government.

We leave these prospects to the pollsters and the prophets. What the electors should be considering is not the manoeuvres of politics but the real issues before the country.

What does the government intend to do about its disordered finances that hold interest rates high, attract foreign speculative money, tend to push up the value of the Canadian dollar and compel the inflation of the currency?

What does it intend to do about the railway problem and the drastic recommendations of the MacPherson royal commission which have been entirely ignored so far? About redistribution of the parliamentary constituencies? About the depleted unemployment insurance fund? About unemployment itself? About health insurance? About nuclear arms?

Above all, what does the government intend to do about the nation's foreign trade policy when we are now entering an entirely new economic pattern throughout the free world?

Surely the government does not propose to postpone all the great affairs crying out for action, to distract public attention from them by another old-age pension increase, a campaign of Senate reform and a new "made-in-Canada" customs formula?

If that is to be the strategy, a strategy of delay and distraction, we doubt that it will work. The Canadian people know by now that the nation faces fundamental problems, some created by the government, some by events outside its control, and they expect fundamental answers. Much more than oratory and another installment of big promises will be needed to re-elect this government, or make it worthy of re-election.

Two Pleas for Moderation

PRESIDENT KENNEDY HAS served his own people—and many others on this continent—well in his Los Angeles attack on the "discordant voices of extremism."

"They find treason in our finest churches, in our highest court, and even in the treatment of our water. They equate the Democratic party with the welfare state, the welfare state with Socialism and Socialism with Communism," he noted.

The seeds of suspicion thus created helped to weaken national unity, the President remarked as he issued a call for patriotism based on confidence.

Perhaps by coincidence, the President spoke in Los Angeles a few days after India's Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru had delivered, in the same city, his final public speech in the course of his recent visit to the United States.

Mr. Nehru, tracing India's 5,000-year history, had explained that country's neutralism as the sort of tolerance born from the mingling of many invaders who came to and were absorbed by the sub-continent.

Not unnaturally, Mr. Nehru did not discuss the incursions of Red China, nor the trouble between India and Pakistan, the latter of which seems to challenge the doctrine of passive resistance and of tolerance.

The two leaders of great states, however, shared a common recognition of the evils of extremism. The world could profit from the arguments they advanced in the interests of moderation—even moderation in moderation, as some westerners have suggested to Mr. Nehru.

Blanshard Street Extension

CITY COUNCIL HAS DONE right in approving plans for the Blanshard Street extension. It is to be hoped that, surveys and other preliminary work will proceed without delay. The project has been in the talking stage for a long time now.

The projection of Blanshard Street, with appropriate relocation of the thoroughfare at the southern end, has been a major item in the proposed program of the Capital Region Planning Board. It is designed to give ready access to the city centre from the main highways north of the city. In this connection, it will relieve traffic on Douglas Street and at the Roundabout, and, with the widened and improved Quadra Street, give three major north-south thoroughfares.

The need for the extension is already being felt. Within a very few years, if not provided, it will be on an emergency basis. As Alderman Griffin has pointed out, the cost of the project will not grow less.

It is to be hoped that the provincial government will assist with the financing, just as it is giving Saanich aid with the northern end of the extension right up to the city boundary. But the whole program should be viewed as a physical necessity, not merely as something it would be nice to have if the price were right. Having approved the plan, city council should keep actively after it.

A Little History

ANY BRITISH COLUMBIAN with the slightest feeling for provincial history can appreciate the ceremony which marked the opening of the new Overlanders Bridge near Kamloops.

First across the span was an old-time stage coach. It followed a small section of the route taken by pioneers who entered the central part of British Columbia nearly 100 years ago.

This seems an entirely fitting way to open the bridge and to honor the Overlanders. Their odyssey should be better known by a new generation which drives comfortably on fine highways over territory through which they fought their way step by wilderness step.

These were the people from Ontario towns promised a "pleasant" journey westward to the Cariboo goldfields. Their courage, victory over hardship and ever-present danger, their resolution and will to survive is an epic in the history of the west.

It is particularly pleasant to hear that two great-granddaughters of Catherine Schubert, the only woman in the party, were present to note the tributes paid to that dauntless lady.

British Columbians could stand more similar ceremonies to remind them of a heroic past.

What's in a Name? Headaches, That's What

GEOGRAPHICAL names have long been the delight of the geographer, the bane of the school pupil and the despair of newspaper readers trying to keep up with the news.

This is particularly so in these times, when the most out-of-the-way places seem to be most often involved in world-shaking events. In the last war, for instance, the headlines were often, based on Omsk, or Tomsk, or Minsk. Who ever heard of Yalta before the Big Four met there? The African campaign, of course, made household words of Benghazi, Alamein and other places no one had ever bothered about. And even in Europe the fighting strayed off the beaten Bader path to uncover hamlets and towns never heard of before or since.

It's been even more delightful (for the geographer), baneful (for the pupil) and despairing (for the readers) since. For "current events" have long ago flown from the good old diplomatic standbys of London, Paris, Washington, Berlin, Rome, Vienna and other highly diplomatic places.

Nowadays you not only have to know the whereabouts of Kivu, Phnom Penh, Ipo, Surakarta, Bien Hoa, Ruanda Urundi, and such places—you also have to know how to pronounce them. Otherwise you'll be the silent man at the party, the continual listener in the lunch counter conversation.

With the international spotlight switching to and fro so nervously these days, you have to learn a whole new set of place names almost every week or so. And you never seem to go back to old ones.

Say you learn Kivu today. Six weeks from now who'll care about Kivu? You may have mastered it and dozens like it today, but tomorrow they'll do you no good. You'll have to have learned, say, Motupe, Sakon Nakon, Guarabira, Djougou, and possibly even Apatzingan, instead.

A nasty new trend has lately become evident in the problem of place names. It's been bad enough to keep up with existing names, but now the Russians are off on a spurge of name-changing. All the "Stalin" names are going out, to be replaced with the earlier Czarist names or entirely new ones. That will mean that what you call a Russian town will probably depend on what years you took geography at school.

Many a Siberian whistle stop or metropolis will have had three or four names within a man's lifetime—and lifetimes aren't too long in some parts of Siberia. And there'd always be the Nevsky Prospekt of more to come.

It wasn't so bad with Adolf. He only changed the street and city square names to Hitlerstrasse and Hitler Platz. But Russians are more wholehearted about their heroes. They go in for cities, rivers and mountains—and these come under the heading of geography.

It's hard to see where this sort of thing may lead, or how widespread it may become. Will Britain rename London as Churchill-on-Thames, then in due time switch to Macmillanport and carry on from there? Should Victoria have become Georgetown long ago, Edwardsburg for a while and now be Elizabethville? Should Vancouver have progressed through Nelson, perhaps Jellicoe, and so on to Mountbatten?

Regina would have been Rex for years until it returned to the feminine version. While Washington would be in doubt every four years and the books would never keep up with it.

There are obvious dangers in the whole idea and it had better be dropped. Suppose Beritoulia were to become Zatakanga overnight, or Mnomgeeka turned to Djopopadala between editions of the newspaper?

There'd just be no coping with it. People would think you didn't know what's going on anywhere. And they'd be right.

In the Opinion of Our Correspondents

Parents Protest

As a parent, I must protest in the strongest terms the decision of the Greater Victoria School Board to train school pupils in survival procedures in the event of a nuclear bomb attack! At a time when many of us are hoping desperately for a return to sanity, and when the country's ablest minds are working to create an atmosphere of peace, this board decision comes as a shock.

The suggestion, as reported in the newspapers, that parents could do much to offset any potential harm that the program might do to the children, indicates a callous approach which I find completely incomprehensible. What possible benefits are worth the risk of creating in the children the same kind of desperate fear that seems to have gripped the members of the School Board?

Defends Chamber Stand

Your editorial of November 21, "A Curious Chamber Vote," calls for some comment.

First you make reference to the defeat of "a rather general motion disapproving of government interference in private business," and then you proceed to deplore an abandonment of free enterprise by the Victoria Chamber of Commerce.

This is an unfair insinuation which I will not accept since it is an "obvious distortion," to use your own wording. The motion in question called for opposition to Government in business except where it can be shown that the public interest will be better served. This concept has always been at the core of Chamber policy, and probably always will be, and for that reason the motion was superfluous in terms of its literal content.

However, the motion was proposed in an attempt to relate it to the B.C. Electric takeover which was under consideration at the time. By approving it the Chamber would be on record as deeming the B.C. Electric takeover to be contrary to the public interest, a view which was obviously not held by a majority of the directors, any more than it was held by the members of the provincial legislature who voted unanimously in favor. A number of the directors withheld support for this motion because they could not accept the inference that support would imply, and there were some, including the writer, who refused to vote on it at all, because of the false inference.

Your suggestion that those who abstained did so out of timidity and fear of the Government is most improper and is not worthy of rebuttal as far as the writer is concerned.

Private enterprise, as most of us understand it, is far removed from public utilities involving vast hydro power developments such as lie ahead for British Columbia. The total potential is only ten per cent developed to date, and there are many free enterprisers who believe that the remaining 90 per cent of our hydro development should be treated as a public resource under a program of integrated planning.

The contentious motion failed to touch on the really controversial aspects of the takeover, such as the question of whether or not there was a clear mandate to expropriate, and whether the basis of compensation was fair and just. There can be no quarrel with those who held conflicting views on these points, since both sides can be honestly defended and supported without violating any of the ordinary concepts of free enterprise.

Finally you refer to the Chamber's secretary, "who had the temerity to say in public that he thought the Government takeover of Black Ball Ferries was a further intrusion into the field of private enterprise." Here again, this was not supported, because the majority of the directors held the view that toll ferries, along with bridges and highways, could well be a matter for public rather than private enterprise. Such is the case in the State of Washington, and in many other places where free enterprise is not yet dead.

If you have any quarrel with the Chamber of Commerce, it may well be with the traditional Chamber policy of non-intervention in matters which are better left to the political arena. However, if you subscribe to the policy, your paper could make a valuable contribution by refraining from editorials attacking the integrity and intelligence of the directors.

And What Spelling!

Congratulations to Mr. B. A. Tobin on his article "Learn How to Read Without Using Words." Although the sight method of teaching has not been "so thoroughly pursued in Canada" as in the U.S.—or as long—there are nevertheless many youngsters in school today whose education has been blighted.

The simple word "jet" was dictated to one Winnipeg sight-taught Grade III class and was misspelled by 29 out of 36 children. Here are some of their attempts—jouned, chawe, clot, gat, gahot, gone, gaunt, jhawt, chot, jaut . . . etc.

This state of affairs will deteriorate even further unless phonics training is reinstated in Grade I.

Equality for Germany?

By JOSEPH ALSOP, From Paris

SUPPOSE that you were playing the game called "categories." Suppose you had the Frenchman with the most significant personal links with the United States, and the Frenchman who has made the greatest constructive contribution in the years since the Second World War. Jean Monnet would certainly be the winning answer in both categories. No one has been more creative than this man who is the father of the plan that began the fruitful transformation of France, the father of the Coal and Steel Community, and the father of the European Common Market.

And few Europeans have been more sympathetic to American views than this man who was the close, admired friend of the late John Foster Dulles and is still the close, admired friend of Dean G. Acheson.

Monnet's vision, proven wisdom, and sympathy for the United States are relevant at the moment, for a quite simple reason.

If Gen. de Gaulle is somewhat disdainful of American policy making, it may be permissible to lay this disdain to inherent anti-Americanism. But if Monnet is downright horrified by the seeming present trend of policy in both America and Britain, it is time to stop, look, and listen.

According to well-authenticated report, this is precisely Monnet's frame of mind. Furthermore, the shade of difference which apparently exists between Monnet and de Gaulle is also a warning.

Logical Ground

De Gaulle has been opposing negotiations with the Soviets about Berlin, on the logical but somewhat chilly ground that there is nothing to negotiate. Monnet is reportedly horrified, not because of the Anglo-American wish to negotiate, but because of the character of some of the topics proposed for negotiation.

Certain favored American topics—particularly "European security" and "denuclearization" of the West German army—though both somewhat diluted by now; and the main preferred British topic—some form of "de facto" recognition of East Germany—share the same peculiar characteristic.

They place the Germans in a special category, as Western allies whose national interests and national feelings can be dealt with more lightly than the feelings and interests of other members of the Alliance.

"On the day when the Germans are not treated as absolute equals in the Alliance," Monnet is quoted as having remarked, "I pack up."

That is a good deal to say for a man whose sanguine persistence has accomplished so much against such enormous odds. Maybe Monnet's view is somewhat exaggerated by the reports here recorded. But this reporter has himself heard one of America's best friends in the higher ranks of French officialdom ask the bitter question:

"Why does everyone seem to be so ready to begin the destruction of everything that has been built up in the years since the war?"

By "everything" that has been built up, this man meant the Western Alliance in general, and more specifically the NATO alliance and the new European community, which holds such vast political promise for the future.

He was making precisely the same point that Monnet reportedly made, too. He was convinced that the great and laborious achievements of the postwar years would be fatally undermined by the tactic of buying tranquility at Berlin by imposing any kind of sacrifices on the Germans outside Berlin.

Bismarckian Trend

It may be that this French appreciation of the problem is utterly erroneous. It may be that what has been called a "Bismarckian" trend in the new Germany is absolutely unavoidable. But there are still several things to be said about this appreciation of the problem, which is now so fashionable in both Washington and London.

In the first place, it is notable that this kind of thinking only flourishes in the two capitals which are not actively incorporated in the European community. No one in Europe shares this line of thought. Certainly no one in Europe thinks that the West Germans can turn "Bismarckian," if this means doing business with the Soviets on their own hook without regard to Europe, and also remain true members of the European Community which is so encouragingly taking shape.

Again, it is all very well to sneer at "standing pat and standing firm" as an impractical proposition. But the qualities of the leader of any alliance tend to be judged, unhappily, by the leader's willingness to stand pat and stand firm when the vital interests and deep national feelings of other members of the alliance are under sharp attack.

The bits and pieces of West German interests and feelings, which may now be sacrificed to Khrushchev to obtain calm at Berlin, may seem to be very trivial bits and pieces, provided one is not a West German. The mere action is what matters most of all, however.

When one ally urges this kind of sacrifice upon another, the natural reaction to anticipate is the reaction that led Benes and Masaryk down the road to tragedy in Czechoslovakia.

In short, the wave-of-the-future approach to the Berlin crisis at least invites, if it does not absolutely insure, the kind of tragic result the French fear.

MARKED for READING

TWO KINDS OF SUCCESS.

The capacity to pass examinations and the capacity to be successful in life are two different things.

John Swartz, a selection consultant, speaking in the BBC General Overseas Service program "The Man for the Job."

A Good Checkup

Many people write to say they went to their doctors for a "complete" check-up. In each case, the doctor said he gave it, but the person much doubts if it was thorough. My correspondents ask me what tests they should have had. I go every year for a check-up. Usually, first thing in the morning, before breakfast, a big syringe of blood is taken from my arm. The amount of hemoglobin (red coloring matter of the blood) is estimated to see if there is a tendency to anemia. If so, "red and white cell counts" plus a "differential count" are made to see if there is any disease in the blood.

In most clinics everyone gets a routine test for syphilis. This disease shows up occasionally in a very respectable person who had no idea he had it. The very important red-blood sedimentation rate should be measured. If the figure is low, it tends to rule out a smouldering infection, a dangerous form of arthritis, or some serious disease, such as scattered cancer.

Then, one or two chemical tests are made to see if the kidneys are working well; and the blood sugar, blood cholesterol, and possibly blood uric acid are measured. If there is any history suggesting hepatitis (disease of the liver) the liver functions may be tested. If the prostate gland in a man is enlarged and very hard, the acid phosphatase is measured. If the figure is high, this suggests the presence of cancer.

If the person has been losing weight without obvious cause, the doctor probably will order a measurement made of the basal metabolic rate and perhaps the amount of "protein-bound iodine" in the blood. These tests give an idea of the activity of the thyroid gland. My favorite test is to feel the skin. If it feels feverish, the gland is generally too active.

A sample of urine must be examined, and if some red blood cells or much pus or many bacteria are found, special X-ray and other studies may have to be made of the two kidneys.

If the person is past 40 and especially if there is any question about the status of his heart, an electrocardiogram should be made. If the person has a high blood pressure or a diabetes or a tendency to hardening of the arteries, someone should examine the backgrounds of the eyes with an electrically lighted ophthalmoscope. With this, one can see the condition of the small arteries in the eyes, and from this can tell much about the possible seriousness of hypertension, a nephritis, a diabetes, or an arteriosclerosis.

If an ophthalmologist does this work he should measure the tension of the eyeballs with a little instrument—to rule out glaucoma and save the person from possible blindness.

The lungs and heart should be X-rayed, preferably with the stereoscope technic. The gullet, stomach, and duodenum should be studied with X-rays.

If there is suspicion of gallbladder disease, the gallbladder should be X-rayed. The colon (large bowel) must then be X-rayed after a barium enema is given. The rectum must be examined with the finger and then looked into with a lighted tube. This is essential because one of the commonest places for cancer to start is the rectum.

Along the way the patient must have a physical examination which should include what often is missed, and this is a size-up of the whole person to see if he or she is youngish and wide-awake, efficient and able, and well-groomed, sane or psychotic, pleasant or sullen and grouchy, old and overly senile; with a good stance or bent over; with a good, strong walk or a senile shuffle; with signs of a recent stroke, perhaps a lop-sided mouth, a thick speech and dirty clothes.

One often can recognize the presence of a toxic goiter on noting staring, prominent eyes, a red skin, marked sweating, and tremulous and warm hands. The physician must recognize the alcoholic with his often red skin, perhaps bleary eyes, shaking hands and dissipated look. Often his teeth are very bad and his breath is sour. The person's height and weight should be noted. Often the most dangerous finding is that the person is much too fat.

The doctor will listen to the heart, and will measure the blood pressure. He may note that the person is wheezy, asthmatic and a bit short of breath. He will examine the abdomen for tumors, and he will look for ruptures. He will check the size of the liver and spleen. He will note varicose veins on the legs. He will note any spinal curvature with perhaps one leg shorter than the other. He will look for enlarged lymph nodes in the neck, the armpit and the groin. He will check certain nervous reflexes.

In the case of a man he will examine the prostate gland and the testicles. In the case of a woman he will examine with care the breasts and the pelvic organs. A woman should have a Papanicolaou test to rule out cancer of the womb.

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

Even Adults Can't See This

LONDON — Seems a pity that when someone goes to all the time and trouble of making a sociological study of one aspect of London life, in film form, no one will show the resultant movie.

Of course, the subject matter is a bit tricky—how London's prostitutes have coped with the Street Offences Act which drove them off the streets.

And there might be just a shadow of doubt as to whether the makers of the film approached the topic from the viewpoint of sociology, or sexology.

West End Jungle documents in detail the new way of life for the erstwhile street-walker how she has turned to being either a call-girl, a hostess in one of the drinking clubs, a masseur or a photographic model (own darkroom).

But one look was enough for the Board of Censors to say NO. They would not even give it an X Certificate. This was something even adults couldn't see! Which seems strange, because there are some movies wandering around this town at the moment with the blessing of the X Certificate that would make your hair curl.

But ordinarily to get a thumbs down from the censors doesn't mean the end as far as moviemakers here are concerned. The British Board of Censors, despite its high-sounding title, has no power to ban the public showing of a film.

HOME GARDEN

By JACK BEASTALL

Special Mix for Heaving Soil

Some districts experienced sharp ground frosts last week with the wet soil heaving two inches or more.

The parts of the garden which lifted most were the recently disturbed spots where new plants had been set out this fall.

The plants themselves will not have been damaged by the frost, but the soil around their roots has been loosened. If this condition remains, it becomes worse with each frost, and there is the possibility of losing the plants before spring.

Theoretically, the correction for this state of affairs is to press the soil back tightly to the roots after every frost. This is more easily said than done because the soil is wet and sticky in most instances and more is likely to be taken away on boots or gloves than is pressed back into place.

GOOD MIXTURE

Experienced gardeners have a small quantity of dry soil, sand, and compost cached away for this purpose.

The dry mixture is sprinkled around the plants on top of the wet soil to make the job of firming the soil more pleasant and effective. If dry soil is lacking, sawdust may be substituted and it is quite satisfactory for this work, or dry sand may be used alone.

When none of these materials have been readily available, I have resorted to a short piece of heavy plank or a block of firewood (an old-fashioned commodity seldom seen today), placing it on the soil near the plant stem and pounding it with a heavy hammer.

EASILY CLEANED

The wood picks up a lot of mud to be sure but it is more easily cleaned than boots or gloves. A piece of plastic tied over the block will stay clean for a surprisingly long time.

Primulas, wallflowers, cabbage of all types, are plants easily lost through frost loosening the soil. Check these, and all the newly-put-in plants, shrubs and trees so that your past labors will not be in vain.

Make That Two Guineas

The subscription for membership in the Royal Horticultural Society, given in Saturday's gardening column, should have read two guineas instead of four guineas.

Thanks to all readers who called regarding the error.

Various Faiths Join In Holy Communion

NEW DELHI (AP) — Members of 198 Christian denominations representing some 300,000,000 church members joined together in Holy Communion Sunday at the World Council of Churches.

It was the most variegated congregation of Christians ever to join in the Lord's Supper, staged before a lofty white cross in a giant tent in this Indian capital.

The words used were those of the Anglican rite. But believers of many other faiths—Baptist, Presbyterian, ancient Catholic, reformed Lutheran, Methodists and others—took part.

"It was the most meaningful Communion I ever received," said Joan Ledger, a youthful Disciples of Christ member from Toronto.

Officials said that while inter-denominational communions had been celebrated before at council gatherings, never before had such a diversified body of Christians from such a range of traditions and customs participated.

It also was the first time an Anglican communion open to all baptized members of the various churches was held in connection with the general assembly.

The service was conducted in a giant tent with chairs for pews and music from a choir of Indian girls in white saris accompanied by Oriental instruments—flutes, sitars, tabla drums and bells.

One Indian worshipper, Samuel Augustus of Madras, said he drove more than 1,000 miles from south India for the service. "It was worth every mile and more," he said.

De Gaulle Wasn't Moved

LONDON (Reuters) — French President de Gaulle flew back to Paris Sunday after weekend talks with Prime Minister Macmillan ranging over the Berlin crisis, the European Common Market and other international issues. No communique was issued and officials were under instructions to say nothing about the talks which were held in the utmost privacy of Macmillan's country estate, Birch Grove, 40 miles south of London.

There was, however, no indication that Macmillan had made any progress in getting de Gaulle to agree to early East-West negotiations on the Berlin problem. The Associated Press reported that the impression prevailed that de Gaulle's opposition to East-West negotiations on Berlin apparently was softened, but not entirely dissolved.

They're buying oil energy for 6¢ a pound

Six and one-tenth cents a pound. That's the average price motorists throughout British Columbia pay for Esso gasoline. Compared with other commodities in everyday use, you won't find a better bargain. Milk, for example, sells on the average for 9½ cents a pound; soft drinks for 12½ cents a pound; even distilled water costs more than gasoline. The Esso gasoline you buy today at a bargain price is much more powerful than it was ten years ago... yet on the average Imperial gets less for it in B.C. than it did ten years ago. And of the 6½ cents you pay for gasoline in B.C., two cents is for federal and provincial taxes that bring you such things as social services and new highways. Pound for pound, you won't find a better bargain than Esso.

Mine Death Probed

(Compiled from CP)

KAMLOOPS — A team of investigators has been dispatched to a mine three miles southwest of here to find the cause of death of a 24-year-old man whose body was found at the 48-foot level during the week-end.

Robert Kenneth Gerlib, member of a three-man reclamation crew examining the mine which was last operated in 1928, was found by a search party at the top of a shaft.

The other two men said he was stationed at the upper level while they surveyed lower levels.

Police said he apparently wandered away from his post and may have fallen down and died in a pocket of bad air. A ladder nearby had a broken rung, they said.

Game Raided

VANCOUVER — Police battered down two doors early Sunday to break up a card game.

Police said gambling squad officers had to force a street door, then a four-inch third door with peepholes at the top of a flight of stairs to gain entry.

—Kurt Jentsch was later charged with keeping a gaming house and 12 others were charged as inmates.

Murder Charge

CRANBROOK — Patricia Ann Olafson, 26, of Cranbrook, has been charged with murder following discovery of an infant girl's body in the city garbage dump Saturday.

Police said the child, believed less than a day old, was found by workers at the dump wrapped in a blanket in a cardboard carton.

The body will be flown to Vancouver for examination.

The woman was arrested Saturday night and later taken to hospital.

Mrs. Olafson, a Cranbrook telephone operator, is the mother of two other girls and is separated from her husband, police said.

Former MP Dies

NEW WESTMINSTER — W. M. (Bill) Mott, former Liberal member of Parliament for New Westminster, collapsed and died on a downtown street here Sunday.

Mr. Mott, 68, served in the Commons from 1949 to 1953 when he was defeated by Social Credit candidate George Hahn.

A native of Dartmouth, N.S., and owner of an electrical contracting firm here, Mr. Mott was mayor of the city from 1942 to 1948 after four years as an alderman.

Foiled by Gum

VANCOUVER — A wad of chewing gum that wasn't sticky enough sent a man to prison for six months Friday.

That was the sentence imposed on James Mohr, 26, who police said entered a New Westminster jewelry store and asked to see some diamond rings.

A clerk noticed one of the rings missing from a tray and called police. A constable searched Mohr but found nothing—until he heard a "clink" and saw a ring drop to the floor from underneath a chair where it had been temporarily secured with chewing gum.

The chewing gum used to secure the ring had come loose.

Hunter Drowns

HAZELTON — The body of 21-year-old Solomon E. Hatzinsqu, of Hazelton, who had been missing three days on a hunting trip, was found Saturday in a frozen lake near this northern village.

Searchers, who organized when Hatzinsqu failed to return from a hunting trip, followed his tracks along a creek to Witwanga Lake, where they found a hole in the ice. Further investigation showed the hunter had broken through the ice while trying to cross the lake.

Boy Survives

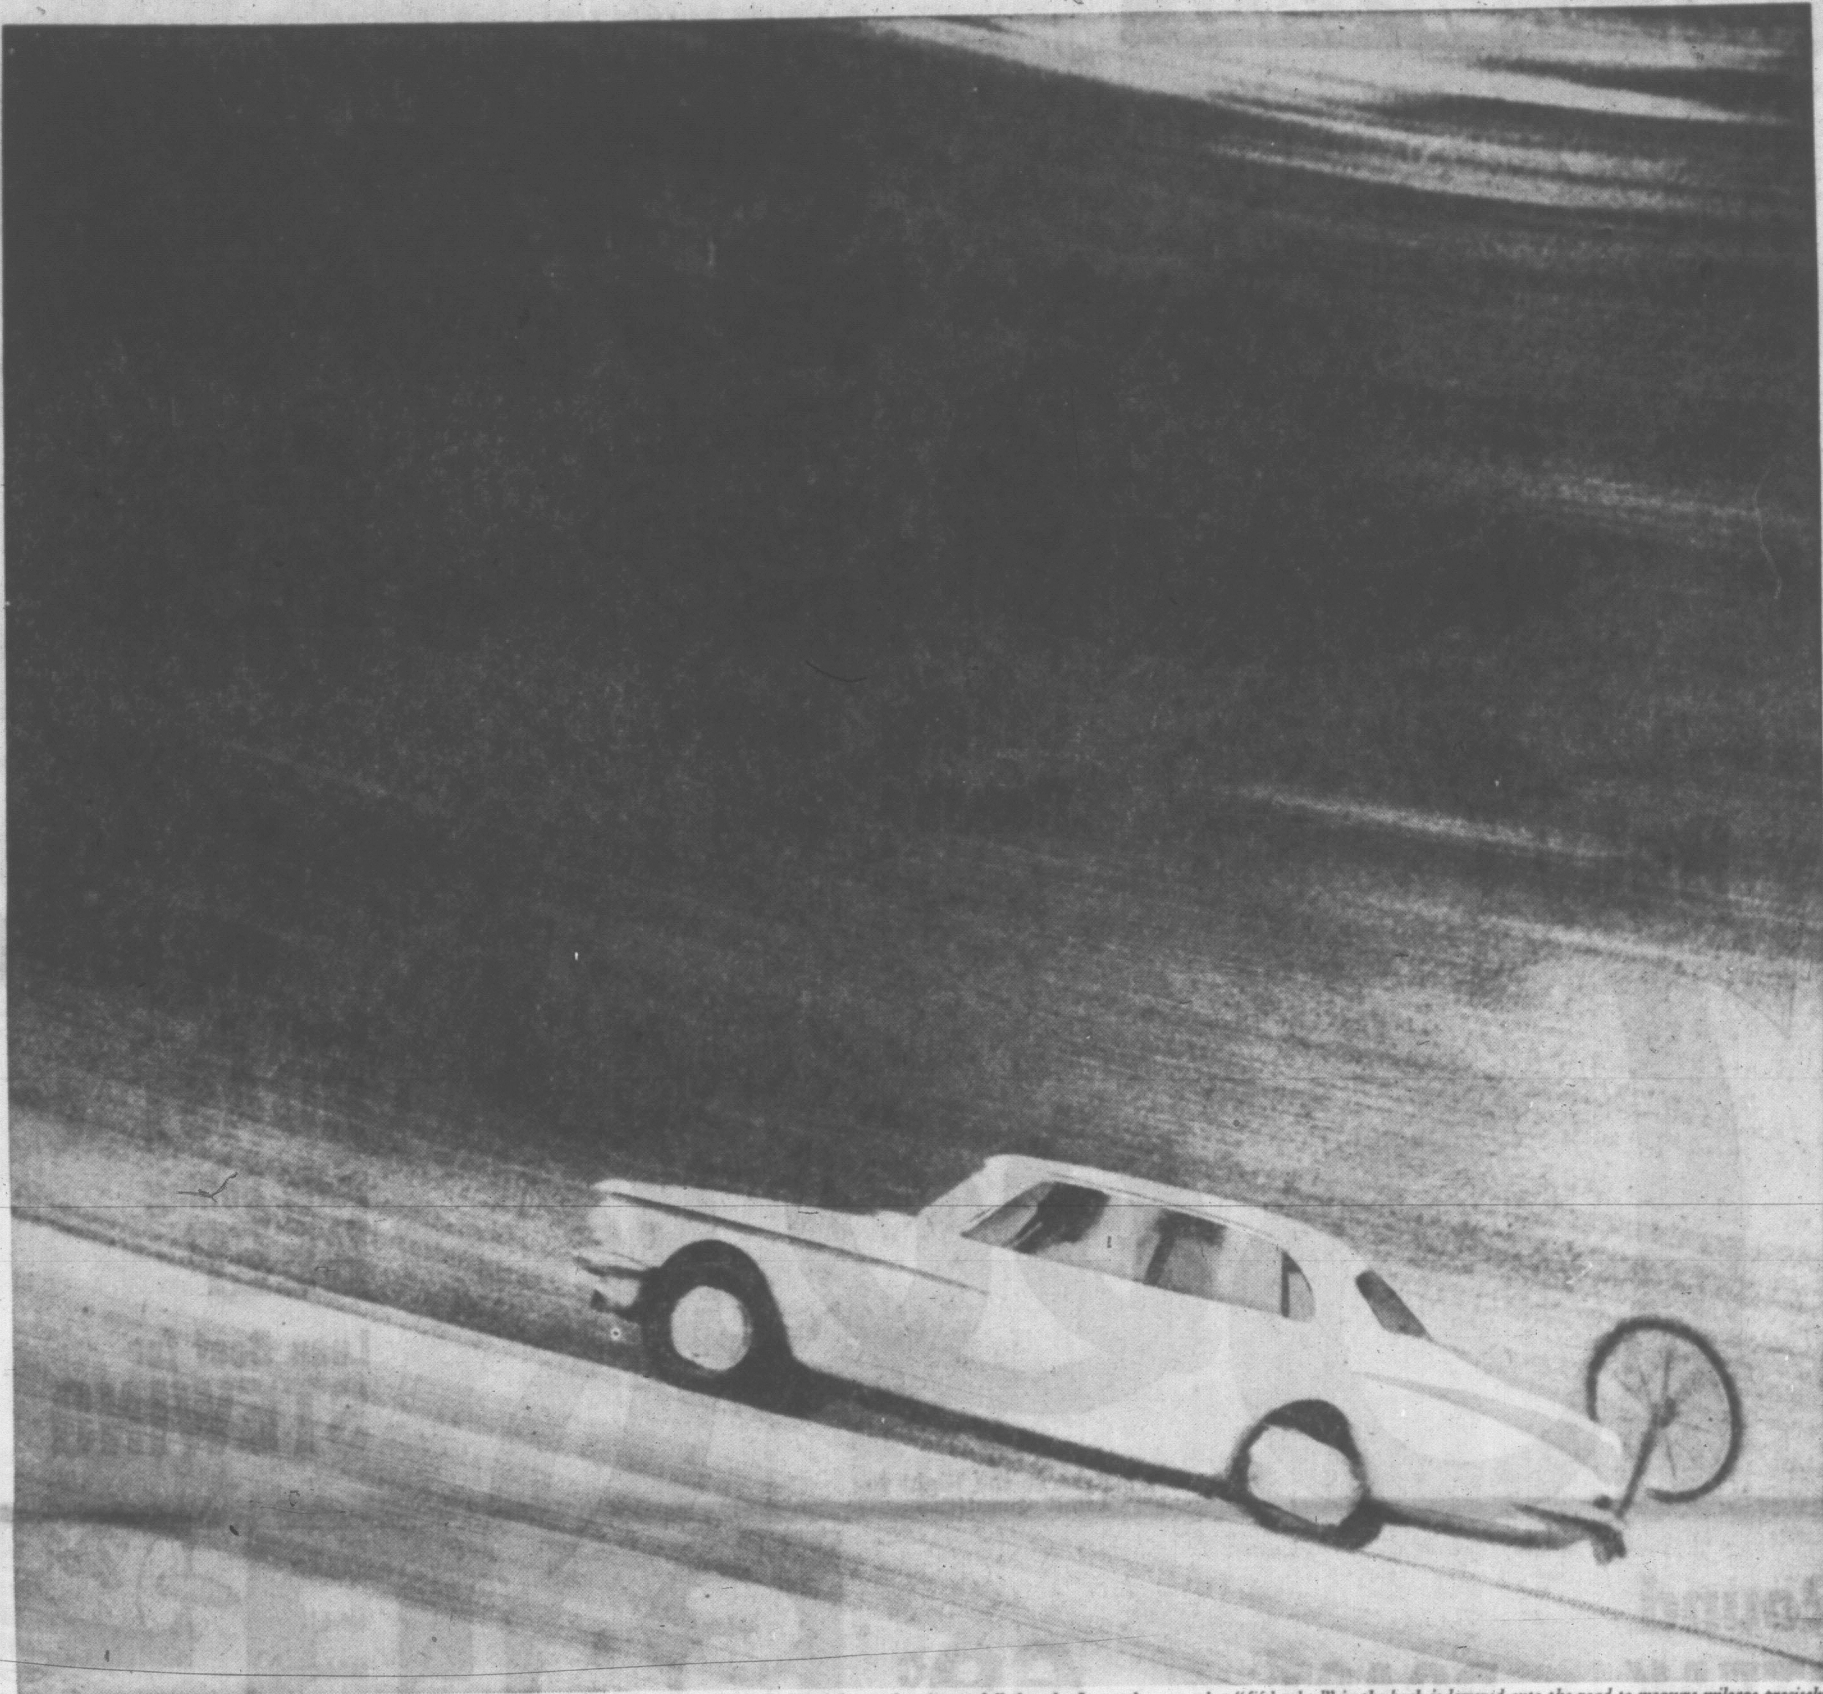

VANCOUVER — A tired and frightened boy alone on a mountain slipped on a log and sprawled headlong in the snow.

Too exhausted to struggle any further through the waist-deep snow, he rolled under the log and fell asleep.

The fall helped save his life. David Young, 14, of West Vancouver, was found lying under the log on Hollyburn Mountain at 1 a.m. Sunday—suffering from frost-bitten feet, but otherwise unhurt.

One of his rescuers, Sgt. Tom Lightly, of the West Vancouver police, said: "The boy would certainly have died if we had not found him when we did."

Sgt. Lightly said falling asleep under the log helped keep the boy alive because his body warmth would have been trapped in the confined space.

Shell experts test for knock by accelerating at full throttle. In another test, that "fifth wheel" in the back is lowered onto the road to measure mileage precisely.

TOP PERFORMANCE:

Shell test crew reveals 5 ways to test your car for top performance—and how the 9 ingredients in today's Super Shell can help you get it

To Shell experts, top performance is a scientific standard. They measure it with precision instruments. But any good driver can run a version of their basic tests. Here are 5 they recommend.

IS YOUR CAR really delivering its best? It's easy to find out. Shell experts suggest five simple tests.

Test #1. Quick starting

Count the seconds it takes your engine to start your car. Under normal circumstances the engine should "snap to" in about two or three seconds. However, fast starting depends on many factors. Ask your Shell dealer to check the condition of plugs, points, battery and carburetor. Ask him about Shell X-100 Premium Motor Oil for painless starts at all temperatures. And try Super Shell. It's blended with a frisky ingredient called butane—to give you quick, easy starts.

Test #2. Smooth running

Does your engine vibrate roughly when idling? Does it seem to "surge" as you pull away, then falter and fade?

Shell scientists check figures after mileage test.

Sometimes these troubles can be corrected by minor adjustments of the carburetor and spark timing. Your Shell dealer can take care of this for you. But the problem may be the wrong blend of gasoline.

For example, summer heat may cause gasoline to bubble in the fuel lines. This leads to partial blockage, uneven flow of fuel. In spring and fall, carburetor icing due to dampness and cool temperatures may also cause rough idling in your engine.

Shell scientists protect you from rough idling year round. In summer, they adjust the volatility of Super Shell to bring you smooth, trouble-free driving. From October to May Shell adds an anti-icer to give added protection against carburetor icing.

Test #3. Reserve power

Next time you are accelerating onto the highway or overtaking another car, notice how your car accelerates. Now ask yourself:

- Did your car accelerate smoothly—with no faltering, no bogging down?
- Do you have plenty of power to spare? If you feel you've "run out of engine," Super Shell may be your answer. It contains TCP* additive to help restore lost power. Another Super Shell ingredient, called Platformate, contains components that release 11 per cent more energy than the finest 100-octane aviation gasoline available.

Test #4. Knock

Accelerate up a long, steep hill and listen carefully.

If you hear a sharp, pinging noise in your engine, you've got knock. It could cause trouble.

Take no chances. Switch to Super Shell. Its formula includes no fewer than three ingredients to fight the various causes of knock.

Test #5. Miles per gallon

When you measure miles per gallon, follow these three simple steps.

1. Fill your tank to the brim. Write down your mileage reading.
2. Drive in your normal manner for at least three tankfuls. Keep a record of the exact amount you buy.
3. Fill your tank to the brim again. Add all the gallons you've bought (not counting the fill-up in step 1). Divide this amount into your total miles driven. This gives average miles per gallon.

Try this test with three tankfuls of Super Shell. You'll see what top performance really is.

Here are the 9 ingredients in today's Super Shell—and what they do to give your car top performance

- #1 is TCP for power, mileage, and longer plug life.
- #2 is "cat-cracked" gasoline—for extra power.
- #3 is anti-knock mix to resist all kinds of knocks.
- #4 is heavy alkanes to control "high-speed knock."
- #5 is butane for quick starts.
- #6 is mixed pentanes for fast warm-ups.
- #7 is an "anti-icer." (Added in cold weather.)
- #8 is gum preventive to keep carburetors clean inside.
- #9 is Platformate for extra mileage.

KITCHEN TRICK

If broiling steaks, most cooks prepare the medium steak just fine—errors are usually made with the well-done and the rare steaks.
Remember not to overcook the well-done steak because the longer it cooks the more juices are extracted from it, and with juices go flavour.
Remember to brown the rare steak well on one side only, then heat through from the second side—and serve brown side up.

ROUGH DAY FOR FARMERS

Bruising defensive work by Fort Garry Lions was one of main reasons why Manitoba champions defeated Oak Bay Farmers 32-9 at Macdonald Park Saturday in juvenile Little Grey Cup football game.

Oak Bay halfback Graham Harvey (9) learns more about Fort Garry tackling as he is dropped after short gain. Ready to help at right, if needed, is Lion tackle Gerry Mercier. See story on page 12.

Blades' Belisle Beats Bay Boys

Left-winger Danny Belisle flashed in two third-period goals Sunday night to give Los Angeles Blades a come-from-behind 5-4 Western Hockey League victory over San Francisco Seals.

The Southern Division cellar dwellers seemed headed for their 13th defeat until Belisle's winning performance with 63 seconds remaining in the final frame brought the 2,417 fans to their feet.

In another contest, the defending champion Portland Buckaroos dropped Calgary Stampeders, holders of third spot in the Northern Division, 4-1, before 7,966 Portland fans.

Bob Solinger opened for Seals in the first period and Jim Powers matched the score shortly afterwards for Blades.

FIVE FORWARDS
Duke Edmundson scored two goals in the second period to put Seals ahead 3-1. Ed Panagabko put the Blades back in contention with a single.

Veteran centre Nick Mickowski opened the third period for Seals. But the Blades kept banging away at goalie Bev Bentley and after George Agar pulled his defencemen and put five offensive skaters on the ice, the break came.

Panagabko scored again at 15:43 and Belisle broke loose later with the two goals that won the game.

San Francisco has won six of its last eight contests and began an inter-city series here with a 3-1 Nov. 4 win, followed by an overtime victory a week later.

Ticats Wipe Up Floor With Faltering Argos

Overtime All Hamilton After Colossal Finish

HAMILTON (CP) — Shortly before the clock ended 80 minutes of bristling, heart-thumping football Saturday, Toronto Argonauts' quarterback Tobin Rote walked to the bench and said: "They are coming straight up the middle; I've got to spin out most of the time to keep alive."

"They" were the Hamilton Tiger-Cats who demolished the Argos 45-2 and advanced into the East-West Grey Cup final against Winnipeg Blue Bombers at Toronto this Saturday. It took Ticats 20 minutes of overtime to do it in this second game of the total-point Eastern Conference final.

Argos, who finished the regular season in third place, thumped the league's first-place finishers 25-7 a week earlier. Tiger-Cats wiped that out with a 20-2 margin at the end of regulation play, piled up another 28 points in overtime and took the series by a resounding 55-27 count.

Much of the suspense was packed into the final 103 seconds of regulation play, during which Tiger-Cats, then Argonauts, made what hindsight experts term weird calls before a crowd of 23,000-4,000 below capacity.

Tiger-Cat quarterback Bernie Faloney's first-down pass from the Hamilton 25-yard line was intercepted by defensive half Stan Wallace at the Hamilton 44. At that point the round was tied 27-27.

Fast, Quick Kick the Answer?

Wallace rambled to the Ticat 27, a perfect spot for punter Dave Mann to boot one into the empty end-zone seats and almost certainly send Argonauts into the cup classic. This was the time for a quick kick with Hamilton's defensive half a pinched up close to the line.

But Argo strategy was to run out time with line plays and kick on the third down. Coach Jim Trimble of Tiger-Cats countered by sending three men into the end-zone—better-than-average punters—Faloney and Don Sutherland and speedster Ron Howell.

Trimble's instructions were to kick the ball right back. It went to Sutherland about five yards behind the goal line and he got it away, back to Mann on the Hamilton 40. He gave it another boot, this time to Faloney on the three and he did some razzle-dazzle running 107 yards down the sidelines for a touchdown that was nullified by a penalty on the Ticat 46 which was signalled as clipping but which referee Seymour Wilson said later was for blocking—not permitted on punt runs.

There wasn't time for another play, the game went into overtime. And that was the worst thing that could have happened to Argonauts.

Faloney Fired Five TD Passes

They were fortunate to hold Tiger-Cats to 20 points in the opening 60 minutes. They had penetrated Ticat territory only six times in that period—the deepest to the 27-yard line in the dying seconds, and Rote was hounded unmercifully by the Tiger-Cat front wall and linebackers Zeno Karcz and Grant McKeel.

Rote completed only 21 of 44 passes for a measly 114 yards. His ball carriers netted only 61 yards for a total air-ground gain of 175 against an even 700 for Hamilton.

Faloney, who pitched five touchdown passes, clicked on 22 of 37 attempts for 328 yards. Gerry McDougall, who played at half and in a flanking spot, collected 151 of Hamilton's 372 yards along the ground in 23 carries.

Tiger-Cats made 30 first downs against only 13 for Argonauts.

"We dominated the whole game," Trimble said.

"We were beaten, but good," said coach Lou Agase of Argonauts. "They played top football."

Tiger-Cats, who weren't given much of a chance by their own fans to overcome Toronto's 18-point lead, scored only three points in the first half—a single by Sutherland and a two-point safety touch when Argo Ron Morris intercepted a Faloney pass just outside the goal line and was pushed into the end zone.

Argonauts' defence started to show cracks in the second half when Hamilton scored two touchdowns and a 12-yard field goal by Sutherland.

Sutherland's placement at 4:19 of the fourth quarter put Hamilton ahead 27-25 on the round but Mann kicked two singles to put the game into overtime.

Faloney, with the aid of a recovered Toronto fumble and an intercepted Rote pass, went out early to wrap things up.

Faloney tossed two touchdown passes to Garney Henley and one each to Ralph Goldston and Paul Dekker and McDougall. Carver Shannon, a Winnipeg castoff, scored the other on a 14-yard running play, the final points of the game.

Sutherland, a tremendous power on defence, made the converts on all six touch-downs.

Nanaimo United drew first blood in the showing of strength between mainland and Vancouver Island junior hockey teams.

United drubbed New Westminster Royals, unbeaten leaders in the mainland junior league, 11-5, at Nanaimo Saturday night.

WEATHER DIDN'T COUNT AT CAR SHOW

TURIN, Italy (AP)—Pier Giovanni Vallauri's magic formula paid off eight times during the weekend on Italy's national soccer pool, raising his winnings from the soccer pool and the national lottery this year to a total of 40,822,370 lire ($65,336).

Vallauri, 32, a chemical worker, plunked down 3,600 lire ($6) a few days ago and a batch of soccer slips.

Among them was a correct listing of all 13 winning teams in the 13 major league soccer contests played Sunday. That earned him 642,000 lire ($1,028).

Among them, too, were 12 correct winners out of the 13—not on one slip but on seven. Each paid 27,700 lire ($44), or 193,000 lire ($308) for the entire seven.

Pressure Putt Saves Top Spot for Brewer

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Gay Brewer, Jr., sank a tension-packed 15-foot birdie putt on the 18th hole Sunday and won the Mobile Open golf tournament by a stroke over the tremendous closing challenge of Johnny Pott.

Brewer was five under par coming in to the par four, 420-yard 18th hole. He dropped his approach shot 15 feet from the pin and rolled his putt in with 283.

Vallauri took it in stride but Italians who play the soccer pool shook their head in bewilderment. Italian magazine editors and film producers scrambled to sign him for exclusive stories and films.

Vallauri says he spent months working out his system before he began to get results a few months ago. His calculations are based on team strengths, the playing weather and the mathematical odds of probability.

But sheer luck is Vallauri's only explanation for his lottery winnings—and the car he won at the Turin automobile show this month. He dropped in for a look and just happened to be holding the ticket for the door prize.

DIDN'T WATCH GAME

... Excited? Not Bud Grant

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg Blue Bombers braved 20-degree weather Sunday night as they buckled down to the serious business of preparing for the Grey Cup final.

The Western champions ended their three-day holiday with a meeting at 6 p.m., followed by a brisk, one-hour practice session.

This is the pattern the club expects to follow today and Tuesday before taking off Wednesday for Toronto and their date Saturday with the Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

Most of the Bombers worked at their civilian jobs during their three days off following their 43-14 win last Wednesday over Calgary Stampeders.

Coach Bud Grant was neither excited nor disappointed about Hamilton's comeback victory over Toronto Argonauts on Saturday.

"It makes no difference to us who we play," he said in an interview Sunday night. "It will make a difference in our plans, but we have no preferences."

He didn't even watch the Eastern game on television. The Bombers were in good physical shape for Sunday night's practice.

Halfback Baz Nagle has a broken thumb as a result of Wednesday's game against Calgary, but he will see action. Fullback Charlie Shepard, Winnipeg's kicking master, still has a swollen shin, but that's not a serious matter either.

Canadian fullback Gerry James said a number of the players would have liked to meet Toronto in the Grey Cup. "Toronto has a lot of players going two ways, so they'd be bound to get tried," commented James, who at 26 is playing his ninth year with the Bombers. He'll be in his fourth Grey Cup. He missed one because of a broken leg.

NEVER BEAT ARGOS
"Anyway," James added, "we've already played Hamilton three times in the Grey Cup, and people get tired of seeing the same teams all the time."

There's also the factor that Winnipeg has never beaten the Argonauts in the Grey Cup, and this has been bothering some of the players. On the other hand, Bombers defeated the Tiger-Cats in 1958 and 1959, after losing to them in 1957.

"If we play to the best of our capabilities," said James, "I think we'll give a good account of ourselves. This is probably the best Winnipeg team I've been on, as far as balance is concerned."

The 1961 edition of the Bombers is described by Grant as the best all-round club he's had in his five years of coaching here.

Olympic Group Cuts Our Team

MONTREAL (CP)—The Canadian Olympic Association has provisionally decided to trim the national team for the 1964 games, abandoning basketball, gymnastics, cycling and fencing.

Reason: In part, money. But perhaps a more significant factor was Canada's apparent dearth of world-class competitors, athletes able to hold their own in fast company.

The cuts were made on a provisional basis Saturday at a five-hour meeting of the COA board of directors. Contrary to what everyone expected, it went off in affable manner.

Thirty delegates, a cross-section of amateur sport, approved the reduction reluctantly. But a compromise amendment—making everything tentative—smoothed out most of the ruffled feelings.

It was agreed that the issue would be reviewed to consider performances by Canadian athletes in international competitions between now and the games.

WORKS BOTH WAYS
"It will cut both ways though," COA president Jim Worrall of Toronto told the meeting. "Adjustments could be made to decrease as well as increase."

As it stands, the projected team would comprise 121 athletes, plus 32 officials and coaches. Canada sent 141 competitors and 41 officials and coaches to 1960 Games.

Canada's winter team—the events are slated for Innsbruck, Austria—is strengthened. The increase stemmed chiefly from the addition of a six-man bob-sledding crew with coach.

Other revisions were made in individual sports, both summer and winter. Most were cuts of one to five competitors. But there were upgrades in two cases. The allocations for skiing and boxing were increased by one place each, giving skiing 15 and boxing five, plus officials.

At the bargaining table, Worrall led the pro-reduction movement. He said the team should carry only athletes with a "reasonable" chance to make a good showing.

Button-Bidders Carry Holders Down to Wire

Laurie Carroll and Dr. George Bigelow got a scare on the chilly, wind-buffed Oak Bay course Sunday before retaining possession of the city open golf buttons.

The Victoria Golf Club swingers made it a one-up victory over Colwood challengers Bill McCall and Vic Painter when Dr. Bigelow dropped a pressure putt on the 18th green.

In the junior button match over the same course, the Uplands duo of Pete Gillan and John Hadfield, trailing by one hole after 13, rallied to score a 2-and-1 triumph over Gorge Vale challengers Earl Francis and Rick Knott.

KICKERS, GORGE UPSET

Evcoes Set Off Big Boot Blast

It was an ill wind that blew across city soccer pitches Sunday as far as leading clubs in the Victoria and District Football League are concerned.

The mighty were toppled in a flurry of upsets and near-upsets.

Biggest crash was heard at Bullen Park, where the unbeaten skein of Gorge Hotel was blasted by Evcoes. Goals by Alex Stewart and Maurice Bunyan gave Evcoes a hard-fought 2-0 victory and handed the pace-setting Hotelmen their first defeat of the campaign.

Next on the list of upset victims were Hourigan's Kickers, who started the day deadlocked with Victoria West in second place. Kickers flubbed their chance to pull even with Gorge when they were blanked 1-0 by Brodies Bakery, which grabbed the win on Alan Glen's penalty goal early in the opening half.

WESTS IN DRAW

Vic West fared slightly better than Kickers, but also muffed an opportunity to pull even with the leaders. They did, however, manage to step one point ahead of Kickers as they salvaged a 1-1 draw against a surprising Esquimalt side.

Price Starry As Athletics Defeat Haidas

Albemi Athletics have a good one in Billy Joe Price.

The six-nine New Mexico State University graduate pumped in 43 points on the weekend as Athletics walloped Victoria's Haida Chiefs twice, 105-48 and 72-40.

Gary Pantan (20 points) and Doug Brinham (18) aided Price (22) Saturday at Central Junior High School. Making their first start of the season, the newly-formed Chiefs trailed 9-2 early and never could solve the A's offense or penetrate its defence. B. Wilson, with 12, was top Haida.

Price came back with a 21-point effort Sunday at Port Alberni. After holding Alberni to 15-12 early, Chiefs faded as the A's ripped to a 37-16 half-time lead and kept right on going.

Les Stevenson counted for Wests and Mike Poulsen tallied for Esquimalt.

Duncan, getting two goals from Ralph Thorne, climbed into a tie with Kickers by clipping Canadian Scottish 2-1 at Duncan.

Biggest tally of the otherwise low-scoring day was chalked up by Heaneys, who trimmed winless Saanich 7-2.

UCLA, Ohio Heading For Rose Bowl Date

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The post-season bowl games picture cleared up considerably Saturday as the next-to-last big weekend of the U.S. college football season turned out to be one of the most hectic of the fall.

University of California at Los Angeles won the host's spot in the Rose Bowl and more than likely will face Ohio State in this most glamorous of the post-season attractions. Louisiana State and Colorado smashed their way into the Orange Bowl. Arkansas nailed down a place in the Sugar Bowl, where it probably will play top-ranked Alabama.

Yelverton Is Big Gun

NEW YORK (AP)—Yelverton Abraham Tittle, 34, has been the No. 1 offensive weapon for New York Giants in a series of stunning National Football League triumphs, the latest a 37-21 walloping of Cleveland Browns, Sunday.

The veteran quarterback completed 18 of 27 passes for 253 yards against the Browns and kept the Giants rolling toward the Eastern Conference title with their fourth consecutive romp and ninth victory in their last 10 games.

The Giants picked up Tittle on August 15 in a trade with San Francisco '49ers. Under his guidance, the Giants' offense has accounted for an amazing 170 points in the last four games as they built and maintained a lead over the defending league champions, Philadelphia Eagles.

The Eagles kept pace Sunday, whipping Dallas Cowboys 35-13 behind quarterback Sonny Jurgensen's five touchdown passes. They still have three scheduled games left. In the Western Conference, Green Bay, 17-9 winner over Detroit, Thursday, holds a commanding lead over the Lions and San Francisco, tied for the runner-up spot at 6-4-1.

San Francisco remained in contention by beating Minnesota Vikings 38-28. Chicago edged Los Angeles Rams 28-24. Baltimore Colts beat Washington Redskins 27-6 and Pittsburgh nipped St. Louis Cardinals 30-27.

FINANCE CO. OF CANADA

Oak Bay Farmers are making plans to capture the Little Grey Cup next year, but in the meantime they have no argument with Fort Garry coach Gary Hobson.

Farmers and the 1,200 fans at Macdonald Park Saturday just had to agree with Hobson after watching Fort Garry Lions power their way to the western Canada juvenile football crown with a 32-9 triumph over Oak Bay in the second annual Little Grey Cup game.

Even before he left Winnipeg, with his Manitoba champions, Hobson claimed he had "the best juvenile football club in Canada."

And his Lions looked just that Saturday as they outplayed the Vancouver Island titleholders all the way in a game that proved once again that spirit and determination are not an effective gridiron answer to superiority in weight, experience, cohesion and talent.

Farmers, with half their players in their first season of football, gave it a good try but after the opening five minutes

Bays Net Only 29 Yards Rushing

Lions, who went in front in the third minute when Poustie scampered around the left end for a touchdown, collected their points on five touchdowns and two conversions, both by Gene Solumundson.

Farmers points came on a second-quarter safety touch and a fourth-quarter converted touchdown.

Against a defensive line that averaged 190 pounds per man, the Bays were able to chalk up a net of only 29 yards rushing. They trailed 12-0 after the opening quarter and 18-2 at half time. The third quarter was scoreless as Farmers played their best football, once driving Fort Garry to the five-yard line before losing the ball on downs.

Oak Bay Losing Only Six Players

Lions completed only one of nine attempts, but that one set up their third touchdown. Poustie grabbed the pass and ambled for a 54-yard gain to the Oak Bay three and Gabor smashed over from there.

In the final quarter, Gabor broke through the middle for 65 yards and his second touchdown and the fleet Poustie also counted his second major after putting together runs of 35 and 31 yards. Ransby got the other Fort Garry TD, on a nine-yard plunge in the opening quarter.

"Like I said," commented Hobson after the game, "I've got the best juvenile club in Canada. Our passing was off and our offence has been sharper. But as I expected, our defence beat them."

Oak Bay coaches Jack Bryan and Ralph Sinden agreed that Vancouver Island hopes in future Little Grey Cup tussles may rest with the ability to develop bantam and midget football teams to supply the juvenile squads.

"The Lions had a big edge in football sense," said Bryan, "especially on defence."

"We'll be a much better club next season," added Sinden, "and we'd like to see the age limit standardized before next year's game."

Even if the rules remain the same, Oak Bay will lose only six players because of age while Fort Garry is due to lose 24, which is a good reason why Farmers are making optimistic plans for 1962.

Lumley Sparkles For Nanaimo Club

Independent Athletic Association and Nanaimo will try again Wednesday after failing to decide anything Saturday in their Vancouver Island Amateur Hockey League duel.

Independents, holding down second place behind the front-running Nanaimo crew, outplayed the leaders before about 800 fans at Memorial Arena Saturday night but had to settle for a 1-1 tie as Bob Lumley came up with a stand-out display in the Nanaimo nets.

Lumley, who made brilliant moves to stop shots by Orville Coulter and Ed Varga, finished with 39 saves. George Hall was also tough in the IAA goal, blocking 24 shots.

Both goals came in the second period, Gary Barlow put-

DODGE WILL OUT-RUN, OUT-ECONOMIZE MOST ANY CAR AROUND!

MORE ACTION, LESS DEAD WEIGHT. Dead weight holds a car back. Makes it eat gas. Dodge has cut dead weight to a minimum. The Dart automatic transmission is a good example. It's stronger, more efficient, has an aluminum case. It weighs 60 pounds less. Dead weight reductions like this are why you get quicker acceleration using less gas in a 1962 Dodge. EASY HANDLING. The easiest ever. Because of less dead weight on front wheels and a new low-friction steering gear. You get action and economy in the same automobile. It goes twice as far between oil changes — drives 32,000 miles between grease jobs. ITS BRAKES ADJUST THEMSELVES AUTOMATICALLY. Unquestionably, this new lean breed of Dodge is a very hot automobile indeed.

ATTACK BEATEN BACK KATANGA RADIO CLAIMS

ELISABETHVILLE (Reuters) — Katanga Province forces repelled an attack by central Congo government troops in the Kapanga area of the border between northern Katanga and the mining state of South Kasai Sunday, Radio Katanga said today.

The radio said the Katangan troops "victoriously repulsed" the attack without loss but the central troops suffered losses.

Explosive Wired To Football Field

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Police disclosed Saturday after the Southern California-UCLA football game, that a cache of wired dynamite was found just off the playing field in the Coliseum Thursday night.

Capt. J. S. Lambert, head of the university detective division, said the three half-sticks of 40 per cent dynamite could have caused injury or death to anyone near them when detonated.

Five Southern California students were given lie detector tests before they were released by police.

Each stick of dynamite had a detonator cap and primer cord attached to a 180-foot length of wire that led into the USC rooting section. Officers said the end of the wire was anchored near an electrical outlet so that the dynamite

Coastal Park Plan Backed By Chatterton

Ottawa will be asked to review the status of national defence lands on the Metehosin waterfront, Esquimalt-Saanich MP George Chatterton said in reply to a statement last week advocating parkland.

A principal speaker at a community planning conference at Belmont High School said the coast should be made into a series of parks linked by a highway.

Much of the land, held by the department of national defence, is obsolete for defence purposes, said Geoffrey Mitchell, a resident of Witty's Lagoon district.

Mr. Chatterton said such land should be turned over to public use as park, if suitable.

The first systems of compulsory accident and sickness insurance were introduced in Germany in 1884.

NARCOTICS TRIAL DEFENDANT

Canadian Torch Victim In Gangland Slaying

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (CP)—The second gangland-style slaying of a defendant in an $150,000,000 international narcotics smuggling trial was disclosed Saturday when authorities identified the charred body of a torch murder victim as that of Albert Agueci, 39-year-old Canadian fugitive.

Agueci had jumped $20,000 bail in the trial of 12 men in New York—now in recess until Wednesday. All were charged with conspiring to violate the narcotics laws.

Two hunters had found Agueci's body in a field near suburban Penfield last Thursday—United States Thanksgiving Day.

Police said Agueci's arms were bound behind his back with wire. He had been strangled with a plastic clothesline and doused with kerosene. He had been dead two days.

Police said Agueci sold his Toronto house and car about a month before he was to appear in New York for the trial that started three weeks ago. His wife, Avita, had been living with friends in a two-room flat in Toronto, authorities said.

She said she had not seen Agueci since October 8.

Eichmann Verdict Announced Dec. 11

JERUSALEM (Reuters) — he was only a small cog in the extermination machine and that he was forced to carry out orders from above.

During his eight-month interrogation, Eichmann asked to be allowed to write a "message of humanity" warning against a new Nazi-style leadership. It was not known, however, whether this is what he has been working on in his book.

Eichmann, former SS lieutenant-colonel in charge of the Gestapo's Jewish department, was captured by Israeli agents in Argentina in 1960. He went on trial here last April 11 and the trial ended Aug. 14.

He is liable to the death penalty, the three Israeli judges have been considering their verdict, Eichmann has been racing against time in his heavily-guarded cell to complete a book he is writing.

During his trial, the prosecution spelled out in detail the extermination of millions of Jews in Europe under the Nazis, Eichmann claimed that

Communism Tightens Grip Upon Cubans

(EDITOR'S NOTE: It is now almost three years since Fidel Castro led his bearded followers in a triumphant march into Havana. What is the temper now in the controversial country? Edwin Tetlow, a noted British newsman who watched Castro enter Havana, gives an on-the-scene view in a two-part series. "This," notes Mr. Tetlow, "was my tenth visit to Cuba since the revolution succeeded.")

By EDWIN TETLOW

HAVANA — Even cautious European diplomats in Havana now concur in the long-held American view that the Castro revolution has become a Communist one. The island is being turned at speed into a totalitarian state as close to the type rigged by the Soviets behind the Iron Curtain as can be imposed upon the volatile and individualistic Cubans.

The disastrous change has been developing strongly since Castro announced in May that in future there would be only one integrated political party—the Organizaciones Revolucionarias Integradas.

All members of this party's ruling body, with the possible exception of a couple, have been long-standing members of the P.S.P. (Communist) of Cuba. Even the 26th July Movement, on which the emotional Fidel Castro founded his crusade, has been swallowed up. It has gone with the beard.

A good estimate is that one in every 12 Cubans is a spy for the regime. Havana is studied with so-called Committees for the Defence of the Revolution. They seem to be in every block of flats and, indeed, almost every other house. They are there so that agents of the revolution can see what everybody is—and is not—doing.

Half Million Members in Militia

The militia now has half a million members — men and women, boys and girls. It is kept mobilized in relays of 50,000 so that there is always a permanent force to deal with trouble from any quarter, inside the island or outside.

Technicians and other visitors from behind the Iron Curtain are the pampered elite. I found that there were more than 70 Czechs in the decaying Havana Libre Hotel.

So, also, brought by the truckload into the capital from all parts of the island for a weekend of free luxury and fun, were parties of Juvenile Rebels attending a plenary session of Communism.

They are now among the most fervent supporters of the revolution, but one feels that they do not support it so much for its political orientation as for the fact that it offers a joyful outlet for such youthful amusements as wearing uniform, singing songs and otherwise letting off steam.

The overt signs of the links with Communism are far too numerous to miss. Even in the pathetic newspapers of Havana the activities of the revolution are just as frequently described as "communist" as they are called "socialistic".

RUSSIAN BOOKS
Russian and Chinese books and other publications litter the bookstalls, and one offered in this Catholic country is called: "Christ Was a Communist." Cans of Russian pork, Polish ham, Bulgarian fruit, Hungarian goulash and Chinese mutton line the shelves of the food department in the nationalized stores.

What seems to have happened since the rout of the revolution last spring is that the old guard of Communists has finally taken over. One hears very little these days about Ernesto "Che" Guevara, the Argentine-born soldier of fortune who used to run the show for Fidel. Now one hears such names as Blas Roca and Anibal Escalante, two of the toughest old Communists Cuba has ever had.

MAN TO WATCH
It seems as if Blas Roca is now the man to watch in Havana. He has been named secretary-general of the new single party, and nobody doubts that he now has the real political power.

JFK Shifts Bowles; 'Misplaced' in Job

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy is removing Chester Bowles as undersecretary of state in a shuffle of the U.S. foreign policy high command.

The changes involve 10 White House and state department officials. None is being dropped.

George Ball, undersecretary of state for economic affairs, replaces Bowles as undersecretary.

Bowles, 60, former governor of Connecticut and ambassador to India and a Kennedy adviser during last year's presidential race, has been a controversial figure in the administration since its first weeks in office. The president and State Secretary Dean Rusk were reported to consider him misplaced in the department's No. 2 position.

The announcement, made Sunday night from Kennedy's headquarters at Hyannis Port, Mass., said Bowles is to get a high policy-making position on relinquishing his present duties. There was no immediate statement from Bowles.

Officials here understood that he was being offered a combination assignment of roving ambassador and special foreign adviser to Kennedy and Rusk.

Administration leaders considered him misplaced as undersecretary, officials said, because he was more concerned with the broad lines of policy development in functioning as an idea man than in the day-to-day conduct of foreign relations.

The moves in the shuffle are:

1. Ball, 51, a Washington lawyer, will continue to concentrate on economic affairs.

2. George McGhee, 49, chairman of policy planning in the state department, moves to undersecretary for political affairs.

3. Averell Harriman, 70, former governor of New York and member of the Truman administration as well as ambassador to Russia and Great Britain, moves to assistant secretary for the Far East. He now is a roving ambassador.

4. Walt Rostow, 55, former professor of economics at Massachusetts Institute of Technology and now a deputy special assistant to Kennedy for national security affairs, moves to chairman of the policy planning council, succeeding McGhee.

5. Frederick Dutton, 38, now Kennedy's assistant for cabinet net affairs, becomes assistant state secretary for congressional relations.

6. Richard Goodwin, 30, now deputy special counsel to Kennedy, becomes deputy assistant state secretary for inter-American affairs.

7. Walter McConaughy, 58, now assistant secretary for the Far East, is to be given an ambassadorial post when Harriman takes over his job. He is a former ambassador to Burma and Formosa.

8. Brooks Hays, 63, former Democratic representative from Arkansas who is relinquishing the job of assistant secretary for congressional relations, goes to the White House as a special assistant to the president.

9. Timothy Reardon Jr., 46, now an administrative assistant to the president, becomes a special assistant to handle cabinet affairs as Dutton shifts to the state department.

LABOR HITS POWEREXPORT

VANCOUVER (CP)—The B.C. Federation of Labor has gone on record as solidly against export sale in the United States of Canada's share of downstream benefit power from the projected Columbia River hydro development.

In a letter to Justice Minister Fulton, released here Saturday, the federation said export of power would only "lead to the further industrial development of the United States Pacific Northwest and is tantamount to exporting jobs and industrial opportunities which under normal and proper development of the Columbia project would be provided for Canadians."

2-Boat Order Placed

$1 Million Each For Tuna Vessels

Victoria shipbuilding industry is expected to receive a boost this winter with a Yarrows Ltd. contract to build two deepsea tuna vessels at an estimated cost of $1,000,000 each.

Although arrangements for private financing have not been completed, approval for a 40 per cent federal government subsidy has been given by the Canadian Maritime Commission.

The ships are expected to be completed in time for the 1963 season.

OFF NEW ZEALAND

The two vessels were conceived by Vancouver fishermen W. R. Logan and R. A. Karlner to take advantage of the rich, newly-discovered tuna schools of the coast of New Zealand.

To date the only serious commercial fishing in these waters had been done by the Japanese.

Improved refrigeration systems and enlarged holds of the new ships will enable them to bring back about 700 tons each trip for processing in Vancouver.

The vessels will be 150 feet over-all, 37 feet beam and 16.3 feet moulded depth. Cruising range will be about 15,000 miles and halfload speed in excess of 13 knots.

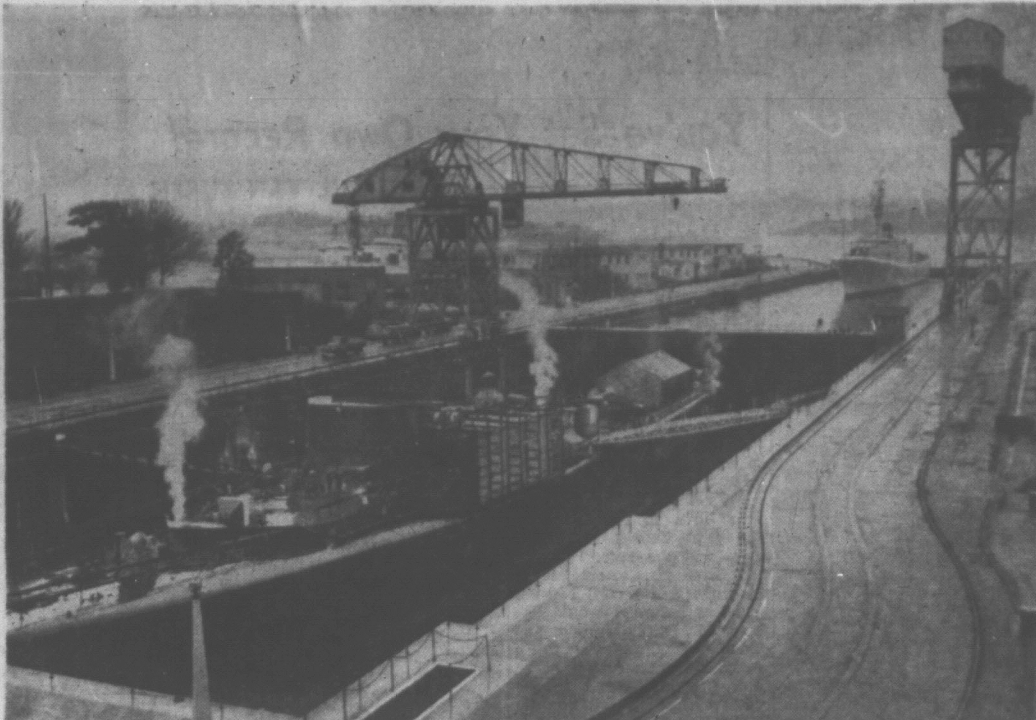

FEDER SHIPS

The owners intend using two 73-foot boats now operating as feeder ships in conjunction with the larger new ones.

The Canadian fleet will use seine nets in New Zealand waters, as opposed to the old method of line-fishing used for years off the California and Mexican coasts.

Seining was made possible by the adoption of nylon nets and power blocks.

New Zealand tuna average about 75 pounds each and run up to 200 pounds, compared to a 26-pound average off this coast.

PAY TALKS ON DEC. 7

A negotiating committee of the B.C. Government Employees' Association will open talks on a general wage increase with the Civil Service Commission here Dec. 7.

Pay boosts ranging from 5 to 20 per cent for all civil service classifications are being sought for next year.

Details of the demands will be released when the meetings open next month.

"We are hoping for a fairly rapid decision—before the end of the year—from the commission," said a BCGEA spokesman.

If the civil servants do not get the increases they seek, they will put their case before the government's newly-established board of reference.

Beef Prices To Increase By Weekend

Higher beef prices likely will hit the Victoria area at the end of this week or the beginning of next as the effect of higher stockyard prices on the prairies is felt in local buying.

Victoria packinghouse representatives had received no price information this morning. However, several of them said that judging from news reports from Calgary and Edmonton at the end of last week, beef prices locally would be up close to 10 cents a pound at the retail level.

A check on a number of independent local butchers disclosed that beef has already gone up in price better than 10 cents a pound since Sunday.

HUSBAND'S CAR HELD AFTER WIFE INJURED

City police and detectives are investigating an early Sunday morning incident on a city hotel parking lot which resulted in a 38-year-old woman being taken to hospital suffering undetermined head injuries, bruised knees and hands.

Mrs. Juanita Clark, 503 Admirals Road, was described as in "poor" condition in St. Joseph's Hospital today.

Exact details of the incident are as yet unknown.

City police received a call to the Ingham Hotel parking lot at 1:30 a.m. Sunday. They found Mrs. Clark in an unconscious condition and took her to hospital.

City police today declined to say how Mrs. Clark came by her injuries.

A car belonging to her husband is being held pending further investigations.

Her death raises to 10 the number of fatal traffic victims in Greater Victoria this year. The city now has five, Esquimalt three, Oak Bay and Saanich one each.

According to city police, Mrs. Powley was crossing Douglas Street from west to east at Discovery when she was in collision with a car being driven north on Douglas by Mrs. Edith Lee, 1521 Myrtle.

The elderly woman was found lying in the roadway 62 feet north of the spot where police officers found her spectacles.

She was less than 100 yards from her home at the time. She was taken to hospital with a cut above her right eye, a cut left ankle and internal injuries. She died at 7:31.

INQUEST TUESDAY

Coroner Dr. J. H. Moore said an inquest will be held at 10 a.m. Tuesday in Chaplin's Funeral Chapel.

Mrs. Powley had no relatives in Victoria. A niece, Mrs. Elmore Philpott, lives in Vancouver.

Born in Kitchener, Ont., Mrs. Powley served as a nursing sister during the First World War. After that she and her husband farmed in Saskatchewan until 1936, when they came to Victoria.

She had lived here alone since the death of Mr. Powley in 1940.

TWO-CAR CRASH

Mrs. Vanda Radum, Cowichan Lake, is in good condition in St. Joseph's Hospital today with facial injuries she received in a two-car collision on the Trans Canada Highway at Tillicum Sunday evening.

She was a passenger in a car being driven east on the highway by her husband, which was involved in a collision with a car being driven north on Tillicum by John McKeller, Rocky Point Road.

Mr. McKeller also was admitted to the hospital but was discharged later.

Mr. Radum and John Mutter, 2605 Sooke Road, a passenger in Mr. McKeller's car, were treated for cuts and bruises and released.

Force of the impact sent the Radum car right off the road. It ended up straddling the E & N Railway tracks north of the highway. Saanich police estimated total damage at $2,000.

PASSENGER HURT

A second Sunday evening accident sent Mrs. Doris Adamek, 2817 Rodney, to St. Joseph's Hospital with facial lacerations. She is in good condition today.

RCMP said she was a passenger in a car being driven north on Goldstream by her husband, which was in collision with a car driven by Nicholas Richard Lennax, 448 Goldstream.

The Lennax car was heading for Colwood along Goldstream and was making a left turn onto Millstream, police said. Total damage was estimated at $1,000.

Gary Shrive, 921 Royal Terrace, was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital this morning for bruises he received when his bicycle collided with an open car door on Government Street. He was not admitted.

Car was driven by Richard Broughton, 1041 Craigdarroch.

Father's Petition to Protest Survival Training in Schools

(See also Page 34)

A city man has started circulating a petition calling on Greater Victoria School Board to halt plans to teach A-bomb survival training to all students.

W. M. Smardon, 618 Harbinger, said today he already has "several dozen" signatures although he only started Sunday.

The school board decided last Monday to start survival drills and approved a program of lectures to be drawn up by school authorities.

Mr. Smardon, a professional engineer and parent, has written a protest letter to the board.

"My objection," he said, "is against the whole idea of telling children they could have bombs dropped on them."

FRIGHTENING

He said sensitive children will be frightened out of their wits.

Mr. Smardon said he'd been told harmful effects of the program could be offset by parents.

"This is an idiotic attitude," he said. "It can only weaken the connection between school and home."

Mrs. Smardon has a seven-year-old child in school. "It just hurts me to see what the effect on her would be," he said.

Five Win Seats By Acclamation

33 Candidates Seek 17 Posts

Greater Victoria municipal election campaign was finished in a hurry at noon today for five candidates who were elected by acclamation.

They are veteran Esquimalt leader Reeve A. C. Wurtele; newcomer Albert Alexander Cormack, chairman of Sidney village commission; school board candidates Peter G. Bunn, filling the one Oak Bay vacancy; David S. Prosser and John Southern, taking two Central Saanich vacancies.

But for the 14 council vacancies in five areas from Esquimalt to Sidney there will be a contest between 27 candidates who had filed nomination papers by noon deadline.

For three remaining school board seats in the area outside Victoria city, there are six candidates.

Only one area—Esquimalt—had no school trustee vacancies this year, and only one had no reeveship election—Central Saanich.

BOUNDARY VOTE

Sidney is the only area with a major referendum, the question of extending municipal boundaries, but Saanich voters will be asked by the province whether they favor sale of beer by the glass.

Only last-minute candidates to appear were in Saanich and Oak Bay.

Reginald Sinkinson, chairman of School District 63 Board of Trustees, eased in under the wire for his first try at municipal politics in Saanich, raising the number of candidates there to eight.

TRUSTEE

He lives at 1104 D'Arcy Lane, is a merchant and has been a trustee more than 10 years.

Mr. Sinkinson is credited with guiding the $675,000 school building bylaw through in rural Saanich this year.

The newcomer in Oak Bay is William J. J. Wade, 1434 St. David, a provincial government clerk, who was nominated by Patricia J. Arnold and Alice Fraser.

There are four women contesting seats in the area, two for school board and one for council in Saanich, and one for council in Central Saanich.

Here are the lineups:

SAANICH:

Mabel Made Them Wait

Mayor Mabel Anderson kept voters of Alberni on pins and needles until 11:50 a.m. today, when she filed nomination papers for re-election.

One of the most contentious civic figures on Vancouver Island, she has served two years in a term that has featured a constant fight between her and her council.

Her opponent for the mayoralty will be Fred Bishop, a native son of Alberni and alderman for several years, and well-known figure in basketball circles.

Mayor Dobson Unopposed At Duncan

Election of Mayor Jack Dobson of Duncan and Village Chairman Mrs. Mildred Child today by acclamation turned the spotlight of election interest in the Cowichan valley to the sprawling municipality of North Cowichan.

With the closing of nominations at noon today it was seen that the major contest will be between Reeve Donald C. Morton of Soanemo and James J. Gordon, Chemainus, for the top North Cowichan post.

This will be the first election for the reeveship in North Cowichan for 10 years. Reeve Morton succeeded Maj.-Gen. C. A. P. Murison, and is seeking re-election for the first time.

Five candidates—only one of them at present a councillor—seek the two vacant seats on the council.

THREE-WAY RACE

Three candidates will try for election to two aldermanic seats on Duncan council, and there will be a three-way race in Lake Cowichan for two commission seats.

Interest in school boards was low. The Duncan seat on District 65 board is without a candidate, and all others were filled by acclamation.

Details follow ("x" denotes incumbent):

DUNCAN

Mayor—(x) J. T. Dobson.

Aldermen (three seats)—Robert J. Mason, (x) J. A. E. Mutter, James Patterson.

School trustee, District 65, one to be elected—No candidate.

ASK THE TIMES

Q.—Which freezes more quickly on ice—hot or cold water? If hot water does not freeze quicker, why do they use it at the arena?—P.O.

A.—Cold water freezes more quickly. Hot water would be used to smooth the surface of the ice.

Q.—Could you please tell me if there will be racing at Lansdowne Race Track next year?—F.R.

A.—There will be no racing next year at Vancouver's Lansdowne track. Last year the owner of the track amalgamated with Exhibition Park, and a statement was issued that there would be no more racing at Lansdowne.

The building was entered by forcing the rear doors. The office at the rear of the building was ransacked.

Shunned Husband Carried Shotgun 'To Scare Wife'

A rejected husband pleaded guilty in city police court today to possessing an offensive weapon.

Police said William Hodgkin had "wanted to scare his wife" with a loaded shotgun.

He was arrested when he had gone to his brother-in-law's home where his wife was staying after she had left him.

Hodgkin, who came to court directly from hospital, has a liquor problem as well as a chronically bad back, the court was told.

Magistrate William Ostler put sentence off until Friday when a probation report could be tendered. He allowed the man to return to hospital until that time.

THE BETTER HALF By Bob Barnes

"Well, this certainly isn't a sight that might inspire the world's great love poems."

FROM CALIFORNIA

The Spring Silhouette In Flares and Curves

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (UPI)—Slow! Curves ahead: This refers to the spring fashions California designers presented recently to more than 85 fashion editors from throughout the United States and Canada.

The state's 11th annual national press week was held at the Beverly Wilshire Hotel, sponsored by the California fashion creators.

Major trend from California is one of femininity, the key word, softness.

First, the silhouette is a "skimmer," a slow-fitting shape that is concave at the front to reveal the figure's contours, often falling free at the back, extending to a slight flare at the hem.

It is reflected in graceful cowls, intricate draping of material, and in skirt fullness that falls close to the body rather than billowing outward. Fabrics underscore this look of softness, including gammar wools, smooth-surfaced crepes, and diaphanous printed chiffons. Bright cottons, suave linen and rich silk-and-wool round out the picture.

Colors are pastels predominantly, with particular emphasis on apricot, peach and coral.

The waistline wanders, from high under the bustline to down around the hips.

Seaming, wide inset mid-ribs, and high-arching belts define the high waistline, while the hipline accent is indicated with banding or belts that effect the long torso silhouette.

When the waistline is where nature put it, most frequently it is marked with piping or cording.

If California designers have their way this coming spring, the women will have a look of winsome femininity—a look sure to please the men.

TODAY'S RECIPE

Are you making your steamed Christmas puddings now to give them time to mellow? One recipe that never loses its popularity because it's so light and moist is Carrot Pudding. And some of the credit for that moistness belongs to the grated apple in it, too, whether you happen to use Macs, Spartans, Romes or Golden Delicious.

CARROT PUDDING

One cup grated raw carrot, 1 cup grated apple, 1 cup grated raw potato, 1 egg (beaten), 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon baking soda, 1 teaspoon allspice, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 teaspoon nutmeg, ½ cup granulated sugar, 1 cup grated suet (or ½ cup butter), 1½ cups raisins (halved), ½ cup chopped nuts (optional).

Grate apple, carrot and potato. Combine with beaten egg and vanilla. Sift flour with salt, soda, spices and sugar. Add suet or cut in butter. Add raisins and nuts and combine with first mixture. Place in well-greased 1½-quart pudding mold. Cover with double thickness of waxed paper or aluminum foil, tie securely with string. Steam 3 hours in closely-covered steamer. Cool thoroughly and store until needed in cool dry place. To reheat for serving, steam 1 hour.

New Members

Mrs. W. Apter, Mrs. J. Pipes and Miss June Harper were inducted as new members by Mrs. C. C. Warren at a recent meeting of the Victoria Toastmistress Club. Mrs. T. Grant presided.

DEAR ABBY...

You've Set Your Own Record!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I wasn't educated here so please correct my English if I don't express myself too good.

I don't know a thing about baseball and I am not interested in the game, but I have a nut at home for a husband. Since Mr. Maris hit 61 home runs, all I hear about is the record he set. I am fed up with this nonsense.

Let me tell you that I also set a record. In two years I gave birth to SIX children. The first time I had three boys, and the second time I had three girls. And, believe me, that is a record I never heard of before. I would like to see Mr. Roger Maris or any other baseball player tie a record like that. Please, Abby, remind my husband that I also set a record and I am not in the Hall of Fame.

SIX OUT OF TWO.

DEAR ABBY: I became acquainted with a man through my work. He told me he wasn't married. He is my type of guy and I could get very serious about him, but something bothers me. I have called him up numerous times at his apartment, and a woman has answered the phone.

He has told me it was his "sister" or a "cousin" or a "neighbor." But I am sure it is the same woman every time. How can I find out for sure whether he is married or living with someone?

NEEDS HELP.
DEAR NEEDS: Don't get palsy walsy with a man whose marital status is hazy. If a woman has answered his telephone "numerous times," the chances are she belongs there.

DEAR ABBY: I am 23, well-behaved and live at home. I give my mother half my pay check in return for room, board and laundry service—which is all right with me.

My problem is that I am treated as though I were still 16. I could move out and share an apartment with another girl, but I know my parents can use the money so I have continued to live at home.

When I come home from a date, the minute the car pulls up, my mother starts flashing the porch light off and on. It is very embarrassing for a girl my age. Have you any suggestions?

LIGHTNING BUG'S DAUGHTER.

DEAR DAUGHTER: Your mother's signalling is childish. Tell her, respectfully, that you have seen the light and if she doesn't stop embarrassing you in this manner you will move out.

CONFIDENTIAL TO DEEPLY TROUBLED: Do unto others. If YOU had a 15-year-old daughter who behaved that way, wouldn't you want to know?

Hairdressing Demonstration

Victoria hairdressers will compete for prizes in a demonstration contest in the Empress Hotel Jan. 28-29; it was announced recently.

Mr. Matthews met local hairdressers, employers and operators at a meeting in the hotel last week.

Danny Hajnal, chairman of Victoria Styling Council, was requested to send four stylists from the council to Vancouver to give a hair-styling demonstration on Feb. 4.

Seven members were elected to form an advisory committee to work with the provincial executive. They are:

Mrs. June Lowe, Kenneth Kelly, Dudley Stephens, Mrs. A. Speakman, Mrs. H. Scott, Mrs. Doris Mathison, Mrs. Margaret Leask.

Simpler, Shorter

MONTREAL (CP) — A costume collection shown to the press here suggests coats for the future will be simpler and shorter.

Designed by Fontana of Rome, Schiaparelli of Paris and Michel of Montreal, and made up by Hollinger, the most popular coat length was the turtleneck. This—32 to 34 inches—is just between the jacket and three-quarter coat.

Many of the sleeves were also shorter and were worn with long leather gloves. Collars were smaller and some of the coats had collarless cardigan necklines.

The silhouette was generally slimmer and straighter and dressmaker details were used to shape. Backs remained slightly full and some were oval or cape-shaped.

Furs shown included mink, beaver, broadtail Alaska seal, stone marten, Norwegian blue black hair seal, sheared muskrat and Southwest African Persian lamb.

There were fewer spotted furs than last season, and the designers seemed to be returning to the use of one-color fur.

Mrs. Bina Whitney, centre, matron of Rose Manor, holds a charming doll which will be raffled at seventh annual bazaar of Xi Beta Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, to be held in Britannia Branch Legion Hall, Blanshard Street, on Saturday from 2 to 4:30 p.m. Doll's wardrobe was made by Mrs. A. Darr.

will, left, a resident of Rose Manor. Pictured right is Miss Mavis Mallabone, general convener of the bazaar. Mrs. T. H. Johns will officially open affair. Proceeds will be in aid of Rose Manor. There will be a fish pond and stalls of candy, home cooking and Christmas decorations. Tea will be served.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

What does it matter how old you are? The important thing is how happy you are, how healthy you are and how much fun you are having. If you are happy, healthy and having fun, good looks are sure to follow.

I sincerely believe that many people think themselves into premature aging. Both physiologists and psychologists today recognize the great influence of the mind on the body. But perhaps they do not yet know how tremendous this is. A person's thoughts are reflected in the glandular system, the heart beat, the respiration—in fact, in the whole physical self.

So forget the number of years you have lived and concentrate on qualities which are constantly rejuvenating. Middle-aged women today are extremely attractive, but sometimes I wonder if they have felt the pressure to remain youthful in appearance to such an extent that they may have forgotten some of the traits which charm at any age. If a woman has lived with awareness, she is certain to become much more tolerant and kinder as she grows older. This does not indicate indifference, but more understanding and wisdom.

The years from middle life on should be some of the happiest and the most rewarding. By this time a woman knows what she wants from life. Her horizons should be broader than her hips, and her sense of humor should have been sharpened and enriched by experience. She should be a better conversationalist than she was in her youth, and should have become cleverer in the art of make-up and choice of clothes.

Not only do our thoughts and attitudes toward life affect us physically, but they also limit our interests and outlook. Many people actually decide what they are going to do by the number of years they have lived, rather than what they want to do. Don't measure life in years.

If you would like to have my leaflet "Watchwords of Science for Youth After 40," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 61 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

If You're Happy, Healthy, Having Fun, Good Looks Are Sure to Follow

Why worry? For one thing, at middle age, you're cleverer in the art of make-up and choice of clothes. But as you apply the lipstick, don't forget to apply charm in daily living—it's the main beauty ingredient at any age.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

When moving heavy furniture, slip old wooden socks over the legs to prevent marking floors. If furniture has flattened the pile of a rug, steam it for a few minutes either with a steam iron or with a folded wet cloth under a dry iron.

Judges use several tried and true tests for judging breads at a contest. They first look at appearance. Bread should be as symmetrical as possible, with an evenly rounded top. The bread should also have a good texture or "crumb" with many little holes, all about the same size. When fingers are rubbed gently over the cut end, the interior should feel soft and fine with no crumbliness. A tender moist crumb will tear easily and show uniform texture. In fancy breads, even distribution of special ingredients is important. This means that the chopped fruits or spices in a loaf should be even throughout and not jammed up in one corner, or just underneath the surface.

GIRL GUIDES

Happy Valley—First Happy Valley Brownies and Guides and the Rivers District Association are planning a Christmas bazaar to be held Tuesday at 3 p.m. in Luxton Hall. Tea will be served until 4:30 p.m. and stalls will include home cooking, candy, soft drinks and white elephant items for children. Proceeds will be used for yearly rental of hall.

Maple Leaf Ball in London Hotel

LONDON (CP) — Annual Maple Leaf Ball, a posh affair sponsored by the Canadian Women's Club in London, was held last week in the sparkling ballroom of the Dorchester Hotel.

Guests were received by George Drew, Canadian high commissioner to the United Kingdom, and Mrs. Drew, a vice-president of the club. Proceeds from the ball go to the club's welfare fund for Canadian veterans in the United Kingdom and other club projects.

Best laugh of the evening was unwittingly provided by a master of ceremonies who, thanking Mrs. Drew for her welcome to the guests and for drawing the door prize numbers, said: "We are grateful to Mrs. Drew for drawing..." His hurried correction was drowned out by laughter and Mrs. Drew apparently enjoyed the slip of the tongue most of all.

Motif of the ballroom decorations was centred around the Canadian Indian. Pretty young girls, selling programs, wore single feathers in their hair and each table was decorated with paper teepees and totem poles.

Mrs. Drew, in her brief speech, complimented the club for the colorful decorations but said jokingly that since she was from Ontario she felt the emphasis on totem poles showed some partiality towards British Columbia.

BPW Will Offer Women First Management Course

TORONTO (CP) — Canada's first management training course solely for women is to be held here early next year.

It was announced today that 60 women executives and supervisors from across Ontario will attend the two-part course sponsored by the Toronto Business and Professional Women's Club.

A six-day session will begin February 11 and another session will be held March 16 to 18.

The course will stress management "arts" such as the ability to handle responsibility, make quick decisions, use experts, organize, delegate authority and supervise.

Main areas of study will be management organization, corporate structure, finance, marketing, human relations, communication and formulation of policy.

Help People of India

Nowhere in the world is the absence of water felt more keenly than in India. In most areas, farmland is either barren and withered from lack of moisture, or reduced to a useless muddy mass by monsoon rains. If water could reach the parched earth in more moderate amounts, India could make use of her great crop-growing potential and feed hundreds of thousands of starving people. Government power projects are transforming life for many villages which lie close to the cities, but the problem of drought and shortage of food is still acute in many outlying areas. People are compelled to wait for hours at a well which is often miles away, to get their ration for the day's cooking and cleaning needs. The Unitarian Service of Canada, a voluntary, relief agency, singles out specific areas which are in desperate need of food and medical assistance.

Donations in the form of cheques should be made payable to "The Times Children of India Fund" and sent or taken to 2631 Douglas Street. A clothing depot is located at 1117 Wharf.

If poison ivy is touched, the skin should be washed with strong household soap or detergent.

No Decision By Indians On CLC Link

ALERT BAY, B.C. (CP)—The Native Brotherhood of British Columbia wound up its week-long annual convention here Saturday without reaching a decision on the controversial question of affiliation with the Canadian Labor Congress.

Time ran out on a protracted debate on the affiliation proposal and the matter was tabled for further consideration.

More than 90 accredited delegates representing 71 per cent of the Brotherhood's branches across the province discussed proposals for encouragement of greater employment, higher education and development of traditional culture among B.C. Indians.

NEW JOBS

A committee was established to study possibilities for creating new types of employment for Indians in particular areas.

Emphasis was given to developing Indian dances for entertainment purposes by selecting the most appealing sections of traditional ceremonial performances. Each band was urged to concentrate on its own historic dances and present them to the public.

The Alert Bay Players presented an hour-long Indian play entitled the "Magic Bough," and an amateur talent contest was staged by young members of the Brotherhood.

All officers, including president Guy R. Williams, were re-elected, only one office, a vice-presidency, being contested.

'Builder Of B.C.' Says Bennett

Premier Bennett today hailed the late Gavin C. Mouat as "a builder of B.C." I am deeply sorry to learn of the passing of Mr. Mouat, I have known him for years, and I have lost a very good friend," said the premier.

"He was truly a builder of B.C. and in particular, the welfare of his beloved Salt Spring Island was always foremost in his mind.

"His life should be an inspiration to all on Salt Spring Island, and all of the other Gulf Islands."

GAVIN MOUAT

Funeral Wednesday For Island Leader

Gavin Mouat, one of the best known of Gulf Islands residents and driving force behind practically all business activities on Salt Spring Island, died Sunday in the Veterans' Hospital at Victoria following a lengthy illness.

Mr. Mouat was born in Nanaimo in 1893, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Mouat, who had emigrated from the Shetland Islands to make their home beside St. Mary Lake on Salt Spring Island.

He went to school in Nanaimo, then worked in the family store, sold real estate, and served as engineer on small coastal craft.

MILITARY MEDAL

In 1915 he enlisted, and won the Military Medal for service with the 51st Bty. Canadian Field Artillery, during a gas attack. After recovery he served with the army of occupation.

Between wars he farmed and conducted his real estate business, and was instrumental in consolidating schools and having electric power brought to the island.

LIBERAL CANDIDATE

He led the group which organized the North Salt Spring water district, was a Liberal candidate for the legislature in 1953, gave land for the site of Lady Minto Gulf Islands Hospital in 1958 and served as chairman of the hospital improvement district. This year, with other members of his family, he donated an 80-acre site for Mount Park and campsite at Ganges.

In 1951 he organized the Gulf Island Ferry Co. to fill the gap left when the CPR withdrew service from the islands. The fleet expanded to the point where it became obvious local capital no longer was sufficient to meet the needs of the growing area.

From his hospital bed Mr. Mouat made one of his last major efforts on behalf of the islands when he persuaded the provincial government to take over the ferry service as part of the B.C. Toll Authority. This was done last Sept. 1.

Survivors include the widow, Torrie, at Mountain Farm Park, Vesuvius Bay; a son, Norman, at home; two daughters, Mrs. Rodney Pringle, Ganges, and Mrs. H. B. Friele, Seattle; eight grandchildren; two brothers, Thomas W. and William M. Ganges, and two sisters, Mrs. R. Toynbell and Mrs. Mary Wood, Salt Spring Island.

Funeral will be held Wednesday at 2 p.m. at St. George's Anglican Church, Ganges, and interment will be in Union Cemetery. Hayward's are in charge of arrangements.

Jury Suggests Gun Training For Minors

PORT ALBERNI—Death of a hunter shot in the head a week ago was termed by a coroner's jury as accidental.

Friedrich Waldhaus, 52, was hunting with his 16-year-old son in the vicinity of Grassy Mountain, near Franklin River, when the tragedy occurred.

The jury recommended that all minors be given adequate training before being granted hunting licences.

His son, Robert, said he and his father had hunted together for the past five years, and communicated by whistle signals.

NO ANSWER

He told the jury he shot at what appeared to be a deer, but only after whistling twice and receiving no answer.

A friend, Dietelm Winter, had accompanied the father and son on the trip, but was on his way back to their car when the accident occurred. He said both were safe hunters.

The jury verdict was that the victim had been killed by a bullet fired by another hunter to whom no blame is attached.

Grassy Mountain is about 18 miles south of here.

Hunter Killed Near Alberni

ALBERNI—Second hunting fatality in this district this year occurred Saturday when Ted Brooks, 30, employee of the B.C. Forest Service, was mistaken for a deer and shot through the chest.

The accident occurred as Mr. Brooks and a companion were walking along a logging road on the logged-off western slope of the Beaufort Range. They were on a hunting trip.

He was wearing an aluminum hard hat and a red checkered jacket, police said.

Mr. Brooks was shot by an 18-year-old Port Alberni hunter who was on a lower road with two friends. He told police he saw only a portion of the victim and mistook him for a deer.

The shot from a 30-30-calibre rifle was fired from a distance of 170 feet, police said.

Calves Thrive On Energy Diet

GANGES—Advances made in livestock care through research into feeding antibiotics, genetics, and artificial insemination were described at a special meeting of Island Farmers' Institute by Dr. A. J. Wood of UBC.

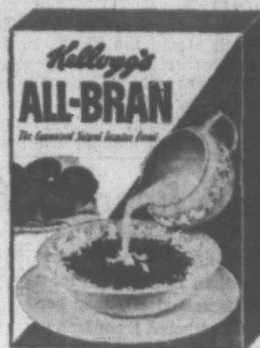

Calves fed on high-energy food without roughage show spectacular growth, he said, and studies in antibiotics have reduced livestock losses throughout Canada.

The accident occurred at 7:10 a.m., about 10 miles west of here. Brooks was dead when police arrived.

RCMP continued their investigation today, but no charges have been laid. They have not released the name of the youth who fired the shot.

ANTI-CANCER VACCINATION TO BE TRIED

STOCKHOLM (Reuters) — Sweden will begin experimentally vaccinating people against cancer next month, it was announced Sunday.

A group of 120 persons, aged between 60 and 70, will be given a vaccine made with dead cancer cells, which are not dangerous.

First results of the experiments will be known in about eight months and will determine whether or not they will continue.

Aim of the experiment—financed by two Swedish insurance companies—is to find out whether the vaccine will promote the production of antibodies in healthy people.

LETTER FROM JAPAN

By DOUG FORRESTER

Industrial Firms Offer 'Tremendous' Job Security

TOKYO — The large industrial firms of Japan are considered as highly desirable employers and the competition for jobs with such companies is very keen. In such an overpopulated country the employers are free to pick and choose their workers from thousands of applicants and it might be expected that exploitation of this situation would be characteristic of Japanese industry.

In actual fact, however, the worker enjoys tremendous job security and an array of fringe benefits that is quite astonishing.

One feature contributing to job security is the fact that an employee of any of the large companies in Japan can be perfectly assured that he will remain with the firm of his choice throughout his working life. Mobility of the labor force is practically nonexistent and, indeed, anyone seeking to change to another company would be looked upon with suspicion as being disloyal and unreliable.

For this reason, knowing that they will remain with one firm from the day they start work until they retire, young men give much thought and heart-searching to the problem of which company they will work with.

Private Exams

All companies conduct their own private examinations for prospective employees and since the number of applicants is often several hundred times the number of available jobs the competition is fierce.

When a young college graduate's whole future life depends upon his getting started with the right firm, the emotional tension is high and there are cases of young men committing suicide because of their failure in such examinations.

But assuming that he has been accepted by a big company such as Fuji Iron and Steel, what kind of life lies before him? Take the matter of wages, first of all. A graduate of middle school, which is equivalent to junior high in Canada, after receiving three years' training at the company's own school, will begin work at the age of 20 with a salary of about 17,600 yen (about $49).

If he has graduated from high school and goes directly to the company at the age of 18, his beginning wage will be about 13,500 yen (about $37.50). A university graduate will start out at 21,500 yen (about $60). For the whole company the average monthly wage as at July, 1961, came to 36,442 yen (about $101).

Not Full Story

At first blush these wages look low but the figures do not give the full story by any means. Using the official rate of exchange of 360 yen to the dollar is unrealistic since the purchasing power is actually between 2½ and three times what it would be in Canada. So a salary of $100 per month in Japan is roughly equivalent to about $275 in Canada.

Nor is this the end of the story. Employees of Fuji Steel are provided with low-cost company housing. At the Hirohata works, for example, there are 86 apartment blocks, each containing from 18 to 24 units of three rooms each. These accommodate 1,523 families. In addition there are 2,270 houses. Rent runs from about $3 to $10 per month and the accommodation provided is very attractive by Japanese standards.

These rents are extremely low, even for Japan. For instance, a friend of mine who works in the Tokyo office of Fuji Steel is provided with a three-room apartment which is noticeably larger than the one in which I myself live. His rent is 900 yen ($2.50), while mine is 29,000 yen ($80.60). Let anyone think that I am being preyed upon as a foreigner. I should point out that I live in a fully Japanese apartment and not in Western style which is a great deal more expensive.

Modern Quarters

For the average Japanese male, marriage is seldom contemplated until the late twenties or early thirties. So it is that at the Hirohata plant there are 2,305 bachelor employees who live in company dormitories, so-called "Dormitory" implies barrack-like rooms with long rows of beds, but these attractive buildings are more like high-class boarding houses than anything else.

The mill workers are lodged two to a room, while the office workers and engineers are entitled to a room to themselves. There is a dining hall and meals are included in the monthly rental. The buildings

I saw were smartly designed, very modern and airy.

At Hirohata each of the nine separate housing areas is served by its own supermarket. Supermarkets are rare in Japan and these are the first I have seen here. They are spacious and airy and the goods on the shelves are sold at reduced rates to the employees, and their families. Even major items such as television sets and washing machines can be bought through the company stores at substantial discounts.

Baseball Tops

Recreational facilities are excellent. The oversized gymnasium-cum-theatre is beautifully designed and is in almost constant use for athletic events and various concerts. Often top orchestras, vocalists and drama groups are engaged for performances so that the steel company employees can enjoy a remarkably full cultural life for admission fees that are purely nominal.

Undoubtedly the most popular sport in Japan is baseball and there is a large stadium where interdepartmental teams compete. Other facilities include an outdoor swimming pool, tennis courts, and a community centre for the workers where they can hold meetings or enjoy various social functions.

In the area of medical services, Hirohata is provided with a hospital, three out-clinics, a TB sanatorium and two rest homes for the chronically ill.

It is almost impossible to gauge accurately just what these fringe benefits add up to in terms of cash, but I would say, after giving the subject some thought, that the average worker employed by Fuji Steel has a real income equivalent to about $350 per month in Canada.

It would be unfair to leave the impression that everything is completely rosy. Naturally there is occasional discontent and sometimes the workers strike for higher wages. But compared with the lot of the average Japanese, the employees of such large industrial concerns do enjoy a high standard of living. Visiting steel men from West Germany, France and Italy admit that it is every bit as high as that of similar workers in West Europe.

'Symptom Of Deep Problem'

MONTREAL (CP)—T. C. Douglas, New Democratic Party leader, said here last week English-speaking Canadians will have to recognize that French Canada labors under a feeling of unequal status and recognition in Confederation.

"Let's recognize that we ought not to get indignant about separatism," he told the annual convention of the Quebec Federation of Labor. "Let's recognize that it's a symptom of a deep and disturbing problem."

"We'll ignore such movements at our peril... Quebec's separatist movement arose from a justifiable feeling that the French-Canadian nation has not been given equal status and equal recognition. The people of English-speaking Canada must recognize that... and enter into the spirit of Confederation."

Student Survival Training Labelled 'Necessary Evil'

School boards have no alternative to setting up national survival training in schools, an executive of Victoria and District Parent-Teacher Council said Saturday.

"They are responsible for the children," said Mrs. B. H. Byers, past president of the council.

At a meeting of the council Friday, individual delegates from various PTA organizations in the district complained of a proposed civil defence program of instruction to school children being implemented before parents are told what will be taught.

"If we get a formal request from a parent-teacher association, we will ask the school board what is proposed," Mrs. Byers said.

MUST DO IT

Mrs. Byers said the executive of the council had not given much discussion to the subject, but felt the school board has to put forth a disaster program.

Like fire drills, what to do in the event of a nuclear explosion is a necessary evil for survival, she said.

Mrs. R. K. Bloomfield of the Gordon Head Elementary School PTA, complained of the proposal.

She was ruled out of order

at the council meeting because she was speaking her own views rather than voicing an opinion of her group.

Mrs. Lillian Money, McKenzie Avenue PTA, said nuclear war is not something children should be worrying about when they should be studying. She wrote the school board herself and quoted from her letter:

"They should be interested in peace and international understanding, not war."

She said there is no defence against a nuclear war, except working for peace and understanding.

"The cold war has no place in the classroom," she said.

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Sir Cedric Hardwicke, the quiet spoofer, is pretending furious indignation at Mary Scott for charging in her divorce action that he said, "Marriage is for the bourgeoisie."

"Had I uttered such an appalling cliché, I would divorce me," insisted Sir Cedric at 21. "My friends are avoiding me—fearing I will say something else witty like that."

"It was just a legal gimmick," shrugged Sir Cedric, who's here on behalf of the "Mrs. G. Goes to College" TV series on CBS. "Mary knows I never said 'Marriage is for the bourgeoisie.'"

"Because," he added, "marriage is not for the bourgeoisie—or anybody else."

Sir Cedric said that after two marriages, he's reminded of the time George Bernard Shaw was asked, at a dinner, "Are you enjoying yourself?" Shaw snapped, "Yes, but that's all I'm enjoying."

They were playing "the tower game" at Howard Perry Rothberg's new salon—Janet Leigh, Tony Perkins, Elaine Stritch and Sharran Douglas. The proposition: "You're confined to a tower with two people. You must throw one off the tower, the other you'll be with for 30 years. Which'll you throw over the tower?" The players try to think of the most

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy! Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 30-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia, and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Wendy Klowaty, age 10, of South Burnaby, B.C., for her question:

What makes a light bulb burn out?

Almost every week, a lamp bulb somewhere in the house is almost sure to give up the ghost. Its radiant white light comes to a stop without so much as a flicker and the useful life of that light bulb has come to an end. If you examine the burned-out bulb, you may see smudges of dark soot on the inside of the glass which could have warned you that the bulb was, so to speak, on its last legs. More often than not, there are no warning signs at all.

The light which glows from a busy little electric light bulb is very hot. The heat and, of course, the light are made by the electric current in the circuit of copper wiring connecting the house to and from the generator, which may be many miles away. The light socket is a wayside station along the route of the electric current. A light bulb has a metal foot which connects with the electrical current when we screw it into the socket. A system of wires, somewhat like an elaborate laundry line, connects the current from the metal foot in the socket up inside the glass bulb.

We can make or break the connection between the bulb and the current in the wiring by turning the light switch on or off. The current in the electric wire is the energy from countless trillions of tiny electrons. They are jostled by the far-away generator and forced to move together in the same direction. When there are no wayside sockets turned on, this teeming energy stays inside the wires to and from the generator.

Electrons Make Detour

When we turn on the light switch, a small stream of electrons is forced to take a detour. They team up the metal rods inside the light bulb and run right into a man-made trap.

If you look inside the bulb, you will see that two sturdy upright poles are connected at the top by a fine coil of wire. This is the filament which finally ends the life of the light bulb.

In the wiring, the teeming electrons have plenty of room to move without becoming overheated. They also have plenty of room in the upright rods inside the light bulb. But suddenly they come to the fine filament and, like a river, they must squeeze through a narrow gorge. They crash and collide into each other and their speeding energy is turned into heat. The filament becomes so hot it glows and its glowing light brightens the room. All this heat, however, is bad for the metal of the filament. Bit by bit it evaporates and becomes weaker. Finally it falls apart and the connection between the lamp and the electric current is broken. The bulb has burned out.

ARGENTINA OPPOSES 'HASTY' CUBA ACTION

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad (AP)—Argentine sources said today Argentine President Arturo Frondizi told Adial Stevenson he feels an inter-American foreign ministers' meeting to condemn Premier Fidel Castro's Cuban government would be too hasty.

Frondizi and Stevenson, chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations, conferred for two hours and 40 minutes late Sunday night on Cuba and other problems facing the Western Hemisphere. The Argentine leader was to leave for Ottawa later today.

Columbia recently called for such a conference but the Argentines said Brazil, Mexico and Ecuador would not join it. They suggested this might result in a breach in the inter-American system.

City Man Watched Laboratories Grow Into Vital Hospital Force

By IAIN HUNTER

The "daddy" of Canadian laboratory technicians, and the man who has watched at first hand the laboratory emerge as a special institution during his 42 years of service as technician, was honored at a farewell dinner here last week.

Ernest O. Teal, head of the laboratory at Royal Jubilee Hospital since 1945, is to retire at the end of this year at the age of 72.

Ernie Teal's connection with hospitals began in his native England where from 1909 to 1913 he worked in the Somerset County Mental Hospital as a male nurse. Here he met and married his wife Hilda who was also a nurse at the hospital.

But in 1913 he was forced to leave his wife in England when he came to Canada. He landed with $4.50 in his pocket.

$27.50 MONTHLY

Coming west on the "Harvest Excursion," he joined the Winnipeg General Hospital as an orderly where he worked a 12-hour day and 6½-day week for $27.50 a month.

At the outbreak of hostilities in August, 1914, he joined the 3rd Field Ambulance, and after three years service in France, Sgt. Teal was invalided back to England. He joined the Granville special Canadian hospital which, by chance, was staffed by a good many Winnipeg doctors.

WITH DR. BOYD

In 1919, now an R.S.M., Mr. Teal was able to bring his family to Canada where he joined the Winnipeg General once more—this time as lab technician.

While in the Winnipeg hospital, Mr. Teal worked under Professor William Boyd, the famous Canadian pathologist under whom he had served in the 3rd Field Ambulance. As his laboratory assistant Mr. Teal played no small part in the studies and research which went into Dr. Boyd's definitive textbooks on pathology and bacteriology.

MANY IN VICTORIA

Ernie Teal has always been noted for his understanding of students—those who studied lab technology under him at the Jubilee will always remember his kindness and patience. But he also watched many young medical students come and go when he was at the General. And many of these students are now practising in Victoria.

"I could tell you some pretty good stories about a few of the doctors in Victoria," said Mr. Teal, "they were a rowdy lot."

One of these ex-students was responsible for bringing Mr. Teal here.

Dr. Ross McNeely, on the way to his post at the Jubilee as pathologist, stopped in Winnipeg long enough to persuade Mr. Teal to join him as chief laboratory technician if the position became vacant. It did in 1945 and the Teals came to Victoria.

AMAZING GROWTH

Mr. Teal has a daughter and son, now chief haematology technician at the Deer Lodge Veterans' Hospital, and six grandchildren in Winnipeg. His eldest son died when he was 16 in 1929.

Ernie Teal's period in lab technology has been one of amazing growth. In 1919, he explained, chemistry played only a small part in diagnosis and treatment. Now there is a team of bio-chemists on all laboratory staffs.

"Whereas there were only four others besides Dr. McNeely and myself in the Jubilee lab in 1945, now there are over 40 on the laboratory roll," Mr. Teal said.

VITAL TASK

One of the greatest changes in his day has been the classification and matching of blood. This is now a vital and perhaps the major concern of all hospital laboratories.

"Before they began classifying and matching blood groups," said Mr. Teal, "many patients used to die on the operating table, and this was accepted as part of the risk—people thought nothing of it."

The fatal clotting of blood can now be prevented by careful matching of blood types.

STORIED FOR LATER

"Generally speaking," said Mr. Teal, "when I started lab work in 1919 we had to begin from scratch and make all our own preparations. Nothing could be wasted."

Now preparations are done outside the hospital lab and stored for use when needed.

At the ceremony honoring Mr. Teal, sponsored by the Vancouver Island Academy of the Canadian Society of Laboratory Technologists four graduate technologists were also honored. They were Catherine Hicks and Gail Parker of the Jubilee, Donna Lamby and Diane Phillips of St. Joseph's.

Plot to Murder Nasser Charged

CAIRO (Reuters) — Diplomats today awaited the next move by the United Arab Republic following its accusation that France planned an assassination attempt against President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

The government issued a statement Sunday night saying nine persons — including four members of an official French mission — were arrested at dawn Saturday on charges of plotting to spy on the U.A.R. and assassinate Nasser.

The statement said France sent an intelligence officer—a "well-known expert at assassination"—to Egypt "under the screen of attending the recent Arab petroleum congress at Alexandria."

Cairo newspapers carried photostat copies of what was described as a confession by one of the four French officials, a man named Bellivier.

alleging that they were studying the possibility of an Israeli attack against the U.A.R. to facilitate a coup.

The officials were members of a French mission posted to the U.A.R. to deal with French assets in Egypt.

Diplomatic relations between the two countries were broken off at the time of the 1956 Anglo-French Suez invasion and the Swiss embassy has since represented France here.

'BLOOD ON DECK'

Skipper Told Friend He Panicked

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The sight of "blood and guts on the deck" made Julian Harvey panic and jump overboard from the Bluebelle, a friend said the yacht skipper told him before committing suicide.

James C. Boozer said Sunday that Harvey pledged him to secrecy, then related that a mast snapped, knocking overboard Harvey's wife, Mary, 34, and Dr. Arthur Duperrault, 49, of Green Bay, Wis., optometrist who chartered the 60-foot sailing ketch.

"I lost my nerve when I saw the blood and guts on the deck, and I jumped overboard," Boozer quoted Harvey as saying. Two days later—and less than 24 hours after a little girl survivor of the Bluebelle was rescued—Harvey killed himself by cutting veins.

Boozer said that after consulting with his pastor, he went to the U.S. Coast Guard with the story Harvey told him. It did not jibe with statements the coast guard got separately from Harvey and 11-year-old Terry Jo Duperrault, whose family was wiped out in the Bluebelle's sinking Nov. 12.

Terry Jo left hospital in Miami Sunday night to return to her home city of Green Bay, Wis. She was accompanied by her aunt, Mrs. Ralph Scheer, with whom she will live.

TELLS ANOTHER STORY

Harvey told the coast guard a squall dismasted the Bluebelle, knocking holes in her hull, and a fire broke out. He said all the passengers jumped overboard to escape the flames and he escaped in a dinghy.

Terry Jo said the masts "leaned" but did not fall; she saw no fire and smelled no smoke, and Harvey left her alone in darkness on the ketch after telling her the Bluebelle was sinking.

She said she saw her mother, Jean, 38, and brother, Brian, 14, lying motionless on a bloody deck when she came topside after hearing Brian screaming and a lot of stamping. She launched a raft and was picked up more than 80 hours later.

A brother of Mrs. Harvey, Dr. Harry Jordan of Milwaukee, said in Miami Sunday night he knew of Harvey's tale to Boozer. "But I don't believe it," Jordan added.

Russ Ending Outer Space Talk Boycott

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—Russia is ending its long boycott of the United Nations committee on the peaceful uses of outer space.

The General Assembly created the committee on the peaceful uses of outer space with a membership of 18 countries including Canada in 1958 and, in a vain bid to win Soviet co-operation, expanded it to 24 in 1959.

U.S. 'FINDS' NEEDLES BUT HAYSTACK MISSING

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The air force has recorded four radar glimpses that may have come from those elusive 350 million tiny copper "needles" hurled into orbit Oct. 21. But it still doesn't know enough to be sure where they are.

The "needles," known technically as dipoles were intended to reflect high frequency radar and radio. They are only a third the thickness of a human hair each and about seven tenths of an inch long. They should be in orbit about 2,100 miles above the earth.

U.S. 'Getting Discouraged' At Slow Columbia Progress

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP) — Interior Secretary Stewart Udall said today he has no intention of intruding in Canada's domestic quarrels but he is, "getting discouraged" with the lack of Canadian progress in ratifying the Columbia River power treaty.

If the Canadians do not ratify the treaty within "the next few months," the United States will have to consider "alternative plans" for supplying more power in the U.S. Pacific northwest, Udall added in an interview.

He indicated the future of the treaty, under which Canada and the United States would join to harness the big west coast river for power and flood control, may be discussed at another session of the Canada-U.S. ministerial committee on economic affairs expected to be held at Ottawa next January.

But even this discussion is unlikely to produce any firm conclusions, he added. The major roadblock was a dispute between the Canadian and British Columbia governments on the question of exporting surplus power to the U.S. and means of financing construction of three Canadian dams to feed more Columbia water into U.S. generating plants. Canada would get half the extra power produced.

Premier Bennett of B.C. wants to sell the Canadian portion of the power back to the United States and use the proceeds to finance dam construction. Prime Minister Diefenbaker wants the power to be used in Canada to attract more industry. An argument often voiced by those opposed to power exports is that once an agreement is signed to supply a community with power it becomes almost impossible to terminate that contract without causing the consumers extreme hardship.

Udall, a former Arizona congressman, said he believes that argument is a lot of nonsense. "That's why I spoke out rather strongly at Seattle last week," Udall said.

"What the Canadians intend to do about the Columbia River treaty is up to them. I don't expect and don't intend to intrude in their internal problems."

"But I don't think there is much force to the argument that if you contract to export power, you cannot stop the shipment once the contract is terminated."

LONG-TERM BASIS
"I'm drawing on long experience in this field. Once a contract is signed, it will be enforced, including the return of power to Canada. Naturally, a power supply contract would have to be on a fairly long-term basis."

STEWART UDALL won't intrude, but...

Certain statements attributed to Udall in Seattle last week brought an official request from Justice Minister Fulton of Canada for clarification.

Fulton said press reports quoted Udall as saying he had no doubt the sale to the U.S. of Canada's portion of the Columbia River power would be approved by Ottawa and that Canadian consent over recapture of power sold to the U.S. was nonsense.

Udall issued a statement last Friday saying what he had stated in Seattle earlier in the week was that it would be "nonsense for anyone to take the position that the United States would not honor any commitment made to return the power to Canada if the Canadians so desire at the expiration of the agreed-to contract."

He said he also was looking forward to early Canadian ratification of the treaty but today he added he was "getting discouraged."

"We've done our part. We've ratified the treaty. They (the Canadians) haven't. We cannot tell them how to resolve their controversy. That would be meddling. All we can do is sit here and be wounded."

ECM TOLD:

'Family' Ties Must Not Be Ruined

BRUSSELS (Reuters) — Britain told members of the European Common Market last month that she wants to be a full member of the European trade group but would not be able to join if the move meant grave loss or ruin for Commonwealth members, it was disclosed today.

In discussing British motives for membership in the market — formally called the European Economic Community — Heath declared:

"In saying that we wish to join the EEC we mean that we desire to become full, wholehearted and active members of the European community in its widest sense and to go forward with you in the building of a new Europe."

However, Heath said he was sure Britain could not join under conditions in which the Anglo-Commonwealth trade connection "was cut with grave loss, and even ruin, for some of the Commonwealth countries."

Heath said Britain had to think deeply about the effect on the Commonwealth of any future British membership in the Common Market. "We believe that it is in the interest of all of us around this table that nothing should be done which would be likely to damage the essential interests of

U.K. COMMONS SCENE OF UPROAR

LONDON (Reuters) — An uproar broke out in the House of Commons today when the government and the Labor opposition clashed over whether the Commonwealth was being kept fully informed on Britain's negotiations with the European Common Market.

Labor Leader Hugh Gaitskill shouted at the government side of the House: "You may not care about the Commonwealth but we do."

its (the Commonwealth's) member countries."

Reports last week said the Heath statement had been leaked to the United States. The British government announced Saturday that it would give all Commonwealth governments the text of his speech.

Confident Solutions Can Be Found

Heath said Britain is "confident that solutions can be found to Commonwealth problems fully compatible with the substance and the spirit of the Treaty of Rome." In 1957, the Rome treaty linked West Germany, France, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg in the Common Market.

Britain "accepts without qualifications" the treaty objectives laid down in provisions for eliminating internal tariffs between the partner nations; for the establishment of a common tariff against imports from outside the market and for common commercial and agricultural policies, Heath said.

"We think it should be possible to deal with our special problems by means of protocols" to the treaty.

He said there was a need for "some adjustments" in the market's common external tariff. If the tariff of the enlarged community was to be acceptable to the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade and to third countries, "it cannot remain at precisely the level of the existing one."

He proposed what he called a "simple solution" — to accept "the structure of the present EEC tariff as the basis of the common tariff of the enlarged community." He also suggested a 20 per cent "linear cut" in the community's present tariff.

Heath said the British "fully share the aims and objectives, political and otherwise, of those who drew up the 'Bonn declaration' in which the six Common Market members pledged they would seek close political unity."

Heath said he believed the

Russ Urge Four Power A-Test Ban

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union proposed today that the United States, Britain and France agree with it now to ban all nuclear tests. First Western reaction was skeptical since the Soviet proposal seemed to call for an unlimited and uncontrolled test moratorium.

The proposal was made on the eve of the resumption of nuclear test ban talks in Geneva by the Soviet Union, Britain and the U.S.

France, the fourth nuclear power, is not a participant but a Soviet statement said the time has come to invite the French.

The Russians released a proposed four-article draft agreement and in the accompanying statement hinted they may resume tests if France does.

Under the Soviet proposal the four powers would agree to halt tests in the atmosphere, under water and in outer space. The argument was that each power now has the means of detecting such tests and cheating would be impossible.

The four powers also would undertake not to hold nuclear weapons tests underground while negotiating an agreement on a control system that could detect such blasts.

REPLY TO U.S.

Article three contained a direct reply to the American announcement that it was going to continue underground tests regardless of the reopening of talks. It said:

"The states participating in this agreement assume the commitment not to carry out any underground tests of nuclear weapons before they reach agreement among themselves on a system of control for such tests as a component part of international control for carrying out the agreement on general and complete disarmament."

Article one bans atmospheric tests such as were carried out by the Soviet Union this year.

National Power Grid Hinted by John D.

GRAND FALLS, Nfld. (CP) — A hint that a national power grid plan is in the works was dropped Saturday night by Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

He said it may not be too long before such a grid could be established using new techniques in long-haul transmission of power.

The provinces willing, firm plans could be made for a national grid to carry the country's vast hydro-electric potential to various parts, he said.

In a public address, he also asked Canadians to participate in government by sending him ideas for the development of economic and natural resources.

"If you have an idea... I ask for that co-operation," he said.

The drop-me-a-letter program works so that "each of us becomes a part of the government," Mr. Diefenbaker told an audience of 550 at this pulp and paper town where he capped an intensive 2½-day visit to Newfoundland.

Full Autonomy Asked For Victoria College

Recognition of Victoria College as "an autonomous, degree-granting institution at the earliest moment they feel ready to accept such status" was recommended by Dean Geoffrey C. Andrew of UBC at a windup dinner of the Vancouver Island conference on higher education at Nanaimo Saturday.

Dean Andrew, often referred to as the "deputy president" of UBC, added that he thought the independent status could be achieved within three years, during which time "the whole subject of future relationships could be reviewed."

Previously expressed by UBC president Dr. Norman A. M. MacKenzie.

Dr. MacKenzie has urged close co-operation between the two institutions on a federated system, with the epicenter at Point Grey.

CHILDREN OF INDIA

Family Allowance Cheque 'With Love'

A family allowance cheque for $14 headed the list of weekend donations to the Times Children of India Fund as it neared $1,000.

"Please accept this cheque with love from Peter and Karen," said the note from two children who sent the cheque with their parents' approval.

Although not the largest contribution it showed that Victorians of all ages are again giving according to their means.

A donation of $5 was received from Mrs. B. Kean, 1737 Lee. "May the good Lord bless you all in helping this good work," she wrote.

The current drive is devoted solely to supplying as much Canadian powdered milk as possible to starving children in India.

Other USC efforts are devoted to long range help-help projects for depressed people in many lands.

"Children are fainting in schools from hunger," said USC executive director, Dr. Lotta Hirschmanova.

West Sees Little In New Soviet Plan

GENEVA (UPI) — Observers said today the United States and Britain saw little in the latest Soviet nuclear test ban treaty proposal that would bring an early East-West agreement.

A first appraisal termed the Soviet plan an offer for an indefinite test ban moratorium without controls. It also, was seen as an attempt to drag in France as a signatory to the proposed treaty right from the start — even though France thus far has shown no interest in joining the Geneva talks.

United States and British nuclear negotiators are awaiting formal presentation of the Soviet plan at the three-power conference which resumes here Tuesday after a three-month recess.

They reserved official reaction pending urgent consultation with their respective governments in Washington and London.

VENEZUELAN AIRLINER HIJACKED BY STUDENTS

CARACAS (AP) — The Venezuelan airline announced leftist students seized one of its passenger liners today and dropped on Caracas leaflets assailing the government of President Romulo Betancourt. Then the students forced the plane to land at Curacao, Netherlands Antilles.

Two Venezuelan air force bombers took off in an attempt to intercept the plane after the pilot reported by radio that he was being forced at pistol point to change his course. They failed to catch up, however, and the plane landed at Curacao where heavily armed police and marines immediately surrounded it.

Land and Forests Minister

Ray Williston today said it is vital to secure speedy ratification of the Columbia River power treaty or Canada River will lose some of its benefits.

He was commenting on a statement by U.S. Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall that unless Canada gets cracking, settles its B.C.-Ottawa differences and ratifies the treaty within a matter of months, the U.S. will be forced to seek alternate ways to provide power for the Pacific Northwest.

"I'd agree with him it's a matter of months," said Mr. Williston.

He said the alternate methods Mr. Udall talked about would be new thermal power plants to take care of the basic needs of the Northwest.

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

Creating almost as much talk as the young ladies who were received for presentation by the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Parkes at the United Services Institution of Vancouver Island ball-Friday evening in the Empress Hotel, were the cowboy boots, worn with white tie and tails, by C. W. Beeler, father of one of the pretty debutantes, Mr. Beeler, a cattle and oil man from the midwest States, now lives with his family in the former Pendray home on the Esquimalt Lagoon.

A local group of foresters known as the Hoo Hoo Club held a $500 jackpot draw at its $25-a-plate dinner here last weekend.

And Hoo Hoo should the winner be? None other than B.C.'s Forests Minister Ray Williston.

Unfortunately he wasn't at the dinner, but he got the nest egg anyway because he had paid his $25.

At the UBC education conference in Nanaimo Saturday, Tony Emery told how he had dreamed of approaching that "photogenic education minister, Leslie Peterson, throwing myself at his feet, and pleading for money for higher education."

"It didn't work," quipped Tony. "It was a case of the blond leading the blind."

Who says we in the West are becoming a bunch of mollycoddled weaklings through eating the wrong things? Guest in a local hotel the other night succeeded in swallowing part of his lower dental plate but when rushed to hospital scorned the expert attention offered and sauntered off.

Famed First World War Padre "Tubby" Clayton has a special spot in his heart for the Cockneys, 38,000 of whom were killed during the bombings of London.

Last night at dinner he told a few friends the story of the Cockney woman who was relieved, bloody but unbowed, from the rubble of her cellar after her house had been bombed.

An ARP worker asked as they pulled her out: "Is yer old man down below there?"

"Naw," she said, disdainfully, wiping the blood off her face. "The bloody coward's out there on a minesweeper."

With all rooms cleared of furnishings and the moving van filled, David Groos and his family thought they were well started for their new home on Newport Avenue. But they reckoned without the family cat, conspicuous at that moment by its absence.

Coaxing, cajoling, even firm words were of no help in locating the pussy and the move was held up while a thorough search ensued.

Suddenly the man on the moving van remembered a similar disappearance. "We found the cat up the chimney," he said.

"Let's look," said Mrs. Groos. Sure enough, a pair of frightened eyes stared down at her from a ledge above the fireplace.

The children coaxed. The mover gave advice. The parents spoke firmly. But the animal would not budge.

So, Phyllis Groos went into the fireplace after the cat and with a struggle, got it off the ledge and into her arms.

Both emerged covered with soot but the pilgrimage to the new house was on its way.

After years of being insulted by national and international publications who regularly refer to Vancouver as the capital of B.C., Victoria and Vancouver Island have come into their own.

A release from the Ottawa headquarters of the Unitarian Service Committee, whose Children of India Fund the Times is supporting, refers to "every province between Newfoundland and Vancouver Island."

A Vancouver salesman is still going around in wonderment at the honesty of a Victoria citizen.

Some weeks ago he left his car in a downtown parking lot for half an hour and on leaving he handed the woman attendant a dollar bill.

Then because he was in a hurry to catch the ferry, he left without collecting any change.

Two weeks later he returned to Victoria and happened to leave his car on the same lot. But this time the attendant recognized his car and rushed over to hand him the change he hadn't had time to pick up before.

"If more people acted like that you'd get far more salesmen staying in Victoria," said the visitor.

RUSSIAN CHARGE

W. Germany Seeks 'To Rule the Waves'

LONDON (Reuters)—Russia charged today that West Germany soon "will rule the waves" of NATO "as it now rules its land forces."

The Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda, quoted by the Russian news agency Tass, made the claim in commenting on talks Friday between Finnish President Urho Kekkonen and Soviet Premier Khrushchev at Novosibirsk, Siberia.

Pravda voiced new Soviet attacks on recent Western discussions on setting up a NATO Baltic command. It declared some Scandinavian leaders "do not see or do not wish to see that a Baltic command will be nothing but a screen for the accelerated restoration of German militarism on the sea."

TENSION LOWERED

Kekkonen arrived in Helsinki from Russia Sunday and went on the air last night to urge his countrymen to tread softly for fear of shaking Soviet confidence in Finland's neutrality.

The Khrushchev-Kekkonen talks lowered tension between the two nations which developed after the Soviets sent Finland a note Oct. 30 demanding defence consultations with Finland because of an alleged war threat posed by West Germany and its NATO allies.

In the Siberian talks, Khrushchev agreed to drop the demand for the time being but made it clear he wanted Kekkonen to consult him on any "threatening" developments in Scandinavia. The Russian demand for talks had been made under the 1948 Soviet-Finnish mutual assistance pact.

WOULD FORESTALL TALKS
Kekkonen said Sunday night that if Russian leaders could be sure of Finnish neutrality and friendship, it would not be necessary to start military consultations.

Commenting on what the Russians called the postponement of the military consultations, Pravda declared that the Soviet government went along with this but "not because it had believed the assurances of some Scandinavian statesmen who are trying to prove that the German militarist wolf had become a gentle lamb."

"No, the wolf had not ceased to be a wolf. And the recent naval manoeuvres conducted in the western part of the Baltic Sea have confirmed that. The sea power of Western Germany is rapidly increasing."

A self-admitted drug addict, who turned himself in to city police, today was sentenced to 20 days in jail by Magistrate William Ostler on a vagrancy charge.

PARIS—The French Senate rejected the proposed 1962 Algerian budget Saturday after criticism of President de Gaulle's Algerian policy from speakers of both the right and the left.

The more powerful National Assembly, however, has approved the budget of $1,100,000,000 and is empowered to take final action on it if the senators persist in their opposition through a second vote and then joint committee consideration.

Trading Blocs 'Alarm' Hees

GENEVA (Reuters) — Canadian Trade Minister George Hees expressed alarm here today lest massive emergent international economic blocs lead to world trade restrictions.

Hees told the opening session of a four-day conference of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade that Canada would be "seriously concerned" with such restrictions.

Hees said Canada was gratified by the "imaginative and far-reaching proposals" regarding trade under consideration by the American government. But he said "preoccupation" with possible restrictions was being given added force by Britain's current negotiation for membership in the European Common Market.

Permanent GATT officials hoped the current 33-nation meeting would result in clear-cut directives of the many problems confronting GATT. These included world-wide agricultural protectionism, the discrimination of industrial countries against exports of underdeveloped primary producing countries, and the scant successes in recent years in achieving tariff reductions on a product-by-product basis.

Hees said the international system of international trade co-operation must not be undermined by the new economic grouping.

"We all have a common stake in a healthy and expanding world trading system," he said. "Without this even the strongest among us cannot fully prosper."

Agricultural Exports to Suffer

Hees said many GATT rules on agriculture were being frustrated.

"Agricultural exporting countries are being denied the advantages which they could reasonably expect to obtain, and to which they are entitled."

"Serious, and perhaps irreparable damage will be done to the established multilateral trading community if a better balance is not found."

"We cannot afford further delay in seeking effective actions to ensure the restoration of reasonable trading opportunities for the many countries which depend to a large extent upon agricultural exports."

Calling for a "better deal for agricultural trade," Hees said

"we must resolve to work toward the expansion of agricultural trade through the elimination of excessive protective devices which stimulate production, inhibit consumption and distort trade patterns."

Hees noted that suggestions were being made for "across-the-board" reductions in tariffs within the various commodity sectors, rather than the product-by-product method.

He added: "Canada is prepared to examine seriously any methods which would facilitate further progress in reducing tariff barriers to trade."

"We would, of course, expect that they would take into account the special position of countries like our own which depend on a more limited number of exports than the larger industrial countries or groups."

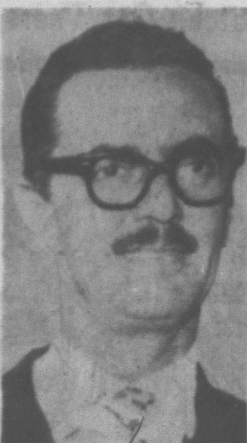

U.S. Pledges Across-Board Tariff Cuts

GENEVA (UPI) — U.S. Under-Secretary of State George W. Ball today pledged the United States to a policy of across-the-board tariff cuts rather than product-by-product negotiating.

But he warned the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) conference the United States faces difficulties in effecting a legislative changeover to implement the policy.

French Finance Minister Wilfried Baumgartner, in another address, called on the world's industrial nations to follow the lead of the European Common Market by switching their tariff policies to annual across-the-board decreases.

Baumgartner told the other 33 trade ministers or their deputies that the tariff cuts should be 20 per cent yearly. He said it was the only way to increase world commerce.

BERLIN DEMONSTRATION

Church Wreaths Start Barrage

BERLIN (Reuters) — More bullets and tear gas grenades flew across the Berlin border Sunday night as East German leader Walter Ulbricht indicated his massive wall dividing the city will remain until West Germany quits NATO.

An East German border guard fired three shots at a 27-year-old woman who scrambled unhurt through barbed wire into the American sector of Wannsee, bringing the weekend total of refugees to 21.

East Berlin police carried 15 East Berliners away in trucks after tear gas grenades failed to disperse them while they waved to relatives in the United States sector.

In another incident West Berlin police threw more than 50 tear gas bombs at East German police who bombarded West Berliners with chunks of plaster, empty bottles, bricks and concrete slabs from rooftops along the Bernauerstrasse in the French sector.

PLACE WREATHS

The Communist bombardment began when West Berliners began placing wreaths at the concrete wall in front of the Versoehnungskirche (reconciliation church), which stands in East Berlin.

There also was a brief tear gas battle between East and West Berlin police in the French sector district of Wittenau.

It began after East German police hurled paint cans at posters on the Western side showing a picture of State Security Minister Erich Mielke of East Germany and accusing him of murdering two Berlin police officials in 1931.

Meanwhile, the East German Communist newspaper Neues Deutschland carried a speech by party boss Walter Ulbricht to a four-day central committee meeting which ended Sunday.

"When West Germany leaves NATO, when the Hitler generals, militarist and revenge-seeking politicians, when the provocateurs in Schoeneberg (West Berlin city government headquarters) are out of the way, the wall will disappear of its own accord," Ulbricht said.

'PREMIER HAS A RESPONSIBILITY'

Bonner Defends Mail Campaign

Premier Bennett is perfectly entitled to mail to the public a magazine article called "Why I Took Over the B.C. Electric," Attorney-General Robert Bonner said Saturday.

Mr. Bonner was defending the action attacked by Opposition Leader Robert Strachan as using the government mailing privileges for propaganda.

"The premier has a responsibility to put out information," said Mr. Bonner, "especially when there is a great, deliberate misconception placed on government policy."

Mr. Bonner said this had been caused by a Toronto advertising agency which is spending $500,000 to discredit the B.C. government.

(Premier Bennett had earlier disclosed that B.C. Power Corporation, parent firm of the B.C. Electric, planned a $500,000 campaign to win public support for its bid for compensation in the takeover.)

MAKING EXCUSES

Meanwhile, B.C. Power officials said in Vancouver the premier was trying to make excuses for his takeover action.

"One can only assume that you entertain grave doubts as to the public acceptance of the justice of the method of takeover and that you feel, for the sake of your political future, you must offer some kind of excuse for your action," the officials said in an open letter to the premier.

The letter said it was "regrettable" that the premier had spent $3,000 out of his own pocket to reprint the article in an advertisement which appeared Saturday in B.C. daily newspapers.

TRIAL BY ADS

"Surely, sir, the public can make up its mind without benefit of paid advertisements," said the letter.

"After refusing B.C. Power Corporation its petition for a judicial review, are you now proposing a trial by advertising?"

The letter said it was still not too late to redress the arbitrary B.C. Electric takeover terms.

"What we urge is that an amendment be introduced by the government at the next

The RCAF believes parts from aircraft being dismantled have been sold to salvage dealers. Group Capt. Brown said "only a few hundred dollars" worth of parts are thought to be involved.

Trade, he continued, was one of the strongest elements in maintaining the Commonwealth association.

It would be a tragedy if British entry into the Common Market forced other Commonwealth members to change their whole pattern of trade and, perhaps as a consequence, their political orientation.

He said the economies of most Commonwealth countries had been built up on the basis of supplying the British market, which traditionally imported their goods duty-free and often on preferential terms. The British market was still highly important to the economies of most Commonwealth countries.

Mentioning agriculture, Heath said Britain trusted that when its six partners in the European Free Trade Association had explained their positions it would be possible to agree on ways to meet their legitimate interests.

"I am sure you will appreciate that, given our obligations to our EFTA partners, we should not ourselves be able to join the community until this had been done," he said.

Christmas Buying Spree On

NEW YORK (AP) — The Christmas buying spree broke out last week with U.S. merchants enthusiastic about the prospect that sales will push the year's dollar volume to a new record.

Department stores in some major cities heralded the Yuletide season with spectacular parades on Thursday, the U.S. Thanksgiving Day. Decorations appeared on store fronts overnight.

The National Retail Merchants Association, with a membership of 10,000 department, specialty and variety stores, predicted a 2 per cent sales gain over the 1960 Christmas season.

Even more optimistic was the National Industrial Conference Board, which said its research indicated a 5 per cent increase, bringing Christmas sales to a total of about $5,000,000.

Christmas buying will tell the year's story for the retail industry.

The Thanksgiving Day holiday cut into production of automobiles and steel but both industries were optimistic about the outlook.

The auto makers have built 4,773,016 passenger cars so far this year and have their sights set on 5,500,000 for the year. They turned out almost 6,700,000 last year.

Dealers have an estimated 700,000 new cars on hand and expect inventories to include about 800,000 at the end of the year.

Steel output fell last week to the lowest level since mid-September because of heavy mill inventories. Production totalled 2,037,000 tons, off 0.4 per cent from the previous week.

However, a rush of steel orders was reported to have begun as users became apprehensive of a possible steel strike when the labor contract runs out next June 30.

EXPECT GOOD MONTH

An industry publication, Iron Age, said January is expected to be the best month since early 1960, when mills were running full blast in the wake of a 116-day strike.

Proof that the economy stepped up its pace in October came from a rash of new statistics issued by the government.

Personal income attained a record annual rate of $425,000,000, up $3,900,000,000 from September. Much of the gain resulted from record factory payrolls.

Arctic Drilling Will Reach Goal

OTTAWA (CP) — There are good possibilities that Winter Harbor wildcat No. 1, first attempt to locate gas or oil in the Arctic Islands, will go past the initial goal of 10,000 feet, says word reaching here.

The firm handling the drilling assignments about 1,500 miles north of Edmonton, on Melville Island, may be instructed by Dome Petroleum Limited, chief sponsor, to go for a level of 12,000 or 13,000 feet.

Silver, Zinc Dominant In Western Mines Assay

By GORDON BELL
Times Business Editor

A company assay report has finally been issued by Western Mines Ltd. on its Butte Lake operation and it reveals the property is shaping up as a silver, zinc proposition rather than copper as had been widely believed.

The report from managing director J. A. C. Ross states two "significant" ore-bodies have been discovered in the Lynx group of claims and a strong zone in the Paramount group.

Sampling from two holes and a trench in the Lynx showed 1 oz. gold, 8.8 oz. silver, 2 per cent copper, 2.8 per cent lead and 15.7 per cent zinc over an average width of 11 feet. A parallel vein stripped 200 feet east had cores running 0.7 gold, 1.2 silver, 1.7 copper, 1 lead and 16.1 zinc over 15-foot width.

Two surface veins on the Paramount averaged .13 gold, 4.9 silver, 1.8 copper, 1.1 lead and 11.1 zinc. Drilling in the zone has returned 1 gold, 6.6 silver, 1.9 copper, 3 lead and 19.7 zinc.

Present relatively low price and demand for zinc, along with good possibility of a future price increase in silver suggest that even if the property reaches the production stage, actual production could well be delayed for some time.

Canadian Stock Exchange, reducing the size of its unlisted section preparatory to dispensing with it altogether, has cut another 15 issues, bringing the removals so far to 45.

While the exchange started with a number of minor companies it is now moving into some quite big ones.

A spokesman said of the program: "It is inconsistent that we should continue to maintain a trading medium which dispenses with certain minimum standards of disclosure."

Latest issues removed were: Belcher Mining, Canada Bread, Candore Explorations, Cochenour Williams Gold, Conwest Exploration, Duxco Oils, National Explorations, North Canadian Oils, Quebec Metallurgical, Sigma Mines, Torbit Silver, Toronto Iron and United Fuel Investments.

Business Week magazine is predicting an upward move in U.S. aluminum and steel sales in early 1962.

However, things may change after the first half, particularly in steel which faces tough labor negotiation along with pricing problems. Aluminum also faces labor negotiations but is not expected to have as tough a time as steel while for aluminum the years of price fighting seem to be behind.

The "organization man" is on his way out in many major businesses, according to a study published this week in the Wall Street Journal.

Along with him are going such tools of the psychologist as the "personality test" and the "human relations clinic" as well as the organization man's chief refuge, the group decision-making session vulgarly known as "brain storming."

Says The Journal: "There are signs of an increasing number of companies are becoming disenchanted with the conformity-minded organization man and instead are placing new stress on individuality and originality in executives."

While such men may on occasion ruffle feathers in management ranks, the companies are concluding their contributions generally more than compensate.

"More than ever before in history is seeking men of originality with the courage to approach problems from an unorthodox standpoint," a top New York recruiter of executives claims.

The B.C. Industrial Editors' Association, representing about 25 employee and other industrial publications, has chosen Roy Minter of White Pass and Yukon Route as president succeeding Phil Stannard, recently named public relations officer for the B.C. Progressive Conservative organization.

Others elected: Beth McLaine, Home Oil, vice-president; Hal Holden, Crown Zellerbach, vice-president; Miss M. S. Patterson, Standard Oil, secretary; Sid Stebbings, Trans-Mountain Oil Pipe Line, treasurer.

Communism Tightens Grip Upon Cubans

(EDITOR'S NOTE: It is now almost three years since Fidel Castro led his bearded followers in a triumphant march into Havana. What is the temper now in the controversial country? Edwin Tetlow, a noted British newsman who watched Castro enter Havana, gives an on-the-scene view in a two-part series. "This," notes Mr. Tetlow, was my tenth visit to Cuba since the revolution succeeded.)

By EDWIN TETLOW

HAVANA — Even cautious European diplomats in Havana now concur in the long-held American view that the Castro revolution has become a Communist one. The island is being turned at speed into a totalitarian state as close to the type rigged by the Soviets behind the Iron Curtain as can be imposed upon the volatile and individualistic Cubans.

The disastrous change has been developing strongly since Castro announced in May that in future there would be only one integrated political party—the Organización Revolucionaria Integrada.

All members of this party's ruling body, with the possible exception of a couple, have been long-standing members of the P.S.P. (Communist) of Cuba. Even the 26th July Movement, on which the emotional Fidel Castro founded his crusade, has been swallowed up. It has gone with the beard.

A good estimate is that one in every 12 Cubans is a spy for the regime. Havana is studded with so-called Committees for the Defence of the Revolution. They seem to be in every block of flats and, indeed, almost every other house. They are there so that agents of the revolution can see what everybody is—and is not—doing.

Half Million Members in Militia

The militia now has half a million members—men and women, boys and girls. It is kept mobilized in relays of 50,000, so that there is always a permanent force to deal with trouble from any quarter, inside the island or outside.

Technicians and other visitors from behind the Iron Curtain are the pampered elite. I found that there were more than 70 Czechs in the decaying Havana Libre Hotel.

So, also, brought by the truckload into the capital from all parts of the island for a weekend of free luxury and fun, were parties of Juvenile Rebels attending a plenary session of Communism.

They are now among the most fervent supporters of the revolution, but one feels that they do not support it so much for its political orientation as for the fact that it offers a joyous outlet for such youthful amusements as wearing uniforms, singing songs and otherwise letting off steam.

The overt signs of the links with Communism are far too numerous to miss. Even in the pathetic newspapers of Havana the activities of the revolution are just as frequently described as "communist" as they are called "socialist".

RUSSIAN BOOKS
Russian and Chinese books and other publications litter the bookstalls, and one offered in this Catholic country is called: "Christ Was a Communist." Cans of Russian pork, Polish ham, Bulgarian fruit, Hungarian goulash and Chinese mutton line the shelves of the food department in the nationalized stores.

What seems to have happened since the rout of the revolution last spring is that the old guard of Communists has finally taken over. One hears very little these days about Ernesto "Che" Guevara, the Argentine-born soldier of fortune who used to run the show for Fidel. Now one hears such names as Blas Roca and Anibal Escalante, two of the toughest old Communists Cuba has ever had.

MAN TO WATCH

It seems as if Blas Roca is now the man to watch in Havana. He has been named secretary-general of the new single party, and nobody doubts that he now has the real political power.

JFK Shifts Bowles; 'Misplaced' in Job

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy is removing Chester Bowles as undersecretary of state in a shuffle of the U.S. foreign policy high command.

The changes involve 10 White House and state department officials. None is being dropped.

George Ball, undersecretary of state for economic affairs, replaces Bowles as undersecretary.

Bowles, 60, former governor of Connecticut and ambassador to India and a Kennedy adviser during last year's presidential race, has been a controversial figure in the administration since its first weeks in office. The president and State Secretary Dean Rusk were reported to consider him misplaced in the department's No. 2 position.

The announcement, made Sunday night from Kennedy's headquarters at Hyannis Port, Mass., said Bowles is to get a high policy-making position on relinquishing his present duties. There was no immediate statement from Bowles.

Officials here understood that he was being offered a combination assignment of roving ambassador and special foreign adviser to Kennedy and Rusk.

Administration leaders considered him misplaced as undersecretary, officials said, because he was more concerned with the broad lines of policy development in functioning as an idea man than in the day-to-day conduct of foreign relations.

The moves in the shuffle are:

1. Ball, 51, a Washington lawyer, will continue to concentrate on economic affairs.

2. George McGhee, 49, chairman of policy planning in the state department, moves to undersecretary for political affairs.

3. Averell Harriman, 70, former governor of New York and member of the Truman administration as well as ambassador to Russia and Great Britain, moves to assistant secretary for the Far East. He now is a roving ambassador.

4. Walt Rostow, 55, former professor of economics at Massachusetts Institute of Technology and now a deputy special assistant to Kennedy for national security affairs, moves to chairman of the policy planning council, succeeding McGhee.

5. Frederick Dutton, 38, now Kennedy's assistant for cabinet affairs, becomes assistant state secretary for congressional relations.

6. Richard Goodwin, 30, now deputy special counsel to Kennedy, becomes deputy assistant state secretary for inter-American affairs.

7. Walter McConaughy, 58, now assistant secretary for the Far East, is to be given an ambassadorial post when Harriman takes over his job. He is a former ambassador to Burma and Formosa.

8. Brooks Hays, 63, former Democratic representative from Arkansas who is relinquishing the job of assistant secretary for congressional relations, goes to the White House as a special assistant to the president.

9. Timothy Reardon Jr., 46, now an administrative assistant to the president, becomes a special assistant to handle cabinet affairs as Dutton shifts to the state department.

POWEREXPORT LABOR HITS

VANCOUVER (CP)—The B.C. Federation of Labor has gone on record as solidly against export sale in the United States of Canada's share of downstream benefit power from the projected Columbia River hydro development.

In a letter to Justice Minister Fulton, released here Saturday, the federation said export of power would only "lead to the further industrial development of the United States Pacific Northwest and is tantamount to exporting jobs and industrial opportunities which under normal and proper development of the Columbia project would be provided for Canadians."

2-Boat Order Placed

$1 Million Each For Tuna Vessels

Victoria shipbuilding industry is expected to receive a boost this winter with a Yarrows Ltd. contract to build two deep-sea tuna vessels at an estimated cost of $1,000,000 each.

Although arrangements for private financing have not been completed, approval for a 40 per cent federal government subsidy has been given by the Canadian Maritime Commission.

The ships are expected to be completed in time for the 1963 season.

OFF NEW ZEALAND

The two vessels were conceived by Vancouver fishermen W. R. Logan and R. A. Karlner to take advantage of the rich, newly-discovered tuna schools of the coast of New Zealand.

To date the only serious commercial fishing in these waters had been done by the Japanese.

Improved refrigeration systems and enlarged holds of the new ships will enable them to bring back about 700 tons each trip for processing in Vancouver.

The vessels will be 150 feet over-all, 37 feet beam and 16.3 feet moulded depth. Cruising range will be about 15,000 miles and half-load speed in excess of 13 knots.

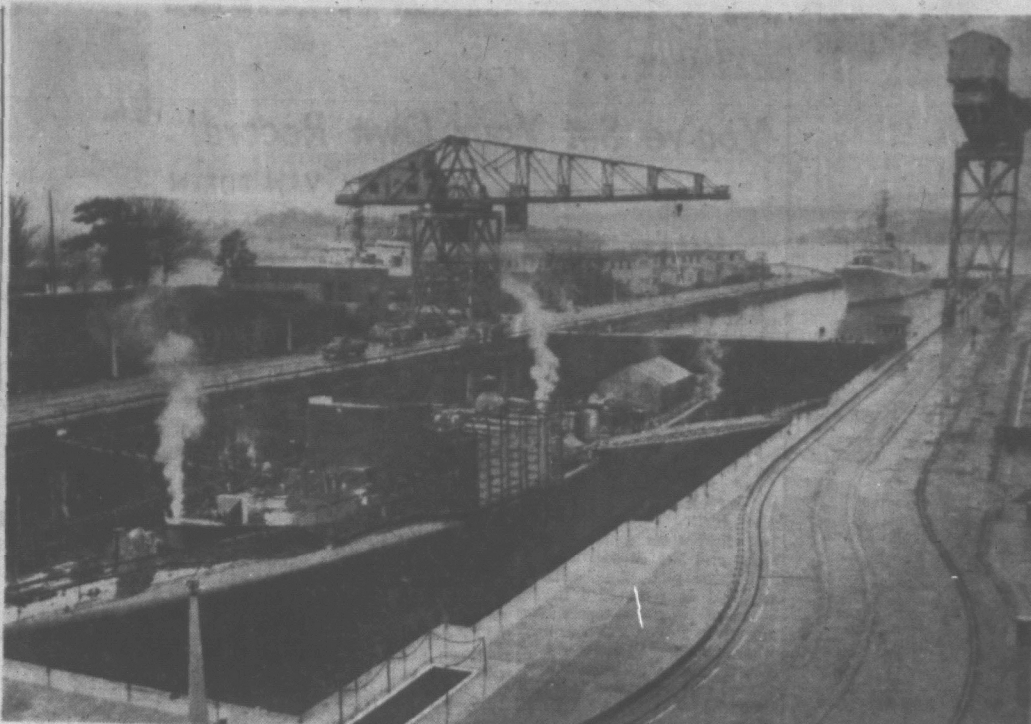

FEEDER SHIPS

The owners intend using two 73-foot boats now operating as feeder ships in conjunction with the larger new ones.

The Canadian fleet will use seine nets in New Zealand waters, as opposed to the old method of line fishing used for years off the California and Mexican coasts.

Seining was made possible by the adoption of nylon nets and power blocks.

PAY TALKS ON DEC. 7

A negotiating committee of the B.C. Government Employees' Association will open talks on a general wage increase with the Civil Service Commission here Dec. 7.

Pay boosts ranging from 5 to 20 per cent for all civil service classifications are being sought for next year.

Details of the demands will be released when the meetings open next month.

"We are hoping for a fairly rapid decision—before the end of the year—from the commission," said a BCGEA spokesman.

Beef Prices To Increase By Weekend

Higher beef prices likely will hit the Victoria area at the end of this week or the beginning of next as the effect of higher stockyard prices on the prairies is felt in local buying.

Victoria packinghouse representatives had received no price information this morning. However, several of them said that judging from reports from Calgary and Edmonton at the end of last week, beef prices locally would be up close to 10 cents a pound at the retail level.

A check on a number of independent local butchers disclosed that beef has already gone up in price better than 10 cents a pound since summer.

HUSBAND'S CAR HELD AFTER WIFE INJURED

City police and detectives are investigating an early Sunday morning incident on a city hotel parking lot which resulted in a 35-year-old woman being taken to hospital suffering undetermined head injuries, bruised knees and hands.

Mrs. Juanita Clark, 563 Admirals Road, was described as in "poor" condition in St. Joseph's Hospital today.

Exact details of the incident are as yet unknown. City police received a call to the Ingham Hotel parking lot at 1:30 a.m. Sunday. They found Mrs. Clark in an unconscious condition and took her to hospital.

City police today declined to say how Mrs. Clark came by her injuries.

Woman Killed Crossing Street

An elderly woman was killed and several other persons injured — none seriously — in four weekend traffic accidents in Greater Victoria.

Mrs. Grace Powley, 83, of 714 Discovery, was fatally injured in an accident at Douglas and Discovery shortly before 6 p.m. Saturday. She died in St. Joseph's Hospital 90 minutes later.

Her death raises to 10 the number of fatal traffic victims in Greater Victoria this year. The city now has five, Esquimalt three, Oak Bay and Saanich one each.

According to city police, Mrs. Powley was crossing Douglas Street from west to east at Discovery when she was in collision with a car being driven north on Douglas by Mrs. Edith Lee, 1321 Myrtle.

The elderly woman was found lying in the roadway 62 feet north of the spot where police officers found her spectacles.

She was less than 100 yards from her home at the time. She was taken to hospital with a cut above her right eye, a cut left ankle and internal injuries. She died at 7:31.

INQUEST TUESDAY

Coroner Dr. J. H. Moore said an inquest will be held at 10 a.m. Tuesday in Chaplin's Funeral Chapel.

Mrs. Powley had no relatives in Victoria. A niece, Mrs. Elmore Philpott, lives in Vancouver.

Born in Kitchener, Ont., Mrs. Powley served as a nursing sister during the First World War. After that she and her husband farmed in Saskatchewan until 1936, when they came to Victoria.

She had lived here alone since the death of Mr. Powley in 1940.

TWO-CAR CRASH

Mrs. Vanda Radium, Cowichan Lake, is in good condition in St. Joseph's Hospital today with facial injuries she received in a two-car collision on the Trans Canada Highway at Tillicum Sunday evening.

She was a passenger in a car being driven east on the highway by her husband which was involved in a collision with a car being driven north on Tillicum by John McKeller, Rocky Point Road.

Mr. McKeller also was admitted to the hospital but was discharged later.

Mr. Radium and John Mutter, 2605 Sooke Road, a passenger in Mr. McKeller's car, were treated for cuts and bruises and released.

Force of the impact sent the Radium car right off the road. It ended up straddling the E & N Railway tracks north of the highway. Saanich police estimated total damage at $2,000.

PASSENGER HURT

A second Sunday evening accident sent Mrs. Doris Adamek, 2817 Rodney, to St. Joseph's Hospital with facial lacerations. She is in good condition today.

RCMP said she was a passenger in a car being driven north on Goldstream by her husband, which was in collision with a car driven by Nicholas Richard Lennax, 448 Goldstream.

The Lennax car was heading for Cobowd along Goldstream and was making a left turn onto Millstream, police said. Total damage was estimated at $1,000.

Gary Shrive, 921 Royal Terrace, was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital this morning for bruises he received when his bicycle collided with an open car door on Government Street. He was not admitted.

Car was driven by Richard Broughton, 1041 Craigdarroch.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

A man was charged in Saanich police court today with attempting to snuff.

Gilfred Anstrom, 854 Craigflower, listened to the charge that he had assaulted Mrs. Marie Locke, 555 Dupplin Road, with a knife on November 25.

Anstrom chose trial by magistrate and was remanded to Thursday afternoon.

An eight-foot Fiberglas dinghy will be the door prize at a Christmas party of the First Juan de Fuca Scout Group Committee Dec. 13.

The boat was built in his spare time by L. R. Harrison, 1000 Brock Road, Langford, and donated to the group which is composed of both Scouts and Cubs.

The party will be held in the Langford Fire Hall from 10 a.m. to noon.

All reeve and council candidates in Oak Bay municipal election Dec. 7 have been invited to attend a meeting of Oak Bay Ratepayers' Association Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the municipal hall.

Any Oak Bay property owner is welcome to attend and question candidates if time permits after each has presented his platform, an official said.

The association is expected to endorse one or more candidates formally.

City businessman William L. Menzies, 49, of 1860 Greatford Place, was taken to hospital by city police Saturday night with a cut to his head he said had been inflicted by an unknown assailant.

Police found Mr. Menzies in his car on St. Charles near Despard bleeding from a head injury and took him to Royal Jubilee Hospital.

The injured man said he could not identify his attacker and could not say just where the attack took place.

A young man today pleaded guilty in city police court to assault with intent to cause bodily harm.

Police said Rodney West, 19, HMCS Margaret, smashed a drinking glass in the face and on the arms of a roommate at a downtown hotel Nov. 18.

He will be sentenced Friday.

Victoria bridge players took top honors in the sixth annual Canadian Northwest Bridge Championships held in Vancouver over the weekend.

Otto Leesment, 1803 Fernwood, and Earl Adams of Vancouver won the open pairs tournament. Tony Marsh, 954 Newport, and Norman Turnbull of Vancouver were second.

Most downtown Victoria retail stores will follow the lead of Eaton's and Hudson's Bay Co. on night shopping hours over the Christmas season. It was disclosed this morning at a meeting of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce retail merchants' group.

Starting this Thursday there will be shopping until 9 p.m. each Thursday and Friday for three weeks until Dec. 15. The final week before Christmas the stores will be open until 9 p.m. Monday to Friday with normal closing on Saturday.

PORK, LAMB, TOO

They added that a further increase will inevitably result in higher prices for pork, lamb (which is already in short supply) and poultry as consumers tend to buy more heavily in these meats.

New pork price lists are expected this week and it is generally expected there will be some increase, although how much is not known.

With steaks selling at around the $1.10 level now, they could go as high as $1.20 by next week. They were selling around 75 cents in early September.

Front quarter roasts selling around 75 cents in early September are around 85 cents now and are expected to go well over 90 cents.

MODEST BOOST

Paradoxically, while the better cuts of beef show a hefty increase in price, the lower-cost cuts will increase only modestly.

Butchers explain this by simple supply and demand. Since there is little demand for lower-priced cuts to begin with, any heavy price increase cuts demand still farther. Therefore the bulk of the increase must go to the cuts most in demand.

Shunned Husband Carried Shotgun 'To Scare Wife'

A rejected husband pleaded guilty in city police court today to possessing an offensive weapon.

Police said William Hodgkin had "wanted to scare his wife" with a loaded shotgun.

He was arrested when he had gone to his brother-in-law's home where his wife was staying after she had left him. Hodgkin, who came to court directly from hospital, has a liquor problem as well as a chronically bad back, the court was told.

Magistrate William Oster put sentence off until Friday when a probation report could be tendered. He allowed the man to return to hospital until that time.

Thursday Night Shopping Starts Christmas Season

Most downtown Victoria retail stores will follow the lead of Eaton's and Hudson's Bay Co. on night shopping hours over the Christmas season. It was disclosed this morning at a meeting of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce retail merchants' group.

Starting this Thursday there will be shopping until 9 p.m. each Thursday and Friday for three weeks until Dec. 15. The final week before Christmas the stores will be open until 9 p.m. Monday to Friday with normal closing on Saturday.

Father's Petition to Protest Survival Training in Schools

(See also Page 34)

A city man has started circulating a petition calling on greater Victoria School Board to halt plans to teach A-bomb survival training to all students.

W. M. Smardon, 618 Harbinger, said today he already has "several dozen" signatures although he only started Sunday.

The school board decided last Monday to start survival drills and approved a program of lectures to be drawn up by school authorities.

Mr. Smardon, a professional engineer and parent, has written a protest letter to the board.

"My objection," he said, "is against the whole idea of telling children they could have bombs dropped on them."

FRIGHTENING

He said sensitive children will be frightened out of their wits.

Mr. Smardon said he'd been told harmful effects of the program could be offset by parents.

"This is an idiotic attitude," he said. "It can only weaken the connection between school and home."

Mr. Smardon has a seven-year-old child in school. "It just hurts me to see what the effect on her would be," he said.

Drills have already been started in some schools. Civil Defence officials check each school to find the safest rooms and teachers are then instructed how to get children to them as quickly as possible.

MINIMIZE

At the board meeting chairman W. C. Gelling said every effort would be made to minimize the "sensational" aspects of instruction.

It is understood the lectures will be concerned with teaching children how to avoid and treat heat and radiation burns and other material contained in the government booklet "Eleven Steps to Survival."

Five Win Seats By Acclamation

33 Candidates Seek 17 Posts

Greater Victoria municipal election campaign was finished in a hurry at noon for five candidates who were elected by acclamation.

They are veteran Esquimalt leader Reeve A. C. Wurtele; newcomer Albert Alexander Cormack, chairman of Sidney village commission; school board candidates Peter G. Bunn, filling the one Oak Bay vacancy, David S. Prosser and John Southern, taking two Central Saanich vacancies.

But for the 14 council vacancies in five areas from Esquimalt to Sidney there will be a contest between 27 candidates who had filed nomination papers by noon deadline.

For three remaining school board seats in the area outside Victoria city, there are six candidates.

Only one area—Esquimalt—had no school trustee vacancies this year, and only one had no reevehip election—Central Saanich.

BOUNDARY VOTE

Sidney is the only area with a major referendum, the question of extending municipal boundaries, but Saanich voters will be asked by the province whether they favor sale of beer by the glass.

Only last-minute candidates to appear were in Saanich and Oak Bay.

Reginald Sinkinson, chairman of School District 63 Board of Trustees, eased in under the wire for his first try at municipal politics in Saanich, raising the number of candidates there to eight.

TRUSTEE

He lives at 1104 D'Arcy Lane, is a merchant and has been a trustee more than 10 years.

Mr. Sinkinson is credited with guiding the $675,000 school building bylaw through in rural Saanich this year.

The newcomer in Oak Bay is William J. J. Wade, 1454 St. David, a provincial government clerk, who was nominated by Patricia J. Arnoldi and Alice Fraser.

There are four women contesting seats in the area, two for school board and one for council in Saanich, and one for council in Central Saanich.

Here are the lineups:

SAANICH:

Referendum — Extension of village boundaries.

Mabel Made Them Wait

Mayor Mabel Anderson kept voters of Alberni on pins and needles until 11:50 a.m. today, when she filed nomination papers for reelection.

One of the most contentious civic figures on Vancouver Island, she has served two years in a term that has featured a constant fight between her and her council.

Her opponent for the mayoralty will be Fred Bishop, a native son of Alberni and alderman for several years, and well-known figure in basketball circles.

Mayor Dobson Unopposed At Duncan

Election of Mayor Jack Dobson of Duncan and Village Chairman Mrs. Mildred Child today by acclamation turned the spotlight of election interest in the Cowichan valley to the sprawling municipality of North Cowichan.

With the closing of nominations at noon today it was seen that the major contest will be between Reeve Donald C. Morton of Soanemo and James J. Gordon, Chemainus, for the top North Cowichan post.

This will be the first election for the reevehip in North Cowichan for 10 years. Reeve Morton succeeded Maj. Gen. C. A. P. Murison, and is seeking reelection for the first time.

Five candidates—only one of them at present a councillor—seek the two vacant seats on the council.

THREE-WAY RACE

Three candidates will try for election to two aldermanic seats on Duncan council, and there will be a three-way race in Lake Cowichan for two commission seats.

Interest in school boards was low. The Duncan seat on District 65 board is without a candidate, and all others were filled by acclamation.

Details follow:

ASK THE TIMES

Q.—Which freezes more quickly on ice—hot or cold water? If hot water does not freeze quicker, why do they use it at the arena?—P.O.

A.—Cold water freezes more quickly. Hot water would be used to smooth the surface of the ice.

Q.—Could you please tell me if there will be racing at Lansdowne Race Track next year?—F.R.

A.—There will be no racing next year at Vancouver's Lansdowne track. Last year the owner of the track amalgamated with Exhibition Park, and a statement was issued that there would be no more racing at Lansdowne.

ANTI-CANCER VACCINATION TO BE TRIED

STOCKHOLM (Reuters) — Sweden will begin experimentally vaccinating people against cancer next month, it was announced Sunday.

A group of 120 persons, aged between 60 and 70, will be given a vaccine made with dead cancer cells, which are not dangerous.

First results of the experiments will be known in about eight months and will determine whether or not they will continue.

Aim of the experiment—financed by two Swedish insurance companies—is to find out whether the vaccine will promote the production of antibodies in healthy people.

LETTER FROM JAPAN

By DOUG FORRESTER

Industrial Firms Offer 'Tremendous' Job Security

TOKYO — The large industrial firms of Japan are considered as highly desirable employers and the competition for jobs with such companies is very keen. In such an over-populated country the employers are free to pick and choose their workers from thousands of applicants and it might be expected that exploitation of this situation would be characteristic of Japanese industry.

In actual fact, however, the worker enjoys tremendous job security and an array of fringe benefits that is quite astonishing.

One feature contributing to job security is the fact that an employee of any of the large companies in Japan can be perfectly assured that he will remain with the firm of his choice throughout his working life. Mobility of the labor force is practically nonexistent and, indeed, anyone seeking to change to another company would be looked upon with suspicion as being disloyal and unreliable.

For this reason, knowing that they will remain with one firm from the day they start work until they retire, young men give much thought and heart-searching to the problem of which company they will work with.

Private Exams

All companies conduct their own private examinations for prospective employees and since the number of applicants is often several hundred times the number of available jobs the competition is fierce.

When a young college graduate's whole future life depends upon his getting started with the right firm, the emotional tension is high and there are cases of young men committing suicide because of their failure in such examinations.

But assuming that he has been accepted by a big company such as Fuji Iron and Steel, what kind of life lies before him? Take the matter of wages, first of all. A graduate of middle school, which is equivalent to junior high in Canada, after receiving three years' training at the company's own school, will begin work at the age of 20 with a salary of about 17,600 yen (about $49).

If he has graduated from high school and goes directly to the company at the age of 18, his beginning wage will be about 13,500 yen (about $37.50). A university graduate will start out at 21,500 yen (about $60). For the whole company the average monthly wage as at July, 1961, came to 36,442 yen (about $101).

Not Full Story

At first blush these wages look low but the figures do not give the full story by any means. Using the official rate of exchange of 360 yen to the dollar is unrealistic since the purchasing power is actually between 2½ and three times what it would be in Canada. So a salary of $100 per month in Japan is roughly equivalent to about $275 in Canada.

Nor is this the end of the story. Employees of Fuji Steel are provided with low-cost company housing. At the Hirohata works, for example, there are 86 apartment blocks, each containing from 18 to 24 units of three rooms each. These accommodate 1,523 families. In addition there are 2,270 houses. Rent runs from about $3 to $10 per month and the accommodation provided is very attractive by Japanese standards.

These rents are extremely low, even for Japan. For instance, a friend of mine who works in the Tokyo office of Fuji Steel is provided with a three-room apartment which is noticeably larger than the one in which I myself live. His rent is 900 yen ($2.50), while mine is 29,000 yen ($80.60). Let anyone think that I am being preyed upon as a foreigner, I should point out that I live in a fully Japanese apartment and not in Western style which is a great deal more expensive.

Modern Quarters

For the average Japanese male, marriage is seldom contemplated until the late twenties or early thirties. So it is that at the Hirohata plant there are 2,305 bachelor employees who live in company dormitories, so-called "Dormitory" implies barrack-like rooms with long rows of beds, but these attractive buildings are more like high-class boarding houses than anything else.

The mill workers are lodged two to a room, while the office workers and engineers are entitled to a room to themselves. There is a dining hall and meals are included in the monthly rental. The buildings

I saw were smartly designed, very modern and airy.

At Hirohata each of the nine separate housing areas is served by its own supermarket. Supermarkets are rare in Japan and these are the first I have seen here. They are spacious and airy and the goods on the shelves are sold at reduced rates to the employees and their families. Even major items such as television sets and washing machines can be bought through the company stores at substantial discounts.

Baseball Tops

Recreational facilities are excellent. The oversized gymnasium-cum-theatre is beautifully designed and is in almost constant use for athletic events and various concerts. Often top orchestras, vocalists and drama groups are engaged for performances so that the steel company employees can enjoy a remarkably full cultural life for admission fees that are purely nominal.

Undoubtedly the most popular sport in Japan is baseball and there is a large stadium where interdepartmental teams compete. Other facilities include an outdoor swimming pool, tennis courts, and a community centre for the workers where they can hold meetings or enjoy various social functions.

In the area of medical services, Hirohata is provided with a hospital, three out-clinics, a TB sanatorium and two rest homes for the chronically ill. It is almost impossible to gauge accurately just what these fringe benefits add up to in terms of cash, but I would say, after giving the subject some thought, that the average worker employed by Fuji Steel has a real income equivalent to about $350 per month in Canada.

It would be unfair to leave the impression that everything is completely rosy. Naturally there is occasional discontent and sometimes the workers strike for higher wages. But compared with the lot of the average Japanese, the employees of such large industrial concerns do enjoy a high standard of living. Visiting steel men from West Germany, France and Italy admit that it is every bit as high as that of similar workers in Western Europe.

'Symptom Of Deep Problem'

MONTREAL (CP)—T. C. Douglas, New Democratic Party leader, said here last week English-speaking Canadians will have to recognize that French Canada labors under a feeling of unequal status and recognition in Confederation.

"Let's recognize that we ought not to get indignant about separatism," he told the annual convention of the Quebec Federation of Labor. "Let's recognize that it's a symptom of a deep and disturbing problem."

"We'll ignore such movements at our peril... Quebec's separatist movement arose from a justifiable feeling that the French-Canadian nation has not been given equal status and equal recognition. The people of English-speaking Canada must recognize that... and enter into the spirit of Confederation."

Student Survival Training Labelled 'Necessary Evil'

School boards have no alternative to setting up national survival training in schools, an executive of Victoria and District Parent-Teacher Council said Saturday.

"They are responsible for the children," said Mrs. B. H. Byers, past president of the council.

At a meeting of the council Friday, individual delegates from various PTA organizations in the district complained of a proposed civil defence program of instruction to school children being implemented before parents are told what will be taught.

"If we get a formal request from a parent-teacher association, we will ask the school board what is proposed," Mrs. Byers said.

MUST DO IT

Mrs. Byers said the executive of the council had not given much discussion to the subject, but felt the school board has to put forth a disaster program.

Like fire drills, what to do in the event of a nuclear explosion is a necessary evil for survival, she said.

Mrs. R. K. Bloomfield of the Gordon Head Elementary School PTA, complained of the proposal.

She was ruled out of order

at the council meeting because she was speaking her own views rather than voicing an opinion of her group.

Mrs. Lillian Money, McKenzie Avenue PTA, said nuclear war is not something children should be worrying about when they should be studying. She wrote the school board herself and quoted from her letter:

"They should be interested in peace and international understanding, not war."

She said there is no defence against a nuclear war, except working for peace and understanding.

"The cold war has no place in the classroom," she said.

'Family' Ties
Must Not Be Ruined

BRUSSELS (Reuters) — Britain told members of the European Common Market last month that she wants to be a full member of the European trade group but would not be able to join if the move meant grave loss or ruin for Commonwealth members, it was disclosed today.

In discussing British motives for membership in the market — formally called the European Economic Community — Heath declared:

"In saying that we wish to join the EEC we mean that we desire to become full, wholehearted and active members of the European community in its widest sense and to go forward with you in the building of a new Europe."

However, Heath said he was sure Britain could not join under conditions in which the Anglo-Commonwealth trade connection "was cut with grave loss, and even ruin, for some of the Commonwealth countries."

Heath said Britain had to think deeply about the effect on the Commonwealth of any future British membership in the Common Market. "We believe that it is in the interest of all of us around this table that nothing should be done which would be likely to damage the essential interests of

U.K. COMMONS
SCENE OF UPROAR

LONDON (Reuters) — An uproar broke out in the House of Commons today when the government and the Labor opposition clashed over whether the Commonwealth was being kept fully informed on Britain's negotiations with the European Common Market.

Labor Leader Hugh Gaitskill shouted at the government side of the House: "You may not care about the Commonwealth but we do."

Heath said the Commonwealth member countries. Reports last week said the Heath statement had been leaked to the United States. The British government announced Saturday that it would give all Commonwealth governments the text of his speech.

Confident Solutions Can Be Found

Heath said Britain is "confident that solutions can be found to Commonwealth problems fully compatible with the substance and the spirit of the Treaty of Rome." In 1957, the Rome treaty linked West Germany, France, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg in the Common Market.

Britain "accepts without qualifications" the treaty objectives laid down in provisions for eliminating internal tariffs between the partner nations; for the establishment of a common tariff against imports from outside the market and for common commercial and agricultural policies, Heath said.

"We think it should be possible to deal with our special problems by means of protocols" to the treaty.

He said there was a need for "some adjustments" in the market's common external tariff. If the tariff of the enlarged community was to be acceptable to the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade and to third countries, "it cannot remain at precisely the level of the existing one."

He proposed what he called a "simple solution" — to accept the structure of the present EEC tariff as the basis of the common tariff of the enlarged community. He also suggested a 20 per cent "linear cut" in the community's present tariff.

Health said the British "fully share the aims and objectives, political and otherwise, of those who drew up the 'Bonn declaration' in which the six Common Market members pledged they would seek close political unity."

Health said he believed the Full Autonomy Requested for Victoria College

Recognition of Victoria College as "an autonomous, degree-granting institution at the earliest moment they feel ready to accept such status" was recommended by Dean Geoffrey C. Andrew of UBC at a windup dinner of the Vancouver Island conference on higher education at Nanaimo Saturday.

Dean Andrew, often referred to as the "deputy president" of UBC, added that he thought the independent status could be achieved within three years, during which time "the whole subject of future relationships could be reviewed."

Dean Andrew's remarks came as something of a bombshell at the conclusion of the conference, as they do not coincide exactly with the views previously expressed by UBC president Dr. Norman A. M. MacKenzie.

Dr. MacKenzie has urged close co-operation between the two institutions on a federated system, with the epicentre at Point Grey.

CLEARHUE SHAKEN

Dr. Joseph B. Clearhues of Victoria, who was asked to thank the speaker at the Nanaimo dinner, was visibly moved by the speaker's remarks. As president of Victoria College council he has been in the forefront of the move for independence and has drafted enabling legislation for presentation to the legislature.

In an amplifying statement to the Times, Dean Andrew said today:

"I want to emphasize that I was expressing my own views and not UBC policy."

"Nevertheless, I think, the pattern I suggested was in keeping with the tradition of British institutions, of autonomy within the Commonwealth, so to speak."

"I do not share the federated view. It seems to me that Ontario is a good example, and that Queens and Western have done well on their own."

A family allowance cheque for $14 headed the list of weekend donations to the Times Children of India Fund as it neared $1,000.

"Please accept this cheque with love from Peter and Karen," said the note from two children who sent the cheque with their parents' approval.

Although not the largest contribution it showed that Victorians of all ages are again giving according to their means.

A donation of $5 was received from Mrs. B. Kean, 1737 Lee. "May the good Lord bless you all in helping this good work," she wrote.

The Times was also pleased today to hear from a Victoria couple who wanted to adopt a foster child through the Unitarian Service Committee which runs this service in addition to the Children of India Fund.

U.S. MAY SEEK ALTERNATIVE TO COLUMBIARuss Urge Four Power
A-Test Ban

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union proposed today that the United States, Britain and France agree with it now to ban all nuclear tests. First Western reaction was skeptical since the Soviet proposal seemed to call for an unlimited and uncontrolled test moratorium.

The proposal was made on the eve of the resumption of nuclear test ban talks in Geneva by the Soviet Union, Britain and the U.S.

France, the fourth nuclear power, is not a participant but a Soviet statement said the time has come to invite the French.

The Russians released a proposed four-article draft agreement and in the accompanying statement hinted they may resume tests if France does.

Under the Soviet proposal the four powers would agree to halt tests in the atmosphere, under water and in outer space. The argument was that each power now has the means of detecting such tests and cheating would be impossible.

The four powers also would undertake not to hold nuclear weapons tests underground while negotiating an agreement on a control system that could detect such blasts.

REPLY TO U.S.

Article three contained a direct reply to the American announcement that it was going to continue underground tests regardless of the reopening of talks. It said:

"The states participating in this agreement assume the commitment not to carry out any underground tests of nuclear weapons before they reach agreement among themselves on a system of control for such tests as a component part of international control for carrying out the agreement on general and complete disarmament."

Article one bans atmospheric tests such as were carried out by the Soviet Union this year.

WILLISTON BACKS UDALL

'Vital We Sign Pact Now'

Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston today said it is vital to secure speedy ratification of the Columbia River power treaty or Canada will lose some of its benefits.

He was commenting on a statement by U.S. Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall that unless Canada gets cracking, settles its B.C.-Ottawa differences and ratifies the treaty within a matter of months, the U.S. will be forced to seek alternate ways to provide power for the Pacific Northwest.

"I'd agree with him it's a matter of months," said Mr. Williston.

He said the alternate methods Mr. Udall talked about would be new thermal power plants to take care of the basic needs of the Northwest.

Benefits from the Columbia

Udall Hits
Power Pact
Tardiness

WASHINGTON (CP) — Interior Secretary Stewart Udall said today he has no intention of intruding in Canada's domestic quarrels but he is "getting discouraged" with the lack of Canadian progress in ratifying the Columbia River power treaty.

If the Canadians do not ratify the treaty within "the next few months," the United States will have to consider "alternative plans" for supplying more power in the U.S. Pacific northwest, Udall added in an interview.

He indicated the future of the treaty, under which Canada and the United States would join to harness the big west coast river for power and flood control, may be discussed at another session of the Canada-U.S. ministerial committee on economic affairs expected to be held at Ottawa next January.

B.C.-OTTAWA DISAGREE

But even this discussion is unlikely to produce any firm conclusions, he added. The major roadblock was a dispute between the Canadian and British Columbia governments on the question of exporting surplus power to the U.S. and means of financing construction of three Canadian dams to feed more Columbia water into U.S. generating plants.

Canada would get half the extra power produced. Premier Bennett of B.C. wants to sell the Canadian portion of the power back to the United States and use the proceeds to finance dam construction. Prime Minister Diefenbaker wants the power to be used in Canada to attract more industry. An argument often voiced by those opposed to power exports is that once an agreement is signed to supply a community with power it becomes almost impossible to terminate that contract without causing the consumers extreme hardship.

Udall, a former Arizona congressman, said he believes that argument is a lot of nonsense.

"That's why I spoke out

rather strongly at Seattle last week," Udall said. "What the Canadians intend to do about the Columbia River treaty is up to them. I don't expect and don't intend to intrude in their internal problems."

"But I don't think there is much force to the argument that if you contract to export power, you cannot stop the shipment once the contract is terminated."

LONG-TERM BASIS

"I'm drawing on long experience in this field. Once a contract is signed, it will be enforced, including the return of power to Canada. Naturally, a power supply contract would have to be on a fairly long-term basis."

Certain statements attributed to Udall in Seattle last week brought an official request from Justice Minister Fulton of Canada for clarification.

Fulton said press reports quoted Udall as saying he had no doubt the sale to the U.S. of Canada's portion of the Columbia River power would be approved by Ottawa and that Canadian concern over recapture of power sold to the U.S. was nonsense.

Udall issued a statement last Friday saying what he had stated in Seattle earlier in the week was that it would be "nonsense for anyone to take the position that the United States would not honor any commitment made to return the power to Canada if the Canadians so desire at the expiration of the agreed-to contract."

VENEZUELAN AIRLINER
HIJACKED BY STUDENTS

CARACAS (AP) — The Venezuelan airline Avensa announced leftist students seized one of its passenger liners today and dropped on Caracas leaflets assailing the government of President Romulo Betancourt. Then the students forced the plane to land at Curacao, Netherlands Antilles.

Two Venezuelan air force bombers took off in an attempt to intercept the plane after the pilot reported by radio that he was being forced at pistol point to change his course. They failed to catch up, however, and the plane landed at Curacao where heavily armed police and marines immediately surrounded it.

U.S. 'FINDS' NEEDLES
BUT HAYSTACK MISSING

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The air force has recorded four radar glimpses that may have come from those elusive 350 million tiny copper "needles" hurled into orbit Oct. 21. But it still doesn't know enough to be sure where they are.

The "needles," known technically as dipoles were intended to reflect high frequency radar and radio. They are only a third the thickness of a human hair each and about seven tenths of an inch long. They should be in orbit about 2,100 miles above the earth.
